SUZC CANAL.—The Suez Canal is ninety-two miles long and cost about $102,750,000.

MANCHESTER SHIP CANAL.—Cost of canal about $77,000,000. For the half year ending June 30, 1899, the gross revenue of the Ship Canal proper amounted to £124,133, and the expenditure to £91,359, leaving a net balance of £32,825. The Bridgewater canals furnished an additional net revenue of £21,904, making a balance available to meet fixed charges amounting to £55,755. The interest on debentures issued to the public requires £34,742; a mortgage on surplus lands absorbs £1,000, and the interest on the debentures held by the Manchester Corporation amounts to £112,500, making a total sum of £158,242. There is consequently a deficit for the half year of £102,417. A comparison with the corresponding period in 1898, however, shows that some progress is being made, the gross receipts of the Ship Canal showing an increase of £17,485, while the total net balance expanded by £11,125. Should the present growth of revenue be maintained it will be some nine years before the undertaking is able to overtake its fixed charges.—The Economist.

BALTIC CANAL.—Also known as the "North Sea and Baltic" and "Kiel" Canal. The canal is a waterway of great strategical importance for the Imperial fleets. It permits the German naval forces to concentrate themselves either in one sea or the other in a very few hours.

PANAMA CANAL.—Length, 46 1/2 miles; estimated time of transit, 14 hours. The construction of a canal with locks has been pronounced practicable by an international board of French, English, German, Russian, and American engineers. The new plans provide for the usual system of locks and dams. Good harbors exist at the Atlantic and Pacific terminals. The canal is practically finished from Colon to Bujeon, 14 miles; this however, is the least expensive part. The great trouble is in passing through the Culebra Ridge. The width of the canal will be 160 feet at the top and 72 feet at the bottom, except through the ridge, where it will be 78 feet at the top and 29 feet at the bottom. The cost of completing the canal, it is said, will not exceed $100,000,000. About $75,000,000 is estimated as having already been expended on the canal, resulting in the accomplishment of about 40 per cent of the entire amount of excavation that will be required. Time required for completion, about ten years.

NICARAGUA CANAL.—Projected to connect the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, using the waters of Lake Nicaragua. Total distance from ocean to ocean, 139.3 miles, depth of canal, 30 feet; least width at bottom, 100 feet; time transit from ocean to ocean, 44 hours; length of Lake Nicaragua, 110 miles; average width, 40 miles; surface area, about 2,600 square miles; area of watershed of lake, about 8,000 square miles.
From New York to San Francisco by water, around Cape Horn, the distance at present is 15,660 miles by the Nicaragua Canal the distance between the same points will be 4,907 miles, a saving of 10,753 miles. The distances in statute miles from New York to the Pacific Ocean by the principal land and water routes are as follows. By water to Cape Horn, 7,897; by Southern Pacific Railroad, 3,709; by Canadian Pacific Railroad, 3,619; by Central Pacific Railroad, 3,269; by Northern Pacific Railroad, 3,237; by Nicaragua Canal, 2,519. Distance from Manila to New York in nautical miles, via Suez Canal, 11,565; via Nicaragua Canal, 1,746. Distance from Manila to London in nautical miles, via Suez Canal, 9,600; via Nicaragua Canal, 14,880. Estimated cost of construction of Nicaragua Canal by Nicaragua Canal Commission was $125,000,000; time required for construction, about seven years.

The Submarine Cables of the World.

The following table sets forth the entire system of submarine cables of the world, including those along the shores and in the bays, gulfs, and estuaries of rivers, but excepting those in lakes and the interior watercourses of continents. The list includes all cables operated by private companies, and in addition thereof under the name of each nation is given the list of cables operated by the government of that nation.

Electrical Progress in 1899.

IN GENERAL.

THE close of the year 1899 found the electrical industry in all its departments in a remarkable and unprecedented state of prosperity and progress. The general increase in our export trade was shared by electrical manufacturers, but not to such an extent as will obtain in the near future, on account of the fact that just at present the domestic market cannot be promptly supplied with electrical products. Throughout the country electrical shops are crowded to their utmost capacity, and if the present prosperity continues, facilities for manufacturing will have to be materially increased. Recently published statistics from an authoritative source estimate that the total American capital in the electrical industry, almost the whole of it producing a rate of return far above the average market price of money, reaches the surprising grand total of $3,260,000,000. These results have been accomplished practically in the last twenty years and indicate a future for electrical development that can scarcely be imagined.

Careful students of the situation believe that the greatest electrical progress, outside of the field of pure invention, will lie in the direction of cheapening the cost of production and distribution of electric current. The alternating current, which can be much more economically transmitted to distant points, will, it is thought, eventually displace the direct current, except for special services.

Another electrical exposition was held in the Madison Square Garden, New York City, during May, 1899. A handsome collection of electrical apparatus and devices was made, but no startling novelties were shown. A demonstration of wireless telegraphy on a small scale attracted considerable interest, and an extensive collection of electromobilities was exhibited. The most interesting of these was an electric railway repair wagon.

The National Export Exposition, held at Philadelphia during the Fall months, utilized the electric current liberally for decorative purposes, and also included a department devoted to the exhibition of electrical apparatus.

THE TELEGRAPH.

The principal advance of the year has been in the development of wireless telegraphy. There has been reported a test of a new system of very high speed telegraphy in Austria. This system is no great novelty. Two Hungarian engineers, Pollak and Virag, conceived the idea of using a system practically similar to that employed on cables for high-speed telegraphy. The messages are first given to an operator of a typewriter machine, which punches certain arrangements of long and short holes in a paper strip, similar to that used in the familiar "ticker," corresponding to the letters of the alphabet. These holes are so arranged that when the paper tape is run through a proper sending machine certain positive and negative impulses corresponding to each letter will be sent out on the line. For example, the letter A consists of one positive and one negative impulse; the letter B of one negative and three positive impulses, and so for the other letters of the alphabet. This tape, once prepared, can be sent through the sending machine with great speed. The machine is very simple. A spool, over which runs the tape, has two metallic rings imbedded in it under the holes on the sides of the tape corresponding to positive or negative impulses. Over these two springs bear upon the paper strip. When a hole passes on either side, the corresponding spring presses through it upon the cylinder of metal beneath, completing an electrical circuit. Through this arrangement the line is given connection with the positive or negative side of the sending battery in such combinations as indicate each letter. The impulses arrive at the receiving end, and traverse a simple galvanometer arrangement which deflects to left or right accordingly as the impulses are positive or negative. A mirror mounted upon the moving part of the instrument reflects a beam of light which is allowed to fall on a sensitive photographic paper tape or sheet moved by clockwork. In this way the right and left deflections are recorded. A speed of over 100,000 words per hour on long lines has been attained with this system.

Signor Marconi and several assistants came to New York City in September to report the international yacht races off Sandy Hook by wireless telegraphy. Sending apparatus were located aboard two steamships, which followed the yachts, and receiving stations were placed, one on the cable-ship Mackay-Bennett, anchored near the Sandy Hook Lightship, and the other on shore at the Highlands of Navesink. Bulletins of the progress of the race were sent from the following steamships to the Mackay-Bennett, and were received on a Morse tape recorder. They were then translated, written out, and telegraphed to New York City over a submarine cable, the end of which was connected to telegraph instruments aboard the Mackay-Bennett. The cable-ship was used for the experiments, which were successful, under the auspices of the Postal Telegraph Cable Company and the Commercial Cable Company. The Western Union Telegraph Company also had an ocean telegraph station off Sandy Hook in the form of a schooner at anchor with the end of a cable aboard connected with telegraph instruments. Newspaper tugs carried their bulletins to the schooner, from which they were telegraphed to New York in the ordinary manner.

The Signal Corps of the army made several experiments with Marconi's system of wireless telegraphy, with a view to its adoption by the corps for military use. The Navy Department also appointed a board of officers to report on tests made with the system between the cruiser New York, the battle-ship Massachusetts, and the torpedo-boat Porter. It is understood that neither of these tests was completely successful, and that it is doubtful if the Government adopts the system, chiefly on account of the high value Mr. Marconi places on his system and patents, about the validity of which there seems to be some doubt.

At the close of the year it was estimated that about $250,000,000 was invested in telegraphs in the United States. This includes the money invested in the plants of the two great companies, railroad telegraphs, messenger systems, and fire and police telegraphs.

THE TELEPHONE.

Telephony progressed during the last year at more rapid strides than any other branch of electrical development. The Bell interests in the Middle Northern States were practically combined into one system, which has become known as the Erie System, and which is probably at the present time the most extensive of the licensees of the American Bell Telephone Company. The Bell companies on the Pacific coast were also practically combined into one organization. The number of instruments issued by the American Bell Telephone Company to its licensees was the largest in its history. The company's system now includes about 500,000 subscribers, and represents a value of probably $225,000,000.

The system of the New York Telephone Company had at the end of the year 1899 over 37,000 stations in the boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx, this being a gain of about 10,000 stations for the year. In Greater New York there was a total of over 49,000 stations, the boroughs of Brooklyn, Queens, and Richmond being served by a separate company. The number of public stations added to the system during the year was proportionate. In the matter of direct underground distribution of subscribers' lines much progress was made, and at present about 70 per cent of the stations are connected by wires which go overhead at no point between the telephone instruments and the switchboard. During the year the company opened two new exchanges operated on the common battery system, and installed new switchboards operating on this system in three of its old exchanges. The new system has proven very popular with subscribers on account of the marked gain in rapidity and accuracy of operation. The work of converting the remaining portions of the company's system to this basis is now in progress. The company has reduced its rates for service, and practically the entire system has been put on the "measured service" basis.

The "independent" telephone movement progressed greatly during the year, chiefly in the Middle Western States. There are now nearly 3,000 "independent" telephone exchanges in the United States, serving about 250,000 subscribers, at rates usually lower than the Bell charges for the same service. Toward the close of the year a number of prominent capitalists formed the Continental Telephone, Telegraph, and Cable Company, with a paid-in capital of $25,000,000. The object of the company, it was announced, was to connect together the "independent" exchanges throughout the country and to provide them with a long-distance service similar to that provided by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company for the licenses of the American Bell Telephone Company. The formation of the Continental Company, in the opinion of many, indicated that the American Bell Telephone Company would at last have a real competitor in its formerly exclusive field.

ELECTRIC LIGHTING.

The most noteworthy development of electric lighting during the year was the increased use of the long-burning inclosed arc lamp, especially for street lighting. These economical and efficient lamps are rapidly extending their field of usefulness, and there are probably 125,000 of them in service in Greater New York alone.

The Dewey celebrations in New York City and elsewhere were wonderfully enhanced by the use of electric lamps for decorative lighting. At the night ceremonies in New York the city was literally aflame with light. The Dewey Arch in Madison Square was an artistic glow of radiance, and search-lights, located on high places, pierced the heavens with their beams. The largest electric sign ever constructed was that on the Brooklyn Bridge. It was composed of letters nearly forty feet high, forming the words "Welcome Dewey," and could be seen from a long distance down the bay.

Soldiers returning from the war were welcomed in their home cities by arches and avenues of triumph, electrically illuminated.

Central electric-light stations look forward to the charging of storage batteries for the operation of electromobiles as a profitable source of revenue for their periods of light load, and are arranging to care for a large number of such customers.

While no exact statistics of electric lighting in the United States are obtainable, conservative estimates place the amount of capital now invested in this branch of the industry at $1,000,000,000. There are in service at the present time about 500,000 arc lights and over 20,000,000 incandescent lamps. In Greater New York alone there are thirty-five electric-light stations, generating current for 1,000,000 incandescent lamps, 30,000 arc lights and about 25,000 horse-power of small motors for various purposes. It is believed that the capital invested in isolated electric-lighting plants in Greater New York approximates $25,000,000.

ELECTRIC POWER.

The principal development of the year in the electric power branch of the industry was the change in the attitude of machine-tool builders toward the use of direct connected electric motors for driving tools. Formerly builders of tools were opposed to the use of motors, as involving extraordinary expense and, to a certain extent, doubtful operation. But the evident advantages of such a combination appealed to purchasers. The electrical manufacturing companies overcame such defects as existed, and machine-tool builders are now clamoring for motors to attach to their product. Several electrical manufacturing companies have entirely done away with belting, and are operating their entire plants by electric motors.

The new first-class battle-ships Kearsarge and Kentucky are completely equipped electrically, and all their auxiliary apparatus is driven by electric motors.

The plants of both the Niagara Falls Power Company and the Niagara Falls Hydraulic and Power Manufacturing Company were materially increased during the year. The vicinity of Niagara Falls and Buffalo, N. Y., is now supplied by electric current for power purposes almost exclusively.

ELECTRIC TRANSMISSION.

This field of electric development experienced a healthy growth during the year, chiefly in the increase in the number of plants generating electric current by water power and transmitting it to distant points for use. One plant in California generates current in this manner, and transmits it a distance of eighty-three miles for local service. The high prices for copper during the year enabled the manufacturers of aluminum wire and cable to place their product in competition with copper, and several plants are now using aluminum transmission lines with satisfactory results.

ELECTRIC TRACTION.

Properly included under this head is the wonderful progress made during 1899 in the development of the electromobile, or horseless carriage, propelled by electricity supplied by storage batteries. These vehicles are rapidly coming into use and their first cost is gradually being cheapened. Public electromobile service is now an established institution in New York and also in Boston, as well as several other cities in a smaller degree. Physicians especially have found that even at the present high prices for electromobiles their cost of maintenance compares favorably with that of vehicles drawn by horses. The Automobile Club of America, which includes in its membership a large number of owners of electromobiles, was formed toward the close of the year and promises to do a great deal for the development of this class of transportation, as well as giving valuable assistance to the "good-roads" movement. It has been pretty thoroughly demonstrated that the electromobile is the most economical and available type of horseless vehicle for use on city streets, but at the present time, when it is difficult to have the requisite storage batteries recharged outside of cities and towns, the steam-propelled vehicle seems to be the best adapted for interurban or touring use.

During the year the Third Avenue Railroad Company, of New York, changed over its entire system from cable traction to the underground conduit electric system. The engineering problems involved were of the most intricate and complicated character. Service was interrupted for but a few hours, and then only after the period of heavy traffic had passed. In fact, several sections of the company's road were transposed almost instantly from cable to electric traction. If present plans are carried out in the time now expected it will be but a short while before every street railway in the city of New York will be completely electrically equipped on the underground conduit system.

The street railway service of the United States is now performed almost entirely by electric traction. It is estimated that the capital liabilities of the street railways of the country at the close of the year were in the vicinity of $1,700,000,000. There are about 950 electric railways in the United States.

Help in Case of Accidents.

Drowning. 1. Loosen clothing, if any. 2. Empty lungs of water by laying body on its stomach, and lifting it by the middle so that the head hangs down. Jerk the body a few times. 3. Pull tongue forward, using handkerchief, or pin with string, if necessary. 4. Imitate motion of respiration by alternately compressing and expanding the lower ribs, about twenty times a minute. Alternately raising and lowering the arms from the sides up above the head will stimulate the action of the lungs. Let it be done gently but persistently. 5. Apply warmth and friction to extremities. 6. By holding tongue forward, closing the nostrils, and pressing the "Adam's apple" back (so as to close entrance to stomach), direct inflation may be tried. Take a deep breath and breathe it forcibly into the mouth of patient, compress the chest to expel the air, and repeat the operation. 7. DON'T GIVE UP! People have been saved after HOURS of patient, vigorous effort. 8. When breathing begins, get patient into a warm bed, give WARM drinks, or spirits in teaspoonfuls, fresh air, and quiet.

Burns and Scalds. Cover with cooking soda and lay wet cloths over it. Whites of eggs and olive oil. Olive oil or linseed oil, plain, or mixed with chalk or whiting. Sweet or olive oil and lime-water.

Lightning. Dash cold water over a person struck.

Sunstroke. Loosen clothing. Get patient into shade and apply ice-cold water to head. Keep head in elevated position.

Mad Dog or Snake Bite. Tie cord tight above wound. Suck the wound and cauterize with caustic or white-hot iron at once, or cut out adjoining parts with a sharp knife. Give stimulants, as whiskey, brandy, etc.

Stings of Venomous Insects, etc. Apply weak ammonia, oil, salt water, or iodine.

Fainting. Place flat on back; allow fresh air, and sprinkle with water. Place head lower than rest of body.

Tests of Death. Hold mirror to mouth. If living, moisture will gather. Push pin into flesh. If dead the hole will remain, if alive it will close up. Place fingers in front of a strong light. If alive, they will appear red; if dead, black or dark. If a person is dead decomposition is almost sure to set in after 72 hours have elapsed. If it does not, then there is room for investigation by the physician.

Cinders in the Eye. Roll soft paper up like a lamplighter, and wet the tip to remove. or use a medicine dropper to draw it out. Rub the other eye.

Fire in One's Clothing. Don't run—especially not downstairs or out-of-doors. Roll on carpet or wrap in woollen rug or blanket. Keep the head down, so as not to inhale flame.

Fire from Kerosene. Don't use water, it will spread the flames. Dirt, sand, or flour is the best extinguisher, or smother with woollen rug, table-cloth, or carpet.

Suffocation from Inhaling Illuminating Gas. Get into the fresh air as soon as possible and lie down. Keep warm. Take ammonia—twenty drops to a tumbler of water at frequent intervals; also, two to four drops tincture of nux vomica every hour or two for five or six hours.

Antidotes for Poisons.

First. Send for a physician.

Second. INDUCE VOMITING, by tickling throat with feather or finger. Drink hot water or strong mustard and water. Swallow sweet oil or whites of eggs.

Acids are antidotes for alkalis, and vice versa.

SPECIAL POISONS AND ANTIDOTES.

Carbolic acid. Flour and water, mucilaginous drinks.

Alkalis. Such as potash, lye, hartshorn, ammonia. Vinegar or lemon juice in water.

Arsenic, rat poison, paris green. Milk, raw eggs, sweet oil, lime-water, flour and water.

Chloroform, chloral, ether. Dash cold water on head and chest. Artificial respiration. Piece of ice in rectum. No chemical antidote.

Iodine, antimony, tartar emetic. Starch and water. Astringent infusions. Strong tea tannin.

Opium, morphine, laudanum, pargoric, soothing powders, or syrups. Strong coffee, hot bath. Keep awake and moving at any cost.

Rules in Case of Fire.

CRAWL on the floor. The clearest air is the lowest in the room. Cover head with woollen wrap, wet if possible. Cut holes for the eyes. Don't get excited.

Ex-Chief Hugh Bonner, of the New York Fire Department, gives the following rules applying to houses, flats, hotels, etc.:

Familiarize yourself with the location of hall windows and natural escapes. Learn the location of exits to roofs of adjoining buildings. Learn the position of all stairways, particularly the top landing and scuttle to the roof. Should you hear cry of "fire," and columns of smoke fill the rooms, above all KEEP COOL. Keep the doors of rooms shut. Open windows from the top. Wet a towel, stuff it in the mouth, breathe through it instead of nose, so as not to inhale smoke. Stand at window and get benefit of outside air. If room fills with smoke keep close to floor and crawl along by the wall to the window.

Do not jump unless the blaze behind is scorching you. Do not even then if the firemen with scaling ladders are coming up the building or are near. Never go to the roof, unless as a last resort and you know there is escape from it to adjoining buildings. In big buildings fire always goes to the top. Do not jump through flame within a building without first covering the head with a blanket or heavy clothing and gauging the distance. Don't get excited; try to recall the means of exit and if any firemen are in sight DON'T JUMP.

If the doors of each apartment, especially in the lower part of the house, were closed every night before the occupants retired there would not be such a rapid spread of flames.

Marriage and Divorce Laws.

(Revised to December 1, 1899.)

Marriage Licenses.—Required in all the States and Territories except New Mexico, New Jersey, New York, North Dakota, Oklahoma, and South Carolina; required in the District of Columbia.

Marriage, Prohibition of.—Marriages between whites and persons of negro descent are prohibited and punishable in Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Delaware, District of Columbia, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Indiana, Kentucky, Maryland, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, Nevada, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Virginia, and West Virginia; but are "valid and effectual in law for all purposes" in Michigan.

Marriages between whites and Indians are void in Arizona, Nevada, North Carolina, Oregon, and South Carolina.

Marriages between whites and Chinese are void in Arizona, Nevada, Oregon, and Utah.

Marriage between first cousins is forbidden in Arizona, Arkansas, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Missouri, Montana, Nevada, New Hampshire, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Dakota, Washington, and Wyoming, and in some of them is declared incestuous and void, and marriage with step-relatives is forbidden in all the States except California, Colorado, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Louisiana, Minnesota, Nebraska, New Mexico, New York, North Carolina, Oregon, Utah, and Wisconsin.

Connecticut prohibits the marriage of an epileptic, imbecile, or feeble-minded woman under 45 years of age, or cohabitation by any male of this description with a woman under 45 years of age.

Marriage, Age to Contract, Without Consent of Parents.—In all the States which have laws on this subject 21 years is the age for males; and for females 21 years in Connecticut, Florida, Illinois, Kentucky, Louisiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Virginia, West Virginia, and Wyoming, and 18 in all the other States having laws, except Maryland, in which it is 16 years.

Marriages, Voidable.—Marriages are voidable in nearly all the States when contracted under the age of consent to cohabit.

Divorce, Previous Residence Required.—Six months in Idaho, Nebraska, Nevada, South Dakota, Texas, and Wyoming; one year in Alabama, Alaska, Arizona, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Georgia, Illinois, Indian Territory, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Maine, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Montana, New Hampshire, New Mexico, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Utah, Virginia, West Virginia, Washington, and Wisconsin; two years in Florida, Indiana, Maryland, North Carolina, Tennessee, and Vermont; three years in Connecticut, New Jersey, and Massachusetts (if when married both parties were residents; otherwise five years); no statutory provision in Delaware and Louisiana.

Divorce, Absolute, Causes for.—The violation of the marriage vow is cause for absolute divorce in all the States and Territories, except South Carolina, which has no divorce laws.

Physical incapacity is a cause in all the States except California, Connecticut, Idaho, Iowa, Louisiana, New Mexico, New York, South Carolina, Texas, and Vermont. In most of these States it renders marriage voidable.

Willful desertion, six months in Arizona; one year in Arkansas, California, Colorado, Florida, Idaho, Kansas, Kentucky, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nevada, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Dakota, Utah, Wisconsin, Washington, and Wyoming; two years in Alabama, District of Columbia, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Mississippi, Nebraska, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and Tennessee; three years in Connecticut, Delaware, Georgia, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Ohio, Texas, Vermont, and West Virginia; five years in Louisiana, Virginia, and Rhode Island, though the court may in the latter State decree a divorce for a shorter period. Both parties living apart without cohabitation, five years, in Kentucky; ten years, Rhode Island.

Habitual drunkenness, in all the States and Territories, except Illinois, Maryland, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, South Dakota, Texas, Vermont, and Virginia. "Intoxication from the use of intoxicating liquors, opium, or other drugs," in Maine.

"Imprisonment for felony," or "conviction for felony," in all the States and Territories (with limitations), except Florida, Maryland, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, and South Carolina.

"Cruel and abusive treatment," "intolerable cruelty," "extreme cruelty," "repeated cruelty," or "inhuman treatment," in all the States, except Maryland, Michigan, New York, South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia, and West Virginia.

Failure by the husband to provide, six months in Arizona; one year in California, Colorado, Idaho, Nevada, and Wyoming; two years in Indiana, three years in Delaware; no time specified in Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Nebraska, New Mexico, Rhode Island, Utah, Vermont, Washington, and Wisconsin.

Fraud and fraudulent contract, in Connecticut, Delaware, Georgia, Kansas, Kentucky, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Vermont, and Washington.

Absence without being heard from, three years in New Hampshire and Ohio; seven years in Connecticut and Vermont; voluntary separation, five years, in Wisconsin. When reasonably presumed dead by the court, in Rhode Island.

"Ungovernable temper" in Kentucky; "habitual indulgence in violent and ungovernable temper," in Florida; "cruel treatment outrages, or excesses as to render their living together insupportable," in Arkansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Missouri, Tennessee, and Texas; "indignities as render life burdensome," in Missouri, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Washington, and Wyoming. Attempt to murder the other party, in Illinois, Louisiana, and Tennessee.

Insanity or idiocy at time of marriage, in Arkansas, Colorado, District of Columbia, Georgia, Iowa, and Mississippi; insanity lasting ten years, in Washington; incurable insanity and two years' confinement in an asylum in North Dakota; insanity and six years' confinement in an asylum, on six years' residence in Idaho.

Other causes in different States are as follows: "Husband notoriously immoral before marriage, unknown to wife," in West Virginia; "fugitive from justice," in Virginia; "gross misbehavior or wickedness," in Rhode Island; "any gross neglect of duty," in Kansas and Ohio; "refusal of wife to remove into the State," Tennessee; "mental incapacity at time of marriage," in Georgia; "three years with any religious society that believes the marriage relation unlawful," in Massachusetts; "joining any religious sect that believes marriage unlawful, and refusing to cohabit six months," in New Hampshire; "parties cannot live in peace and union," in Utah; "vagrancy of the husband," in Missouri and Wyoming; "refusal of wife to cohabit for twelve months," in North Carolina; "excesses," in Texas; "where wife by cruel and barbarous treatment renders condition of husband intolerable," in Pennsylvania.

In Georgia an absolute divorce is granted only after the concurrent verdict of two juries, at different terms of the court. In New York absolute divorce is granted for but one cause, adultery.

Collusion and connivance bar a divorce, also any condonation of a violation of the marriage vow.

* Statistics of pauperism apply only to inmates of almshouses. Outdoor paupers are not considered and there is no way of ascertaining their number in the United States, but it is comparatively small compared with that of European countries.

Of the 114,620 parents of the white prisoners 45,732 were native, 60,153 were foreign born, and the birthplaces of 8,735 were reported as unknown. Omitting the unknown, the percentage of prisoners of the native element was 43.19 and of the foreign element 56.81.

As to nationalities of the 60,153 foreign parents of American prisoners 29,184 were Irish, 9,987 German, 5,997 English, 4,064 English Canadian, 1,996 Scotch, 1,483 Mexican, 1,209 Italian, and 1,036 French. Other nationalities were below 1,000.

Of the 133,156 parents of the white paupers 45,215 were native, 63,587 were foreign born, and 24,354 unknown as to birthplace. Omitting the unknown, as in the case of prisoners, 41.56 per cent of the paupers were of native and 58.44 per cent of foreign extraction.

As to nationalities of 63,587 foreign parents of American paupers 32,421 were Irish, 15,629 German, 4,688 English, 2,012 English Canadians, 1,392 Scotch, and 1,368 Swedish. Other nationalities were below 1,000.

PAUPERISM IN FOREIGN COUNTRIES.

1890. Registered public paupers in England and Wales, 780,451; Ireland, 107,129; France, 290,000; Germany, 320,000; Russia, 350,000; Austria, 290,000; Italy, 270,000.

HOMICIDE IN THE UNITED STATES.

The census bulletin presenting statistics of homicide in the United States in 1890 was prepared by Frederick H. Wines, special agent on pauperism and crime. The following is the summing up of the results of his investigations:

Of 82,329 prisoners in the United States June 1, 1890, the number charged with homicide was 7,386, or 8.97 per cent.

Omitting 35 who were charged with double crimes, 6,958 of them (or 94.65 per cent) were men, and 393 (or 5.35 per cent) were women.

As to color, 4,425 were white, 2,739 negroes, 94 Chinese, 1 Japanese, and 92 Indians.

As to the nativity of the 4,425 whites, 3,157 were born in the United States, 1,213 were foreign born, and the birthplace of 55 is unknown.

A careful and accurate inquiry into the parentage of those born in the United States results in the mathematical conclusion that 56.14 per cent of homicides committed by white men and women is chargeable to the native white element of the population, and 43.86 per cent to the foreign element. On the same scale of 4,614 to 3,605, the negro contribution to homicide is represented by 5.478.

The percentage of those who can both read and write is 61.73; of those who can read only, 4.84; of those who can do neither, 33.43. Of the negroes, more than one-half can neither read nor write; of the Indians, nearly two-thirds. The percentage of illiteracy among the foreign born is nearly or quite three times as great as that among the native whites.

The number who have received a higher education is 253, or 3.44 per cent.

The number employed at the time of their arrest was 5,659; unemployed, 1,225; unknown, 467.

The habits of 973, in respect of use of intoxicating liquors, are not stated. The remaining 6,378 are classed as follows: Total abstainers, 1,282; occasional or moderate drinkers, 3,829; drunkards, 1,267.

As to their physical condition, 6,149 were in good health, 600 ill, 283 insane, 24 blind, 14 deaf and dumb, 18 idiots, and 263 crippled.

According to the Chicago Tribune there were 7,840 homicides in 1898, as against 9,520 in 1897, and 10,652 in 1896.

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT.

The States in which the death penalty is forbidden by law are Colorado, Rhode Island, Maine, Michigan, and Wisconsin. It was abolished in Iowa, but afterward restored. In Rhode Island the only alternative is imprisonment for life. In Kansas the signature of the Governor is necessary to an execution. The death penalty is inflicted in all the States for murder, except the five above named; and in addition, in Louisiana, for rape, assault with intent to kill, administering poison, arson, and burglary; in Delaware and North Carolina, for rape, arson, and burglary; in Alabama, for rape, arson, robbery, treason, immoral relations with female under ten years of age, or married woman by falsely personating her husband; in Georgia, for rape, mayhem, and arson; in Missouri, for perjury and rape; in Virginia, West Virginia, South Carolina, and Mississippi, for rape and arson; in Florida, Kentucky, Tennessee, Texas, and Arkansas, for rape; in Montana, for arson of dwelling by night; in Maryland, for any variety of arson. In some of these instances the court may, in its discretion, substitute imprisonment. States in which the judge may substitute life imprisonment for the death penalty on the recommendation of the jury are: Alabama, Arizona, California, South Dakota, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Mississippi, Nebraska, Ohio, Oklahoma, and South Carolina, and those in which a like discretion is given to the trial court are: Minnesota, New Mexico, North Dakota, and Texas. In Utah the court may exercise the discretion if the jury so recommends. In New York and Ohio the death penalty is now inflicted by the means of electricity.

Suicides.

In European cities the number of suicides per 100,000 inhabitants is as follows: Paris, 42; Lyons, 29; St. Petersburg, 7; Moscow, 11; Berlin, 36; Vienna, 28; London, 23; Rome, 8; Milan, 6; Madrid, 3; Genoa, 31; Brussels, 15; Amsterdam, 14; Lisbon, 2; Christiania, 25; Stockholm, 27; Constantinople, 12; Geneva, 11; Dresden, 51. Madrid and Lisbon show the lowest, Dresden the highest figure.

The average annual suicide rate in countries of the world per 100,000 persons living is given by Barker as follows: Saxony, 31.1; Denmark, 25.8; Schleswig-Holstein, 24.0; Austria, 21.2; Switzerland, 20.2; France, 15.7; German Empire, 14.3; Hanover, 14.0; Queensland, 13.5; Prussia, 13.3; Victoria, 11.5; New South Wales, 9.3; Bavaria, 9.1; New Zealand, 9.0; South Australia, 8.9; Sweden, 8.1; Norway, 7.5; Belgium, 6.9; England and Wales, 6.9; Tasmania, 5.3; Hungary, 5.2; Scotland, 4.0; Italy, 3.7; Netherlands, 3.6; United States, 3.5; Russia, 2.9; Ireland, 1.7; Spain, 1.4.

The causes of suicide in European countries are reported as follows: Of 100 suicides: Madness, delirium, 18 per cent; alcoholism, 11; vice, crime, 19; different diseases, 2; moral sufferings, 6; family matters, 4; poverty, want, 4; loss of intellect, 14; consequence of crimes, 3; unknown reasons, 19.

The number of suicides in the United States, six years, 1882-87, was 8,226. Insanity was the principal cause, shooting the favorite method; 5,386 acts of suicide were committed in the day, and 2,419 in the night. Summer was the favorite season, June the favorite month, and the 11th the favorite day of the month. The month in which the largest number of suicides occur is July.

The number of suicides in 45 United States cities in the decade 1889-1898 was 16,409. In the principal cities the number was: New York, 3,319; Chicago, 2,937; Brooklyn, 1,359; St. Louis, 1,269; Philadelphia, 1,165; Boston, 693. The highest rate per 100,000 of population was St. Louis, 25.6, and the lowest Holyoke, Mass., 3.3. These figures are by Frederick L. Hoffman, in the New York Spectator for June 15, 1899.

Lynchings, Legal Executions, and Embezzlements.

The lynchings in 1898 were distributed as follows: Arkansas, 17; South Carolina, 14; Georgia, 12; Missouri, 6; Kentucky, 6; Louisiana, 6; Texas, 3; Maryland, 2; Oklahoma, 1; Washington, 1; Wyoming, 3; Illinois, 1; Indiana, 1; Mississippi, 15; Indian Territory, 3; New Mexico, 1; Alabama, 12; North Carolina, 4; Tennessee, 6; Virginia, 4; West Virginia, 1; Florida, 1; Alaska, 1; Kansas, 1; Montana, 1. Of the total number 102 were negroes, 23 whites and 2 Indians. Up to September 11 there were 92 persons lynched in the United States in 1899.

Legal Executions.—The number of legal executions in 1898 was 109, as compared with 128 in 1897, 122 in 1896, 132 in 1895, 132 in 1894, 126 in 1893, and 107 in 1892. The legal executions in 1898 were distributed as follows: Louisiana 10; Arkansas, 6; Alabama 3; Mississippi, 6; Tennessee, 2; Missouri 5; Florida, 1; Maryland, 1; Massachusetts, 3; Oregon, 2; Minnesota, 2; Connecticut, 1; Ohio, 2; Georgia, 8; Virginia, 8; South Carolina, 4; Texas, 10; North Carolina, 2; Indian Territory, 2; Kentucky 3; California, 10; New York, 3; Illinois, 6; Washington, 1; Pennsylvania, 7; New Jersey, 1. There were 72 hanged in the South and 37 in the North, of whom 60 were whites, 48 blacks, and 1 Chinese. The crimes for which they were executed were murder, 100 and assault, 9.

Embezzlements.—The record of embezzling, forgery, defaulting, and bank-wreckage for 1898 showed a material decrease, being but $5,851,263, as compared with $11,248,084 in 1897 and being much the smallest total since 1888. Of the total number of cases reported, nine persons stole over $50,000 each, nine over $100,000 each, one over $200,000, one over $300,000, one over $400,000, and two over $500,000 each. Stolen by city and county officials, $976,846, from banks $2,901,891; by agents, $510,595; forgeries, $324,260; from loan associations, $349,800; by postmasters, $21,143; miscellaneous stealings, $1,066,788.

The Defective Classes.

The Insane.—The total number of insane in the United States on June 1, 1890 (census of the United States), was 106,485—whites, 99,719; negroes, 6,535; Chinese, Japanese, and civilized Indians, 231. The number of insane males was 53,473, and of insane females 53,012. The total number of insane reported in 1880 was 91,959. The number of insane in each 100,000 of the population in 1890 was 337.0 for the foreign whites, 140.5 for the native whites and 88.6 for the colored. In 1880 the corresponding figures were 398.8, 161.9, and 91.2.

The proportion of insanity was much greater among the whites than among the negroes, and very much greater among the foreign born than among the native born.

The number of insane in asylums in 1890 was 74,028—whites, 69,729; negroes, 4,299. The number of insane in asylums in each 1,000 of insane was: Whites, 699; negroes, 658.

The number of insane admitted to public institutions from 1881 to 1889 inclusive, was 190,458. The number admitted to private institutions in the same period, 13,833.

Reports from thirty States to the Committee on States of the National Conference of Charities and Correction showed 102,000 insane persons in 1896. At this rate the whole United States would have 145,000 insane.

The Feeble Minded.—The total number of feeble minded in the United States on June 1, 1890, was 95,609—whites, 84,997; negroes, 10,574; males, 62,962; females 42,647; native-born whites, 75,910; foreign-born whites, 9,087.

The Deaf and Dumb.—The total number of deaf mutes in the United States on June 1, 1890, was 40,592—whites, 37,447; negroes, 3,115, others 30, males 22,429; females, 18,163; native-born whites, 33,278; foreign-born whites, 4,169.

The number of persons so deaf as to be unable to hear loud conversation on June 1, 1890, was 121,178, of whom 89,611 were able to speak. The latter were 49,278 males, 31,338 females, 77,308 whites, 3,308 negroes.

The Blind.—The total number of blind in the United States on June 1, 1890, was 50,568—whites, 43,351; negroes, 7,060; others, 157; males, 28,080; females, 22,488; native-born whites, 34,205; foreign-born whites, 9,146. The number of blind in one eye only was 93,985.

The number of insane persons in Great Britain and Ireland in 1895, according to Mulhall, was 123,396, or 3,160 per million population; Austria (1890), 102,080; Hungary (1890) 65,545. The number of insane in Germany in 1884 was 103,100; France, 93,900; Russia, 80,000.

The statistics for 1865 are from M. de Foville's work, "France Economique." Those for 1885 and 1896 from Mulhall. The most important fact to be learned from them is the steady decrease of the birth rate in most European nations.

In "Statistique Humaine de la France," M. J. Bertillon presents the following table showing that the French are the least prolific and the Germans the most prolific people of Europe:

Number of children born alive annually per 1,000 women of 15 to 50 years: France, 102; Ireland, 114; Belgium, 127; England, 136; Netherlands, 137; Spain, 141; Prussia, 150; Bavaria, 156.

The most productive age for mothers is 15 to 24, for fathers from 23 to 31. Of 100 mothers, 48 of the said age will have children yearly; of 100 fathers, only 34. The reproductive age of men may be said to cease at 60, although at 65 the chance of paternity is 3 in 1,000, at 69 is 2 in 1,000.—Mulhall.

The birth rate per 1,000 inhabitants in the United States, in 1890, was estimated by Dr. Billings, of the Census Office, as about 31.5.

As to the decreasing birth rate, Dr. Billings says: "It is probable that the most important factor in the change is the deliberate and voluntary avoidance or prevention of child bearing on the part of a steadily increasing number of married people, who not only prefer to have but few children, but know how to obtain their wish." Dr. Cyrus M. Edson agrees with Dr. Billings as to the fact of the deliberate avoidance of child bearing, but thinks that the principal cause is the physical and nervous deterioration of the women of the United States, and this, he asserts, is largely due to the severe strain of modern life and education.

BARRENNESS.—One woman in 20 and one man in 30 are barren—that is, 4 per cent of population. It is found that one marriage in 20 is barren, say 5 per cent. Among the nobility of England 21 per cent have no children, owing to intermarriage of cousins, no less than 4½ per cent of the present nobility being married to cousins.—Mulhall.

Dr. S. D. Van Meter, of Denver, doubts the accuracy of the theory that consanguinity in marriage is a cause of barrenness, and attributes it to a physical cause.

CHILD BIRTH, DEATHS IN.—The average for 20 years in England and Wales has been 32 per 10,000 births—that is, 1½ per cent of all mothers die sooner or later in childbirth.—Mulhall.

The above table is on the authority of Mulhall, as are also the following statements:

CANCER.—Mental worry, says Dr. Herbert Snow, of the Cancer Hospital, is the chief exciting cause of cancer. In 1891-95 the average number of deaths from cancer in England was 21,194. About 60 per cent were females. GOITRE.—There are 420,000 goitrous people in France and 2 per cent of conscripts are rejected for this cause. LEPROSY.—There are 131,618 lepers in India, 98,982 males and 32,636 females. No other country in the world approaches India in this respect.

PLAGUES.—There were 196 destructive plagues in Europe from 1500 to 1840, but the most terrible recorded was that commonly known as the Black Death, which came from Persia into Europe in 1346. It was preceded by myriads of locusts, which filled the wells and poisoned the water of the countries east of the Caspian Sea. At Bagdad 500,000 people died in 90 days; at Cairo the mortality reached 10,000 in 24 hours. In Europe it lasted four years, and was supposed to have carried off 24,000,000 persons, more than 30,000 towns and villages being depopulated. So late as 1350 ships were met at sea with all on board dead. Among the cities which suffered were: London, 100,000 deaths; Florence, 100,000; Valencia, 100,000; Venice, 70,000; Naples, 60,000; Paris, 50,000; Genoa and Vienna, 40,000 each.

NEW YORK.

Deer.—Open season in Kings, Queens, Nassau, and Suffolk Counties and Long Island Sound first two Wednesdays and the first two Fridays in November, elsewhere from August 15 to November 15; but absolutely prohibited in Ulster, Greene, Delaware, and Sullivan Counties prior to August 15, 1901. (Venison lawfully killed may be possessed till November 15. If possessed from November 15 to 20, possessor or seller must prove that the killing was done within the lawful periods or out of the State.) Taking deer alive for breeding in State parks permitted at any time anywhere. Only two can be killed or taken alive by anybody each season. Fawns must never be killed or caught. No traps, salt licks, or other devices shall be made or used. No jacklight or any other artificial light shall be used prior to June, 1902. Dogs must not be used for hounding purposes, nor be permitted to run at large in forests where deer inhabit, by owner or persons having charge of same prior to August 15, 1902. This prohibition as to dogs does not apply to Long Island. Dogs while chasing deer in violation of law may be killed by any person. Hounding deer in Dresden and Putnam, Washington County, before 1907 is forbidden. Only one carcass may be transported from county where killed.

Moose, Elk, Caribou, and Antelope shall not be hunted, killed, possessed, or sold at any time. Meat of same, however, may be possessed or sold in the season of lawful possession.

Beaver.—Must not be caught or killed at any time.

Black and Gray Squirrels shall not be killed, except from Sept. 1 to Dec. 15 inclusive; on Long Island and Long Island Sound, open season from Nov. 1 to Dec. 31 inclusive.

Hares and Rabbits.—Shall not be killed, nor (except in that portion of Long Island which is embraced in the City of New York) shall they be possessed in Long Island and Long Island Sound, except from Nov. 1 to Dec. 31, both inclusive. Use of ferrets is prohibited. In the counties of Livingston, Wyoming, Erie, Sullivan, Oneida, Orange, Schoharie, Montgomery, Fulton and Hamilton, Albany, Greene, Ulster, and Columbia, hares and rabbits shall not be killed except from Sept. 1 to Dec. 15. The owner of any inclosed or occupied farm lands may, of himself or by any member of his household, kill rabbits and English hares on his own premises at any time.

Web-footed Wild Fowl.—Except wild geese and brant. Open season is from September 1 to May 1. Open season in Kings, Queens, Nassau, and Suffolk Counties and Long Island Sound (wild geese and brant not excepted) from October 1 to April 30. On the Hudson River south of the Troy dam, boats propelled by hand or a floating device may be used for the purpose of shooting web-footed fowl. Must not be killed or caught in any way save with gun raised at arm's length, and fired from the shoulder without other rest. Boats propelled by hand and floating devices may be used in Long Island Sound, Great South Bay west of Smith's Point, Shinnecock, Gardiner, and Peconic Bays, and saltboats may be used in Long Island Sound, Gardiner and Peconic Bays in pursuit of wild fowl. Hours limited between sunrise and sunset.

Quail.—Open season from November 1 to December 15. Can be sold and possessed from November 1 to December 31, but possession thereof after December 15 is forbidden unless it be proved by the possessor that said birds were killed within the lawful period for killing, or outside the State, and in the counties of Genesee and Montgomery at no time prior to January 1, 1903. These provisions do not apply to Robin's Island or Gardiner's Island.

Partridge or Grouse and Woodcock.—Open season in Long Island and Long Island Sound from Nov. 1 to Dec. 31. (Woodcock can be killed from Aug. 1 to Dec. 31.) Nor shall either of such birds be possessed, dead or alive, or sold, after Jan. 5. Possession thereof during the first five days of January is forbidden, unless it be proved by the possessor or seller that said birds were killed within the lawful period for killing the same on Long Island. (Open season for woodcock in Richmond County from July 4 to Dec. 31; in Clinton, Essex, Warren, Fulton and Hamilton Counties, Aug. 15 to Dec. 15. In Rensselaer County woodcock and grouse protected to Sept. 1, 1903.) Open season elsewhere from Sept. 1 to Dec. 15; in Oneida County from Sept. 1 to Nov. 15; in Ulster County from Oct. 1 to Dec. 15. Not more than thirty-six of above-named birds to be killed or taken alive by any person in any open season. Cannot be sold or possessed except from Sept. 1 to Dec. 31, but possession or sale thereof after Dec. 15 is forbidden, unless it is proved that the birds were caught or killed in the lawful period or out of the State. This provision does not apply to Long Island. Transportation (not more than twelve at any one time) allowed only when with owner. No partridge or grouse shall be snared, trapped, or netted. Meadow larks must not be killed, or possessed after they are dead, at any time.

English Snipe, Plover, Rail, Bay Snipe, or Shore Bird.—Must not be killed or possessed during May, June, July, and August. Open season in Long Island and Long Island Sound July 1 to Dec. 31. Meadow Hens.—Meadow hens, mud hens, gallinule or water chicken, or grebe shall not be killed or possessed from Dec. 31 to Aug. 15 in Long Island and Long Island Sound. Wild Birds.—Must never be killed, caught, or possessed, living or dead, nor nests robbed or needlessly destroyed, except English sparrow, crane, hawk, crow, raven, crow-blackbird, common blackbird, or Kingfisher.

Mongolian Pheasant.—The killing, exposing for sale, or possession after killing is prohibited. This prohibition does not apply to Suffolk County, where they may be killed from Oct. 1 to Jan. 31.

Bass, Pickerel, and Pike.—Open season for black bass and Oswego bass from June 15 to December 31; in Jefferson County, June 10 to December 31; in Lake George and Schroon Lake, August 1 to December 15; in waters of Thousand Islands, June 10 to December 31; in Kings, Queens, Nassau, and Suffolk Counties and Long Island Sound, May 30 to December 31; in Jamaica Bay angling is lawful every day. Pickerel, pike, or wall-eyed pike may be caught and possessed between May 1 and last day of February. Warren County (Lake George).—Fish of any kind must not be taken from East Brook and West Brook tributaries, in town of Caldwell, Harris or Edmund Brook, Indian Brook, and Finkle Brook, in the town of Bolton, at any time prior to year 1903. No person shall fish in any manner in Lake George or Glen Lake or tributaries for any pike-perch or any great northern pike between January 1 and June 15, or bullheads between January 1 and July 1; nor black bass or Oswego bass from any of the waters in the town of Horicon between January 1 and July 10. Perch may be caught by angling in Lake George at any time. Black bass must be ten inches long, not more than twenty-four to be taken by any person in one day, and in waters of Thousand Islands not more than twelve must be caught by a single person in one day.

Salt-water Striped Bass less than eight inches in length shall not be intentionally taken from any of the waters of New York State, nor possessed; nor shall any person fish for or take any striped bass from the Hudson River with a net of any kind between March 31 and July 1.

Muskallonge.—Open season from May 30 to last day of February. In waters of Thousand Islands June 10 to Dec. 31. Salmon.—Open season from March 1 to Aug. 15. Must be fifteen inches long.

Salmon Trout and Land-locked Salmon.—Open season from May 1 to September 30, except that in the counties of Dutchess, Ulster, Sullivan, Orange, Rockland, Putnam, Westchester, and Richmond land-locked salmon, otherwise known as ouananiche, shall not be caught, except from April 1 to June 30, both inclusive. In Kings, Queens, Nassau, and Suffolk Counties and Long Island

Sound from April 1 to September 30. Must be fifteen inches long and must not be molested while spawning. Transportation allowed only when with owner.

Trout.—Open season from April 16 to August 31. In Kings, Queens, Nassau, and Suffolk Counties and Long Island Sound from March 29 to August 31. Must be six inches long. Must not be molested while spawning. Transportation allowed only when with owner. Private ponds or streams must not be stocked with trout of any kind taken from the waters of the State.

Baseball.

THE PROFESSIONAL ARENA.

THE NATIONAL LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIP SEASON OF 1899.

THE professional baseball season of 1899 ended the eighth year's existence of the major League with its twelve-club circuit, and it would have been the most profitable season of its career but for the faulty management which characterized the running of the League's business, this costly drawback comprising the continuance of the abuse known as "kicking"—disputing the decisions of the umpires—with its sequence of unruly conduct on the field, an evil which had had such damaging financial effect in 1898. It will be remembered that when the National League was reconstructed in the Fall of 1891, and took its pick of the American Association clubs, and became a twelve-club organization and the ruling power in the professional world, the transaction cost the National League magnates $186,000. This great indebtedness was, however, paid off by the major League by the close of the season of 1893, thereby showing how profitable the twelve-club League had been up to 1894. From that date, however, the financial profits of each season began to decrease, and the cause of it was the gradual growth of the evil of "kicking," the result being the driving away from the grandstands the reputable class of the patrons of the game. In 1897 an era of positive turbulence began in the ranks of the players of the League clubs, and it was carried to such a disgraceful extent by a minority of the League teams that at the convention of that year repressive measures were adopted by the League magnates, and it was expected that 1898 would see an improvement shown. Instead, however, things went on from bad to worse, and, to increase the trouble, discord in League councils began to manifest itself, and the result was that the season of 1898 turned out to be the poorest financially known in the history of the major League. The Spanish War was, however, charged with being the main cause of the falling off in gate receipts in 1898, and the season of 1899 was looked forward to as one likely to compensate in receipts for that of the previous year. But again was the same costly mistake made in 1899 as in 1898, and with it came great disappointment in the failure of the cash returns to equal the rosy anticipations of financial success indulged in by the magnates in the Spring of 1899. Losing sight of the true cause of the failure, quite a cry was made in 1899 for a return by the League to the old plan of an eight-club circuit in the place of the so-called "top-heavy twelve-club circuit," the advocates of the return to old plans forgetting that it was the abuses that had been allowed to continue which had caused the falling off in patronage, and not the number of clubs comprising the League circuit. To add to the cause of failure, a condition of "syndicate baseball" was allowed to exist, which not only helped to lessen the patronage, but also to risk the loss of the valuable prestige of playing professional baseball in its integrity, which the National League had secured by years of labor in behalf of honest ball playing. The National League with its twelve-club organization has yet two years more to live, and no constitutional change can be made in the way of reducing the number of its clubs without unanimous consent, and that consent is not at the League's command. Of course the clubs in excess of eight in the circuit could be bought out, but the costly experiment of 1891 is not likely to be again tried, and therefore the twelve-club circuit is liable to continue until the expiration of the major League's life occurs in the Fall of 1901.

What is needed at the hands of the League magnates to make the League season of 1900 one of great financial profit is, for them firstly to do away with the existing drawback to financial success of rowdiness in the ranks; secondly, to put an end to the damaging effect of syndicate baseball in lowering the prestige of the professional business for honest work, and lastly to even up the playing strength of the League teams to an extent sufficient to insure more evenly contested pennant races. Merely changing the League's circuit from twelve to eight clubs won't do it; the magnates must dig out the root of the existing evil.

The story of the pennant race of 1899 is figuratively told in brief in the appended table, which shows how each club stood in the race at the end of the season, and which club excelled in victories in the two divisions of the record:

* By a decision of the Board of Arbitration rendered on October 26, 1899, the Brooklyn club had its official record of October 15 changed through throwing out of the record nine of its championship victories and five of its defeats, a result due to a misunderstanding of the League law in the case of playing Wrigley in their September and October games. But the forfeiture of the games did not change the relative position of the Brooklyn club in the pennant race record, nor those of the clubs which played against the Brooklyn with Wrigley in the latter's team, though it did change the percentage figures of each, but only to a slight extent.

It will be seen that while the Brooklyn and Philadelphia clubs were tied in victories over first division clubs, Brooklyn was charged with the fewer defeats at the hands of the clubs of the first division, and in both respects the Brooklyn team led the Boston team by having more victories and fewer defeats. In first division club games, therefore, while Brooklyn bore off the palm, Philadelphia was second and Boston third. In victories over second division clubs, however, while Brooklyn led, Boston was second and Philadelphia third. In the aggregate Boston secured second place in the race and Philadelphia had to be content with third place.

The inter-sectional campaign in the pennant-race arena was a one-sided affair, as it has been for several years past, the six Eastern teams defeating their six Western opponents by the record of 284 victories to the West's 206. Brooklyn led the Eastern contingent, and St. Louis and Louisville were tied for the lead on the part of the West, the respective tail-enders being Washington and Cleveland. Here is the record in full:

The success of the Brooklyn club in winning the League pennant in 1899 gives the club the unique record of being a four-times winner of pennant races. The club began its career in 1883 by winning the Interstate League's pennant of that year, and it ended its American Association membership in 1889 by winning that organization's pennant. Then it began its National League history by winning that League's pennant race the first year of its membership, and in 1899 won the major League's pennant race. Here is the Brooklyn Club's pennant-winning record from 1883 to 1899 inclusive:

The only four-times winners of pennant races in four successive years known to League history were the old "Boston Red Stockings," of the decade of the seventies, and the "St. Louis Browns," of the eighties, the respective records of the two clubs being as follows:

The following table shows which player excelled in each department of the game. Thus it will be seen that Delehanty led in having the best base-hit average; Ely in making the most sacrifice hits; McGraw in excelling in stealing bases; Hughes in having the best percentage of victories in games pitched in, and Peitz the best catching record, while the leaders in the four infield and three outfield positions were Beckley, McPhee, Cross, Davis, as infielders, and Kelley, Brodie, and Keeler in the outfield, no player being named for any position (except the pitcher and catcher) who had not played in at least 100 games:

The official statistics of the League's championship season of 1899 are, of course, too voluminous for the reviewing article of the ALMANAC. We give below an analysis of the batting, base-running, fielding, and pitching of the League campaign, showing which the ten leading players are in batting, base-running, and fielding averages, as also the list of the single players who led in each position of the game for the entire season. Here is the list of the ten players who have played in 100 games and over, giving their base-hit percentages and also those of their fielding, their names being given in the order of their base-hit averages:

THE MINOR LEAGUE ARENA.

Financial success was not a feature of the minor league campaign of 1899, with perhaps a few exceptions, this result being mainly due to the great business fault of the clubs in paying too large salaries in proportion to the paying circuits of most of the leagues. They established salary boundary lines, too, for the clubs and then failed to live up to them. Moreover, they followed the bad example of the major League as regards the abuse of "kicking," and this acted as another drawback to financial profit for their club investments, the general result being that only a minority lived up to their schedule engagements the season through. A consequence of this was that there were several of the minor leagues which disbanded before the season was half over. The record of the minor leagues which finished the season with most of their clubs intact is as follows:

| LEAGUE.          | Winning Club.     | Won. | Lost. | Per Cent. | Tail-End Club.    | Difference in Points. |

The International, Canadian, Indiana, Indiana, Illinois, and Southern, Western Association, and Texas Leagues all failed to finish their respective seasons.

Of the State Leagues, the Connecticut and New York were the most successful, the New Haven club winning the former and Rome the latter. The California League did not close its season of 1899 until THE WORLD ALMANAC had gone to press, and at that time the Sacramento Club held the lead. In November, 1899, the Western League changed its name to the American League, and this ably managed organization, together with the Eastern League, will lead the minor leagues in 1900, as in the past.

THE COLLEGE CLUB RECORDS.

More college club teams took part in the amateur campaign of 1899 than ever before, the university teams in the South and West showing up to better advantage than hitherto. In the East the interest in the college arena was monopolized by the annual contests between the Harvard, Yale, and Princeton University teams, their championship record giving the palm to Princeton, as will be seen by the appended record:

University Boat-Racing.

INTERNATIONAL RACES.

- 1869, August 27 Oxford (Eng.) four beat Harvard (Am.) four over the Putney-Mortlake course on the Thames by three clear lengths. Time, 22.20 4-5.
- 1876 August 28, 29. Four-oared crews of Yale and Columbia (Am.), First Trinity, Cambridge (Eng.) and Dublin (Ire.) rowed in the open amateur race at the Centennial Regatta, Philadelphia. In a mile and a half, straightaway, with a slight current, Dublin was beaten in the first round and Yale and First Trinity in the second round, while Columbia withdrew.
- 1876, September 1. Over the same course, in the International Inter-University race, Yale won in 9.10 $\frac{1}{2}$ , with Columbia second in 9.20, while First Trinity did not finish, one of the crew fainting half-way down the course.
- 1878, July 4. At the Henley-on-Thames Royal Regatta, one mile and five-sixteenths, against a slight current, four-oared crews of Columbia (Am.) and Dublin (Ire.) were beaten in the first trial heat for the Stewards' Cup.
- 1878, July 4, 5. At the same regatta Columbia won the Visitors' Challenge Inter-University race in 8.42, beating Univ. College, Oxford; Jesus College, Cambridge, and Hertford College, Oxford.
- 1881, July 2. At Henley-on-Thames (Eng.), one mile and five-sixteenths, against a slight current, match between four-oared crews of Hertford College, Oxford University (Eng.), and Cornell Univ. (Am.), Hertford won easily. Cornell running into the bank when behind, near the finish.
- 1895, July 9, 10. Henley-on-Thames Royal Regatta, one mile and five-sixteenths, against a slight current, race for the Grand Challenge Cup in eight-oared shells. In the first round Cornell University (Am.) rowed over alone, Leander Rowing Club failing to start. In the second round Trinity Hall, Cambridge University (Eng.) beat Cornell by seven lengths in 7.15.
- 1896, July 7. Henley-on-Thames Royal Regatta, one mile and five-sixteenths, against a slight current, eight-oared shells, for the Grand Challenge Cup. Yale University (Am.) was beaten by Leander Rowing Club (Eng.) in first round of trial heats.

HARVARD AND YALE—PREVIOUS RACES.

Previous races in which Harvard and Yale have rowed are summarized as follows:

- 1852, August 3. Lake Winipiseogee, Centre Harbor, N. H., two miles straight to windward, in eight-oared barges, class of 1853, Onelda, of Harvard, beat Halcyon, of Yale, two lengths.
- 1855, July 21. Connecticut River, at Springfield, three miles with a turn, barges Iris (eight-oared) and Y. Y. (four-oared), of Harvard, beat Nereid and Nautilus (both sixes), of Yale. Alowances, 11 seconds per oar. Time: Iris, 22m.; Y. Y., 22.03; Nereid, 23.38, and Nautilus, 24.38.
- 1858, no race. George E. Dunham, stroke of the Yale crew, was drowned at Springfield, six days before the race, in a collision while at practice.
- 1859, July 26. Lake Quinsigamond, Worcester, Mass., three miles with a turn, Harvard shell, 19.18; Yale shell, 20.18. Harvard lapstreak, Avon, 21.13; Brown lapstreak, Atlanta, 24.40. Same course, July 27, in Citizens' Regatta, Yale shell, 19.14; Harvard, 19.16.
- 1860, July 24. Lake Quinsigamond, Harvard, 18.53; Yale, 19.05; Brown, 21.15.

There were no further races until 1864, when they were renewed by University six-oared crews, at three miles with a turn, and with the following results:

In 1871 was begun what were then known as the Inter-University Races, in which Harvard and Yale were contestants.

- 1871, July 21. At Springfield, three miles straight, Massachusetts Agricultural, 16.46 $\frac{1}{2}$ ; Harvard, 17.23 $\frac{1}{2}$ ; Brown, 17.47 $\frac{1}{2}$ .
- 1872, July 24. At Springfield, same course, Amherst, 16.33; Harvard, 16.57; Amherst Agricultural, 17.10; Bowdoin, 17.31; Williams, 17.59; Yale, 18.13.

UNIVERSITY BOAT-RACING—Continued.

- 1873, July 17. At Springfield, same course, Yale, 16.59; Wesleyan, 17.09; Harvard, 17.36½; Amherst, 17.40; Dartmouth, 18.07; Columbia, 18.16; Massachusetts Agricultural, 18.26½; Cornell, 18.32; Bowdoin, 18.49½; Trinity, 19.32; Williams, 19.45.
- 1874, July 18. At Saratoga, N. Y., three miles straight, Columbia, 16.42; Wesleyan, 16.50; Harvard, 16.54; Williams, 17.08; Cornell, 17.31; Dartmouth, 18.00; Trinity, 18.23; Princeton, 18.38; Yale fouled and was withdrawn.
- 1875, July 14. At Saratoga, N. Y., Cornell, 16.53½; Columbia, 17.04½; Harvard, 17.05; Dartmouth, 17.10½; Wesleyan, 17.13½; Yale, 17.14½; Amherst, 17.29½; Brown, 17.33½; Williams, 17.43½; Bowdoin, 17.50½; Hamilton and Union not timed; Princeton was withdrawn.
- 1876, July 19. At Saratoga, N. Y., Cornell, 17.01½; Harvard, 17.05½; Columbia, 17.08½; Union, 17.27½; Wesleyan, 17.58½; Princeton, 18.10. Yale refused to enter, but rowed Harvard an eight-oared race.

FRESHMEN EIGHTS.

Previous to 1880 a number of races were rowed by "Freshmen" crews of the several universities and colleges, with six oars. In 1880 an agreement was entered into by Harvard and Columbia to row an eight-oared race annually at two miles straightaway. Subsequently, first Yale, then Cornell, and finally University of Pennsylvania were admitted to these races, and after 1885 each annual contest was between some two, three, or four of these five universities.

Cricket.

(Revised to December 1, 1899.)

THE season of 1899 finished with its customary series of international matches. Prince Ranjitsinhji brought over with him a team of English amateurs, undoubtedly the strongest that has visited this country; in fact, one of the best teams that it would be possible for any one to secure in England at the present time. The Prince is undoubtedly the foremost cricketer to-day, and he was fortunate in having among his team six other players worthy of a position on an All-England Eleven.

The schedule was short, only five games being played, but the team came over at such a late date that it was practically impossible to arrange more games. The Englishmen won three games in a most decisive manner. A summary of the games and the averages follow:

Sept. 25, 26, 27, at Elmwood, Philadelphia: Prince Ranjitsinhji's XI, 185; Philadelphia Colts' XXII, 205 and 95 for ten wickets. Sept. 29, 30, Oct. 2, at Haverford, Philadelphia: Prince Ranjitsinhji's XI, 435; Gentlemen of Philadelphia, 156 and 106. Oct. 4, 5, at Livingston, Staten Island, N. Y.: Prince Ranjitsinhji's XI, 330 New York XIV., 149 and 132 for ten wickets. Oct. 7, 9, 10, at Manheim, Philadelphia: Prince Ranjitsinhji's XI, 363; Gentlemen of Philadelphia, 85 and 147. Oct. 12, 13, at Toronto, Canada: Prince Ranjitsinhji's XI, 267 (declared for seven wickets); Canada, 87 and 174.

Croquet—Rogue.

The eighteenth annual tournament of the National Croquet Association was held on the lawns of the Norwich Croquet Club, at Norwich, Ct., August 15 to 19. The championship was won by C. G. Williams, of Washington (a newcomer), who won his series with a record of 12 games won and 2 lost. W. H. Wahly, of Washington (last year's champion), was second, with 11 games won and 3 lost.

In the second division Washington's representative was again successful, and first honors were won by P. N. Peck, with a record of 13 games won and 1 lost.

First honors in the third division resulted in a tie between W. H. Congdon, of Norwich, and H. Wahly, of Washington, with scores of 10 games won and 1 lost.

Mr. Wahly could not remain to play off the tie game, which was awarded to Mr. Congdon.

Owing to the scientific development of the game, as played by members of the National Association as distinguished from the old time or ordinary croquet, the Association has considered it advisable to change the name to the National Rogue Association under which title it will hereafter be known.

Canoeing.

THE twentieth annual meeting of the American Canoe Association was held at Hay Island, in the St. Lawrence River, August 4 to 18. The first week was, as usual, principally given up to preparation, and the second week to racing. A summary of the races follows:

- Combined Sailing and Paddling, decked canoes—Won by J. R. Stewart's Wasp, Irondequoit Club.
  - Novice Sailing—Won by F. G. Palmer's Hoonyai, New York.
  - Trophy Sailing—Won by C. E. Archibald's Mab, Royal Canadian.
  - War-Canoe Race, A. C. A. championship—Won by Ah-Yan-Dora-Wah, of the Bohemian Club, of Brockville.
  - Open-Canoe Sailing—Won by C. E. Archibald's Mab II.
  - Combined Sailing and Paddling, open canoes—Won by C. E. Archibald's Mab II.
  - Atlantic Division Cup—Won by Louis May's Aziz, New York.
  - Central Division Cup—Won by C. B. Forbush.
  - Western Division Cup—Won by F. B. Huntington's Norma, Milwaukee Club.
  - Trophy Paddling—Won by J. Smith.
  - Paddling, double blades—Won by J. Smith.
  - Tandem Paddling—Won by F. Taylor and J. Smith, Toronto Club.
  - Paddling, single blades—Won by J. Smith.
  - Novice Paddling—Won by R. H. Parmenter.
  - Paddling, four men—Won by Percival, Lynch, McNeil, and Stott, of Britannia Club.
  - Gardiner Cup (Western Division, paddling)—Won by W. M. Clark.
- There was no start for the Dolphin Trophy, and no entries for the ladies' single and tandem paddling events.

The feature of the meet was the great interest taken in the war-canoe championship, which was paddle tover a course of one mile straight. No less than seven canoes, with crews of fifteen each, were entered; the contest was keen, the winners having only a few feet to the good at the finish.

Fly-Casting Records.

NOTE—In minnow casting for black bass, Mr. Davidson used a half-ounce sinker. Mr. Sturges used a quarter-ounce sinker. Under these conditions Mr. Sturges made a single cast of 148 feet, and Mr. Davidson a single cast of 173 feet.

* Mr. Hardy's cast was made in a tournament with a rod of 18 feet. Mr. Enright's cast of 147 feet was made in a tournament with a 20-foot salmon rod. Afterward with the same rod he made an exhibition cast, before reliable witnesses, of 151 feet 3 inches.

† This distance was made by measuring the line after casting.

‡ This cast of Messrs. Marston and Clark is given in English reports as the best, but for some unknown reason Mr. Wood's cast of 82 feet 6 inches and Mr. George M. Kelson's cast of 81 feet have been entirely overlooked, although both are records at an international tournament.

|| In Nottingham casting the cast is made from the reel, as is done in America.

Yachting in 1899.

THE eleventh contest for the America's Cup was the chief yachting event of the year. The Royal Ulster Yacht Club challenged for the cup on behalf of Sir Thomas Lipton, who built and brought over the cutter Shamrock. The Shamrock was built by Thornycroft at Milwall, near London, from designs by Will Fife, Jr. The yacht was built of manganese bronze, with aluminum topsides, and her spars were of nickel steel. For the defence of the cup, Commodore J. Pierpont Morgan, of the New York Yacht Club, placed an order with the Herreshoffs, and the Columbia was built at Bristol and successfully launched by moonlight on June 10. C. Oliver Iselin was made manager of the yacht. The Defender was put in commission and given a steel mast to be used as a trial boat. W. Butler Duncan, Jr., was put in charge of this boat. Captain Charles Barr was engaged as skipper of the Columbia, and the yacht was manned with sailors from Deer Island, Me. Captain Rhoades had charge of the Defender, and the crew were Scandinavian sailors. The two yachts met in several races during the year, and Columbia won every event, although the margin in some races was very small. The record of these races is as follows:

* Defender did not finish.

The Columbia allowed the Defender 1.8 seconds a mile, so the Columbia won every race, the closest margin being on August 10, when she had 6.5 seconds to spare.

The Shamrock was tried twice against the Britannia and won each race by a large margin, and she was considered a dangerous boat. By special agreement with the New York Yacht Club the Erin was allowed to tow the Shamrock on the voyage across the Atlantic. The yachts left Glasgow on August 3 and were fourteen and one-half days crossing the ocean. The Shamrock crossed under yawl rig, and as soon as she reached this port she was fitted with her racing rig and then sailed off Sandy Hook to get in proper trim. The Cup races were set to begin on October 3, and a few days before that time both yachts were put in the dry-dock to be cleaned. They were measured on October 2 by John Hyslop, with the following result:

|   | Columbia, feet. | Shamrock, feet. |   | Columbia, feet. | Shamrock, feet. |
|---|-----------------|-----------------|---|-----------------|-----------------|
| Length on the load water line..   | 89.66           | 87.69           | Length of gaff.....   | 64.95           | 67.64           |
| Length from the after end of the main boom to the forward point of measurement..... | 181.62          | 189.13          | Length of topmast.....  | 64.60           | 58.05           |
| Length from the foreside of the mast to the forward point of measurement.....       | 73.35           | 79.46           | 80 per cent of topmast.....   | 61.60           | 46.45           |
| Length of spinnaker pole.....   | 73.35           | 79.46           | Height from the upper side of the main boom to the topsail halyard block..... | 134.75          | 128.28          |
|   |                 |                 | Square root of the sail area....  | 114.61          | 116.15          |
|   |                 |                 | Sailing length.....   | 102.135         | 101.92          |

On these figures the Columbia had to allow the Shamrock 6.3 seconds in the thirty-mile races.

H. F. Lippitt represented the New York Yacht Club on the Shamrock, and H. MacGilldowney served for the Royal Ulster Yacht Club on the Columbia. Great precautions were taken to keep the course clear, the Government having detailed revenue cutters and torpedo boats for the service, and Captain Robley D. Evans being in charge. The yachts went out to the starting point on the morning of October 3, and were sent off in a light north-northeast wind. The course was fifteen miles to leeward and return. The wind was baffling on the way out, and first one boat then the other took the lead. Beating home the Shamrock took the lead, and when the time limit was up the finishing line was four miles away and the Shamrock led by about two hundred yards. The summary of that trial was:

|               | Start.   |          |          | First Mark. |          |          | Finish.  |          |  |

Columbia beat Shamrock 2m. 44s. on the run out.

October 5—A nother attempt was made to sail the first race in a light breeze from north west by west. The course was to leeward and return. Columbia started at 11.00.53, Shamrock at 11.01.05. It was a day of calms and baffling winds, which later in the afternoon came from the southeast, making it a beat to the mark. The race was stopped at 4.40 with Shamrock slightly in the lead and the mark boat three miles away.

October 7—The yachts started in a fair north-northeast wind to run to the outer mark. The Columbia crossed at 11.21.02, Shamrock at 11.21.19. The wind soon got light and fuky, Shamrock turned the outer mark at 1.36.25, having gained twenty-six seconds on the run. Columbia turned at 1.36.34. The wind at this time was very light. Shamrock kept her lead until the race was stopped at 4.30 o'clock, with the finishing line three miles away.

October 10—A thick fog kept the yachts at their anchorages in the Horseshoe. No race.

October 12—More fog and no wind. Race postponed again.

October 14—No wind. Another postponement.

October 16—A race was made and Columbia won. The wind was light from east, and the first leg was to windward. The Columbia got the better of the start, being to windward, and she gradually drew away from the Shamrock. The outer mark was turned at 1.48.19, and on the run home the Columbia gained a little more. It rained during the day and was very misty. The table of the race follows:

Columbia beat the Shamrock 10m. 1ds. elapsed time, and 10m. 8s. corrected time.
 October 17—The yachts started promptly in a fair breeze from east by south. The course was triangular, ten miles to a leg, and the compass courses were east by south, southwest one-half west, and north-west. Shamrock crossed first and after twenty-five minutes sailing parted a port shroud and carried away her topmast. By special agreement, if one boat broke down the other was to finish the race, so the Columbia sailed over the course alone. When the accident happened the boats were on even terms, Columbia being to windward. The table:

Shamrock was repaired in the Erie Basin; 3,300 pounds of lead were put on board and the yacht was remeasured. The extra lead made her water line 88.98 feet, having increased it 1.29 feet, and she had to allow Columbia 16.20s.

October 19—An attempt was made to sail the third race of the series, but the yachts could not finish in time. The wind was northwest by north and they started to leeward. After turning the outer mark the wind hauled to west, but was too light to send them home, and the race was stopped at 4.30 o'clock, with the finishing line two miles away. The table:

|               | Start.   |          |          |       | Outer Mark. | Gain. | Start.   |          |          |       | Outer Mark. | Gain. |  |

October 20—In a strong breeze from north by east the Columbia won the last race. It was a run down the wind to the outer mark, and the yachts travelled nearly twelve knots an hour. Both had up working topsails. Beating back Columbia took in her topsail, and a little later Shamrock took in hers, but with half the journey over she set a club topsail. It was a grand race. Sir Thomas Lipton said he was satisfied Columbia was the better boat and that he would challenge again. The table:

SEAWANHAKA CHALLENGE CUP.

The Seawanhaka-Corinthian Yacht Club challenged the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club for the Seawanhaka Cup and sent the Constance to Montreal. The Canadian boat was the Glencairn III. The first race was sailed July 26. The course was to windward and return, and the Constance won. The times were: Constance, 2.18.28; Glencairn, 2.20.43.

The second race was sailed July 31, over a triangular course, and Constance won again. The times were: Constance, 2.04; Glencairn, 2.04.55.

The third race, to windward and return, was won by the Glencairn. The times were: Glencairn, 2.28.26; Constance, 2.31.32.

The fourth race, over a triangular course, was won by the Glencairn. The times were: Glencairn, 2.20.43; Constance, 2.26.22.

In the fifth race the Seawanhaka Club objected to the course as laid. It was changed and then the Constance grounded. The Glencairn sailed over alone. The Constance protested, but the protest was not allowed, and the cup remained in Canada.

CANADA CUP RACES.

The Canada Cup, won by the yacht Canada, of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club, some years ago, was raced for at Toronto. The challenging yacht was the Genesee, of the Rochester Yacht Club, and the defending yacht was the Beaver. The first race was sailed August 22. The Genesee won by 1m. 22s. The times at the finish were: Genesee, 3.25.10; Beaver, 3.26.32.

The second race was won by the Genesee by 39s. The times at the finish were: Genesee, 4.45.57; Beaver, 4.46.36.

The third race was also won by the Genesee, this time by 10m. 47s. The finishing times were: Genesee, 3.32.11; Beaver, 3.42.58. The Genesee was designed by Hanley, and the Beaver by Payne, of Southampton, England.

OTHER YACHTING EVENTS.

All the yacht clubs held their usual regattas. The New York and Atlantic clubs had very successful cruises, and the Larchmont Yacht Club had a week of racing on the Sound. During the New York Yacht Club cruise the cups given by Capt. J. J. Astor were sailed for. The Columbia won the $500 cup for sloops and the Amorita won the $1,000 cup for schooners.

The Gould Cup for schooners, raced for under the auspices of the Atlantic Yacht Club, was won by the Katrina.

The Atlantic Club had an ocean race from Shelter Island to Sandy Hook. The Katrina won, Sachem was second, Ramona third, and Coronet fourth.

The Larchmont Cup for schooners was won by the Colonia.

VALKYRIE-DEFENDER RACES IN 1895.

In 1895 the Valkyrie III. and Defender raced for the cup. In the first race, sailed September 7 in a light wind over a course 15 miles to windward and return, the Defender won by 8m. 49s. The times made by the two yachts were: Defender, 5.00.24; Valkyrie, 5.08.44. The Valkyrie allowed 29.10s. The second race, over a triangular course, the Valkyrie finished first by 47s., but was disqualified for fouling the Defender. The third race Defender sailed alone, Valkyrie withdrawing after the start.

The Golf Season of 1899.

ONLY two points of public importance resulted from the action of the annual meeting of the United States Golf Association. One was the promulgation of a more stringent rule defining the status of an amateur, as follows:

Section 9. No person shall be considered an amateur golfer who has played for a money prize in a match or in an open competition; or who has received money for giving lessons or exhibitions of his skill in the game of golf; or laid out or taken charge of golf links for hire; or who has ever carried clubs for hire after attaining the age of fifteen years; or who has ever personally made for sale golf clubs, balls, or any other articles connected with the game of golf, or who, after the adoption of this section as amended, shall be classed as a professional in any athletic sport.

Section 10. No person shall be eligible to compete for the amateur championship of this association who does not conform to the conditions of section 9, or who after January 1, 1897, has received compensation for services performed in any athletic organization, or who plays the game or frequents golf courses for the purpose of exploiting his business; nor shall any one be eligible to compete who hereafter shall enter any golfing competition under an assumed name. Any person having become ineligible by a violation of any of the provisions of this section may be duly reinstated upon his giving satisfactory evidence of meriting it. Only members of clubs belonging to this association and those entitled under the rules of an associate or allied club to the use of the links, in whole or in part, for a period not less than the entire current season, may compete for the amateur and women's championships. Competitors must enter for the championships through the secretaries of their respective clubs, who, in sending in their names, shall be held to certify that the players are qualified amateur golfers in accordance with the terms of sections 9 and 10.

The other was the result of a suggestion of the president, that the interests of golf needed the establishment of local associations. The suggestion resulted in the voluntary establishment of the Metropolitan Association, the Connecticut League of Golf Clubs, the Pittsburgh League, the Associated Golf Clubs of Chicago, the Central New York Golf League, the Western Golf Association.

The following officers of the United States Golf Association were appointed for the year: President, W. B. Thomas; Vice-Presidents, Ransom H. Thomas and H. T. Whigham; Secretary, R. Bage Kerr, 26 Broad Street, New York; Treasurer, George D. Fowle; Committee, John Reid and A. M. Coats.

The amateur championship was contested on the Onwentsia Links, Chicago, from Monday, July 3, to July 8, over an eighteen-hole course. The greens were in well-nigh perfect condition; the weather, excepting for rain on the first day, was faultless. There were 112 entrants, of whom thirty-two only received the preliminary round of thirty-six holes medal play. The thirty-two qualified continued the contest by playing in matched pairs; by this means the thirty-two was reduced first to sixteen; then to eight, then to four, and finally, on the last day, to two. The best score in the qualifying round was made by Charles B. Macdonald, of the Chicago Golf Club, but the match play resulted in H. M. Harriman, who entered from the Long Island Golf Club, defeating last year's champion, Findlay S. Douglas, in the final round, two up and one to play. Mr. Harriman's success marks the advent of the American-born golfers to the highest amateur honors. The following table traces the contest between the thirty-two who qualified for match play, and shows at a glance the progress of the game each succeeding day:

Harriman's play throughout, with few exceptions, was very brilliant. Douglas in the long game was more than his equal, but in putting was erratic.

The fifth annual open championship was played September 14 and 15, over the course of the Country Club of Baltimore, Md.—one of the most difficult courses in the country, covering for the thirty-six holes (eighteen twice around) 10,838 yards of naturally rolling land. The weather was ideal throughout. The first day's medal play, September 14, reduced the seventy-nine entrants to eight, whose scores ranged from 315 to 333. All the previous champions, Willie Dunn, 1894; Horace T. Rawlins, 1895; James Foulis, 1896; Joseph Lloyd, 1897, and Fred. Herd, 1898, were among the competitors; as was H. M. Harriman, the amateur champion.

THE GOLF SEASON OF 1899—Continued.

The championship was won by Willie Smith, of the Midlothian Golf Club, Chicago, with a total of 315, eleven strokes better than the next three competitors. His play in rounds was:

The women's championship, and putting and driving contests took place over the links of the Philadelphia Country Club, at Bala, near Philadelphia, October 10-14. Eighteen holes medal play in the qualifying round, and eighteen holes match play until the contest was determined. The links of Bala were slightly shortened for the occasion, to 5,422 yards. There were seventy-nine entrants, of whom seventy-four played in the qualifying round October 10, whereby the sixteen to continue the match play were selected. The annexed table gives all the details of the plays:

Three-Ball Straight Rail.—Highest run on record, 1,531, on a 5x10 table, by Maurice Vignaux, at Paris, France, April 10-14, 1880, against George F. Slosson. Harvey McKenna, the celebrated rail player, in an exhibition game on a 5x10 table scored a run of 2,672, and an average of 416½, at Boston, Mass., December 21, 1887; and Jacob Schaefer, in a match game played at San Francisco, Cal., in 1890, scored a run of 3,000 points on a 4½x9 table. His average was 750. The best average at the three-ball straight-rail game, on a 5x10 table, is 333½, by Jacob Schaefer, at Central Music Hall, Chicago, May 15, 1879.

Cushion Caroms.—Highest run, 77, on a 5x10 table, by William Sexton, at Tammany Hall, New York, December 19, 1881, against Jacob Schaefer. Best tournament average, 10 in 200 points, on a 5x10 table, by Jacob Schaefer, at Chicago, November 10, 1887. Best match average, 4 7/8-106 in 500 points, on a 5x10 table, by George F. Slosson, at Chicago, April 4, 1887.

Frank C. Ives made a run of 85 in exhibition tournament play for an announced purse of money, Bumstead Hall, Boston, Mass., April 14. There was no award of prize money.

Balk-Line Game.—Highest run at 8-inch balk-line game, 329, on a 5x10 table; the highest average is 44 5/8-67; both by Maurice Vignaux, at Paris, January, 1884.

Highest run at 14-inch balk-line game, anchor nurse permitted, 566, by Jacob Schaefer, New York, December 16, 1893. At anchor nurse barred, Frank C. Ives made 359, at Chicago, December 6, 1894.

Jacob Schaefer made a run of 111 in exhibition tournament play at 18-inch balk-line game, with one carom permitted when object balls were within the balk-line or anchor-box space. Central Music Hall, Chicago, Ill., May 22, 1896.

With anchor nurse allowed, in tournament play, Jacob Schaefer made an average of 100 at 14-inch balk-line game, New York, December, 1893, and Frank C. Ives made an average of 100, Chicago, January, 1894. Ives made an average of 63 2-10 at anchor barred, New York, November 13, 1894.

Frank C. Ives made a single game average of 50 at 18-inch balk-line game, in exhibition tournament play, with but five caroms permitted when object balls were within the anchor-box space. Madison Square Garden Concert Hall, New York, April 2, 1896.

Frank C. Ives made a single game average of 19 21-24 at 18-inch balk-line game, with but one carom permitted when object balls were within any balk-line or anchor-box space, in exhibition tournament play. Central Music Hall, Chicago, Ill., May 21, 1896.

George Sutton made a run of 215 at 14-inch balk-line game, a record for players below the first grade (known as "short-stops"), Chicago, June, 1897. W. A. Spinks made an average of 40 at 14-inch balk-line game, a record for "short-stops," Pittsburgh, Pa., March, 1897.

The best amateur records in competition are held by Wayman C. McCreery, of St. Louis, who made a high run of 139 and an average of 13½ (for 400 points) in the Class A championship tournament, at New York, February 13, 1899. The best run for Class B amateurs is 97, made by J. Byron Stark, of New York, and the best average 10 10-29 (for 300 points), also held by Stark.

English Game.—John Roberts, of London, England, holds the record for the highest run, 1,392, scored at English "spot-barred" billiards (the recognized game in England now), 1894. W. J. Peall, of London, England, holds the record for the highest run, 1,888, with "spot-stroke" permitted, scored in a match game, 1890; in an exhibition game he scored 3,304 at the same style of play.

BILLIARDS EVENTS IN 1898-99.

During the year just ended billiard lovers were treated to two big professional matches between George F. Slosson and Jacob Schaefer, and amateur championship meetings under the auspices of the Amateur Athletic Union, in two sections, for Class A and Class B players. The A. A. U.'s efforts to control amateur billiards were prosecuted vigorously and successfully until October, when two factions rebelled against the Union's restrictions and formed their own organizations, one in New York and a second in Chicago. The A. A. U. did not relinquish the struggle, but announced its usual championship tournaments to correspond with those of last Winter, and barred out those who played in the unregistered tournaments.

The A. A. U. championships for last Winter were both contested for at the Knickerbocker A. C., in New York. The tournament for Class B players began December 4, 1898, and ended December 19, 1898. The championship was won by J. Byron Stark, of New York, who won six games and lost none. His best average was 10.34, his highest run 47, and his grand average 7.72. Alexander Taylor, of Chicago, and J. De Mun Smith, of St. Louis, tied for second, and Taylor won on the play-off. The style of game was 14-inch balk-line, the games being 300 points each. Referee, Edward McLaughlin.

The Class A amateur championship tournament was held at the Knickerbocker A. C., New York, February 14-19, 1899. Three players were entered, Martin Mullen, of Cleveland; Wilson P. Foss, of Haverstraw, N. Y., and Wayman C. McCreery, of St. Louis. Each played the others twice, the games being 400 points each at 14-inch balk-line, with ten shots allowed in the anchor spaces. Mullen won the championship, beating Foss twice and winning and losing with McCreery. His final record was 3 games won and 1 lost, his grand average 8.29, and his best run 73. Foss finished second, beating McCreery both times but losing twice to Mullen. His record was: Won 2, lost 2; high run, 133; grand average, 8.26. McCreery won only one game in the series, his record being: Won 1, lost 3; high run, 139; grand average, 9.16. Two new amateur records were created by McCreery in his first game (against Mullen), when he averaged 13½ (for 400 points), and made a run of 139. Referee, Edward McLaughlin.

A match was played early in the Spring between George F. Slosson and Jacob Schaefer with two games, one each at 18-inch balk-line and cushion caroms. These took place at the Lenox Lyceum, New York, May 15 and 22, 1899. The result was as follows: Balk-line—Schaefer, 600; average, 13 28-44; high run, 139. Slosson, 418; average 9.31-43; high run, 62. Cushion caroms—Slosson, 400; average, 4 5/8-87; high run, 34. Schaefer, 359; average, 4 15/8-86; high run, 55. Referee, Frank A. Keeney, of Brooklyn. The stakes were $500 a side on each game.

Another match was played between George F. Slosson and Jacob Schaefer in the Fall, the style of play being at cushion caroms for three nights. It took place at the Madison Square Garden Concert Hall, New York, October 30, 31, and November 1, 1899. The result was as follows: First night—Slosson, 300; average, 4 5/8-62; high run, 37. Schaefer, 185; average, 2 61-62; high run, 21. Second night—Slosson, 300; average, 3 63-79; high run, 22. Schaefer, 310; average, 3 76-78; high run, 35. Third night—Slosson, 300; average, 5 10-59; high run, 21. Schaefer, 262; average, 4 34-57; high run, 41. Grand totals—Slosson, 900; Schaefer, 757. Grand averages—Slosson, 4.56; Schaefer, 3.84. Highest runs—Slosson, 37; Schaefer, 41. Referee—Frank A. Keeney, of Brooklyn. The stakes were $500 a side.

Frank C. Ives, who was generally referred to as the "Napoleon" of billiards, died of consumption at Progreso, Mexico, August 30, 1899. By most students of the game he was considered to be the greatest professional billiardist that ever lived, and a study of the records to his credit, as shown above, proves his right to this praise.

WHEN 1899 began the world's championship at continuous pool was held by Jerome R. Keogh, of Scranton, Pa. Early in the Winter Keogh played a three-night exhibition match at Daly's Academy, in New York, with Alfred De Oro, of New York, the former champion.

De Oro then challenged Keogh for the championship and the match was played in Chicago, April 10, 11 and 12, 1899, under the regular championship conditions, 600 balls, 200 each night. The score follows: First night—De Oro, 208; Keogh, 145. Second night—De Oro, 192; Keogh, 118. Third night—De Oro, 200; Keogh, 252. Totals—De Oro, 600; Keogh, 515.

Fred. J. Payton, of Omaha, Neb., challenged De Oro for the championship, and this match was played at Daly's Academy, in New York, November 30, December 1 and 2, 1899. The score follows: First night—De Oro, 205; Payton, 182. Second night—De Oro, 199; Payton, 170. Third night—De Oro, 196; Payton, 127. Totals—De Oro, 600; Payton 479.

Ice Hockey.

THE Amateur Hockey League, composed of the New York Athletic Club, Crescent Athletic Club, Brooklyn Skating Club, St. Nicholas Skating Club, Montclair Athletic Club, and the Hockey Club of New York, included five teams in its championship series of 1898-99, representing all but the Crescent Athletic Club of the clubs named above.

The League championship was won by the Brooklyn Skating Club, the Hockey Club of New York being second, by the following score:

The League championship for the season of 1897-98 was won by the New York Athletic Club, which also won the title for 1896-97.

The Intercollegiate Hockey League was formed during the season of 1898-99 with Yale, Brown, Columbia, and the University of Pennsylvania. The championship games were played in the artificial ice rinks of New York, Brooklyn, and Philadelphia, Yale finally winning the championship by the following score:

Bowling.

(Revised to December 4, 1899.)

The Interstate Bowling League was organized in Brooklyn November 21, 1895. The opening championship series was played in the Spring of 1896. The New York Club won the championship with 20 games won and 12 lost. The New York Club won in 1897 with a record of 37 games won and 11 lost, and also won the championship in 1898 with a record of 48 games won and 12 lost. In 1899 the Niagara Falls Club withdrew from the League, and Olean, Erie, and Rochester clubs were admitted to membership. The record for 1899 follows:

The Empire Club, of New York, in a game in the Harlem League at the Harlem Palace Alleys on November 27, 1899, made a score of 1,103, which is the competition record since the adoption of the two-ball game by the American Bowling Congress. The individual scores made in this game were: Voorhees, 236; Mische, 233; Stoff, 212; Sohl, 192; Arnold, 230. Total, 1,103. Strikes, 29; spares, 15; breaks, 6.

Bowlers credited with the maximum (300) score on regulation alleys are: Charles Starr, Golden Rod; W. B. Sellers, Echo Club; John Howick, Western Club, of Detroit; G. Wadeigh, New Jersey A. C.; C. B. Stoddard, Buffalo; 'Les' Freude, Mutual B. C., and R. Menninger, Brooklyn.

The winners of the principal tournaments last season were: American National, Albion, of Paterson; Arlington Head-Pin, Astoria No. 1; Greater New York Tournament, Metropolitan; Associated Cycling Clubs of New York, Royal Arcanum Wheelmen; Arlington National of Brooklyn, Metropolitan; Brooklyn Royal Arcanum Sub-Tournament, Gilbert Council; Arlington League of New York, Fidelia; Morning Newspaper League, the Sun; Commercial League, Passavant & Co.; United Bowling Clubs, Rosedale; Kings County Tournament, Templeton; Suburban Athletic League, Roseville A. A.; Brooklyn National, Manhattan; Uncle Sam National, Golden Rod; Morris and Essex League, Roseville A. A.; North Side League, Knickerbocker; Brooklyn Royal Arcanum, Gilbert Council; Arlington Hall Women's Tournament of Brooklyn, Senate Club; Harlem Republican Club, Phoenix; Wholesale Drug Trade Association, Colgate & Co.; New York Royal Arcanum League, Our Council; Athlete Head-Pin Tournament, Fidelia; Brooklyn Women's Bowling League, Monarch Club; Bank Clerks', Chase National Bank; Associated Cycling Clubs of Long Island, Class A, Bushwick, Class B, Tamaqua; Yorkville League, Village No. 1; Harlem League, Belydore.

In the Greater New York Bowling Club tour 294 games were played, 235 resulting in victories. The team established a world's record for foreign alleys at Fostoria, Ohio, February 14, by rolling a score of 1,045 pins.

Football Records.

THE football season of 1899 was one of the most interesting in the history of the great American college game. It was notable for the fact that so many first-class teams were developed. Of the so-called "Big Four," Harvard was the only team that has played throughout the season without a defeat. The Indians, however, scored 10 points against them.

Princeton, Yale, and the University of Pennsylvania have been beaten by colleges that were supposed to have been in the second class. Columbia for the first time in more than twenty years developed a formidable team, and after stopping the Princeton team from scoring more than 11 points, defeated the Yale team by a score of 5 to 0. Cornell defeated Princeton by a score of 5 to 0, and followed this up by defeating Columbia by a score of 29 to 0. Lafayette showed its right to be considered a factor in the football world by defeating University of Pennsylvania and Cornell. The team from the Indian Training School displayed remarkable strength this season. Indeed, the Indians played better football this season than ever before. The fact that they defeated the University of Pennsylvania and Columbia and scored 10 points against Harvard demonstrates this. The question as to which college had the best team is rather a complicated one. There are those who believe that Harvard has a clear right to the honor, basing their claim on the fact that Harvard has won every game it has played this season, and has only been scored against once. Those who believe that Princeton is entitled to the honor base their claim on Princeton's defeat of Yale after the latter had prevented Harvard from scoring against them. The following figures will doubtless keep experts busy in discussion for some time to come.

INTERCOLLEGIATE FOOTBALL ASSOCIATION.

The records of the first eight years of the Intercollegiate Football Association are summarized in the following table, which shows the number of games won by each college each year.

| COLLEGE.       | 1877 | 1878. | 1879. | 1880. | 1881. | 1882. | 1883. | 1884. |

* Harvard withdrew from the Intercollegiate Association late in 1889, but played an independent game with Yale at Springfield, Mass., each year after until 1895. Then after an interval of three years the elevens again met in 1897. These games resulted as follows:

|                            |                            |                            |

+ University of Pennsylvania and Wesleyan withdrew.

The scores of the Yale-Harvard, Yale-Princeton, and Harvard-Princeton games are as follows. The system of scoring previous to 1898 was 4 points for touchdown, 2 points for goal from touchdown, 5 points for goal from field, and 2 points for safety. The season of 1898 was played under the revised scoring rules, 5 points for touchdown and 1 point for goal from touchdown, goal from field and safety counting the same:

King Alfred Memorial.

THE one-thousandth anniversary of the death of King Alfred will be celebrated in England in 1901. The Queen has given the movement her patronage, and the memorial will take the form of a bronze statue of King Alfred to be erected in his royal city of Winchester. A committee has been formed in America to cooperate with the movement, and its members include Col. John Hay, the Secretary of State; Bishop Potter, and the Presidents of Harvard, Yale, and Johns Hopkins Universities. King Alfred being the founder of Great Britain's maritime supremacy, a naval display will be held, and the largest armored cruiser in the world, to be launched in 1901, will be christened King Alfred. Wolvesey Castle, the ancient residence of the English Kings, near Winchester, will be secured as a memorial museum. The sum of £30,000 will be raised to carry out the plan.

Actors' Fund of America.

President—Louis Aldrich. First Vice-President—Frank W. Sanger. Second Vice-President—John Drew. Treasurer—Andrew A. McCormick. Secretary—Edwin Knowles. Assistant Secretary—Adolph Bernard. Trustees—Antonio Pastor, Augustus Pitou, A. M. Palmer, Harrison Gray Fiske, T. Henry French, William H. Crane, Frank G. Cotter, F. F. Mackay, Wm. A. Brady, De Wolf Hopper, Francis Wilson, Roland Reed, B. F. Keith, Charles H. Hoyt, Eugene Tompkins.

The Actors' Fund was established in 1882, to provide assistance for disabled and needy members of the theatrical profession, and burial for such as leave no means therefor. From organization to date of the last financial report there has been contributed to the fund, in various ways, about $550,000, and during that time there has been expended for relief, burials, medicines, hospital charges, etc., over $350,000. The amount of the Fund June 7, 1898, was $196,615. The number of annual members of the Fund at that date was 862, and of life members 118. There are 20 honorary members, including ex-President Cleveland, Chauncey M. Depew, and Ignace Paderewski.

Literature in 1899.

THE NOTABLE BOOKS OF THE YEAR.

An average of 5,000 books per year comes from the presses of the publishers of the United States. A look at the titles of these books brings clearly before the mind of an experienced reader the leading events of the year. During 1899 the subjects most talked of in America were the territory conquered in the Spanish-American War—Cuba, the Philippines—Hawaii, the annexed possessions; expansion; Kipling's dangerous illness; the Dreyfus trial; the triumphal return of Admiral Dewey; the South African conditions; and the unprecedented popularity of fiction by American authors.

FICTION.

At the turn of the year all the world was reading Page's "Red Rock," Hopkinson Smith's "Caleb West," Harold Frederic's "Gloria Mundi," Miss Johnston's "Prisoners of Hope," Casboden's "When Knighthood Was in Flower," and Westcott's "David Harum," and these books are still popular throughout the land, the latter having sold 350,000 copies. Bearing date 1899 came "Richard Carvel," by Winston Churchill, a story of the American Revolution, introducing Washington, Paul Jones, Fox, and Horace Walpole, and already 220,000 are printed. "Janice Meredith," by Paul Leicester Ford, covering the same period, bids fair to become a dangerous rival. "The Market Place," by Harold Frederic, has also stood among the six best-selling books of a month. Kipling's books were much read, in a measure owing to the widespread anxiety at the time of his illness, and the year was rich in Kiplingiana of every kind—stories, birthday books, calendars, criticisms, explanations, etc.

"Via Crucis," by F. Marion Crawford, is a romance of the second crusade, introducing Queen Eleanor of France and Bernard of Clairvaux. "The Open Question," by C. E. Raimond, was a serious novel dealing with the question of heredity; "Windyhaugh," by Graham Travers, a plea for goodness and womanliness as beyond all intellectual gifts for women; "Taming of the Jungle," by Dr. C. W. Doyle, a strong story of India; "Children of the Mist," a highly original novel, of Devonshire, Eng., by Eden Phillpotts; "Cashel Byron's Profession," an arraignment of the artificiality of polite society in England, by Bernard Shaw, the playwright, whose hero is a prize-fighter; "The Sword of Justice," by Sheppard Stevens, dealing with the French and Indian War, and a valuable study of Indian customs; "The Mormon Prophet," by Lily Dougall, a character study of Joseph Smith, and "The King's Mirror," by Anthony Hope.

Grant Allen died recently, and then it was discovered that "The Typewriter Girl" and "Rosalba," both purporting to be the work of Olive Pratt Rayner, were from his pen; and under his own name appeared "Miss Cayley's Adventures," describing European travel. Among the new works of standard authors were Crockett's "Kit Kennedy," Harraden's "The Fowler," Edward F. Benson's "Mammon & Co.," Gissing's "Crown of Life," Besant's "The Orange Girl," Miss Murfree's "Story of Old Fort Loudon," Stockton's "Vizier of the Two-Horned Alexander," Richard Harding Davis' "The Lion and the Unicorn," Mrs. Burton Harrison's "Circle of the Century," Henry James' "The Awkward Age," W. D. Howells' "Ragged Lady," and Charles Dudley Warner's "That Fortune."

Fiction dealing with the sea, the railroad, and the telegraph was a feature of the year. To this class belong "In Hampton Roads," by Charles Eugene Banks and George Crain Cook, a story of the Civil War, dealing with the invention of ironclads, and detailing the work of the Merrimac and the Monitor; Bullen's "Cruise of the Cachalot" and "Idylls of the Sea," Hamblen's "Yarn of a Bucko Mate" and Hains' "Wind Jammers." The railroad is made romantic in Merwin Webster's "The Short Line War," Warman's "Snow on the Headlight" and "The White Mail," and Hill's "Stories of the Railroad," while Brady's "Tales of the Telegraph" does the same for that method of communication. Also a feature of the year were novels dealing with questions of education and social problems, the tone in most being of a very high morality. Of such were Stuart's "Averages," Dowson-Moore's "Adrian Rome," Whiteing's "No. 5 John Street," one of the most widely read of the books of the year, dealing with the contrasts of poverty and luxury in London; Mallock's "Tristram Lacy," White's "Differences," Sherwood's "Henry Worthington, Idealist," a study of department store problems; Sawyer's "A Local Habitation" (labor problems and journalism), Pendered's "Michael Rolf, Englishman" (real and artificial class distinctions and prejudices), and Lynde's "The Helpers" (study of gambling). Very strong were "McTeague," a San Francisco study by Frank Norris, and "The Maternity of Harriott Wicken," by Mrs. Dudeney, a story of heredity too realistic for fiction. A feature of the year was also the dramatization of fiction and the turning of plays into novels. At the moment Dickens' "Tale of Two Cities," Wallace's "Ben Hur," Thackeray's "Vanity Fair," Zangwill's "Children of the Ghetto," Anthony Hope's "Phroso," etc., are on the stage, while Sardou's "Robespierre," Rostand's "Cyrano de Bergerac," etc., have been lengthened into novels.

The short stories of special merit were: Wharton's "Greater Inclination," Chesnut's "The Conjure Woman," Dawes' "Stories of Colonial Mansions," Hewlett's "Little Novels of Italy," Catherwood's "Mackinac Lake Stories," Risley's "Men's Tragedies," Brown's "Tiverton Tales," King's "Stories of the War of 1898," and Hopkinson Smith's "The Other Fellow."

POLITICAL AND SOCIAL.

Books relating to the Spanish-American War and its consequences are grouped here regardless of their biographical, descriptive, or historical bearings. Also books on South Africa. William T. Stead made a trip to all the capitals of Europe to gather information of the political situation of 1899 regarding the Peace Rescript of the Czar of Russia and American expansion. The result was "The United States of Europe on the Eve of the Parliament of Peace," "Can We Disarm?" arguments for and against, by Joseph McCabe and George Darian; "Future of War," by I. S. Bloch, discussing technical, economic, and political relations; "The Federation of the World," by Benjamin F. Trueblood, Secretary of the American Peace Society; "Anglo-Saxon Superiority," by Edmund Delmonis; "The History of American Expansion" and "Our Four New Possessions," by Murat Halstead; "Our Nation's Peril," by Louis G. James, against imperialism; "Imperialism and the Tracks of Our Forefathers," by Charles Francis Adams (against); "The Imperial Republic," by J. O. Fernald, assistant editor of the Standard Dictionary (in favor); "Imperial Democracy," by David Starr Jordan (against expansion); "The Foreign Policy of the United States," discussions before the American Academy of Political and Social Science; "Democracy," by James Hervey Hyslop, Professor of Logic and Ethics in Columbia University—a remarkable exposition of true democracy, its duties, privileges, and responsibilities; "Everything About Our New Possessions," by T. J. Vivian and Ruel P. Smith (chiefly statistics). Henry Cabot Lodge wrote "Our War with Spain," an authoritative book; books on Hawaii were written by William Fremont Blackman, Edmond James Carpenter, Caspar Whitney, and Lucien Young; the Philippines were described from every point of view by Rev. Ambrose Coleman, Amos Kidder Fiske, Lala, F. D. Millet, John W.

LITERATURE IN 1899—Continued.

Taylor, and G. J. Younghusband. Fifteen books, of more than average merit, related to Cuba; among the authors were Hobson, Kennan, Bonsal, Wheeler, etc.; important books dealt with Porto Rico; Amos Kidder Fiske wrote of the West Indies as a whole, and Sigbee of the ill-fated Maine. There were five biographies of Admiral Dewey, of which the best is John Barrett's.

Forty-seven books dealt with Africa as a whole and with various sections, and nine books dealt with the South African conditions; the authors were Knox-Little, Olive Schreiner, Hillegas ("Oom Paul's People"), Mary H. Kingsley, etc.

Municipal government, trusts, labor problems, etc., were dealt with in Seth Low's "Trend of the Century," Henry Wallace's "Trusts and How to Deal with Them," Hirsch's "Democracy Against Trusts and Free Silver," Weber's "Growth of Cities," Bemis' "Municipal Monopolies," James' "Growth of Great Cities," Breen's "Thirty Years of New York Politics," Marat's "Labor Literature," Flynt's "Tramping with Tramps," George's "Involuntary Idleness of Labor," Prevez's "Economic Aspects of Charity," Stephens' "Working People," Ferris' "Pauperizing the Rich," Vehlen's "Theory of the Leisure Class," Gordon's "Government Ownership of Railroads," David Starr Jordan's "Economics," Daniels' "Public Finance," and Francis Amasa Walker's "Discussions on Economics and Statistics." Of great interest to industrial America are Sargent's "Corn Plants," Wilkinson's "Story of the Cotton Plant," Myrich's "American Sugar Industry," and Stewart's "Shall We Grow the Sugar That We Consume?" Also timely are Cook's "Comparative Study of the Negro Problem," Cross' "The Negro and the Sunny South," and Love's "Disfranchisement of the Negro." The woman problem produced "Occupations of Women," "Ideal New Woman," Dana's "Woman's Possibilities," Dodge's "What Women Can Earn," Heinzen's "Rights of Woman," and Marholm's "Studies in the Psychology of Women."

BIOGRAPHY AND HISTORY.

The year was unusually rich in biography and correspondence. "Who's Who in America," edited by Leonard, is modelled on the book that has appeared annually in England for fifty-one years. "James R. Lowell and His Friends," by E. E. Hale; Mrs. Julia Ward Howe's "Reminiscences," T. W. Higginson's "Contemporaries," the men and women of the fifties in America; E. P. Roe's "Reminiscences," Fisher's "True William Penn," P. L. Ford's "Many-sided Franklin," Haggood's "Abraham Lincoln," Cathey's "Abraham Lincoln," Gorham's "Life of Stanton," "Art Life of William Morris Hunt," etc.

English biography included "The Life of George Borrow" (Bible in Spain), "Stevenson's Letters," Spurgeon's "Autobiography," "Life of Lewis Carroll" ("Alice in Wonderland"), "Letters of Robert and Elizabeth Barrett Browning," Justin McCarthy's "Reminiscences," Mrs. Oliphant's "Autobiography," Monkhouse's "Kipling," and Clemens' "Ken of Kipling," etc.

From the French we have Victor Hugo's "Memoirs," "Personal Opinions of Balzac," "Dreyfus' Letters to His Wife," Steevens' "Tragedy of Dreyfus," Harding's "Story of Dreyfus," and Deele's "Trooper 3309," dealing with conditions in the French Army making possible a "Dreyfus affair." Other European celebrities were covered in three lives of Leo XIII., and one announced by F. Marion Crawford, not quite ready; two lives of Bismarck, two biographies of Elizabeth, Empress of Austria (assassinated in the spring), Stillman's "Crispi," "Reminiscences of Prince Krapotkin," etc.

Of historical importance are Edwin A. Grosvenor's "Contemporary History of the World," covering the last fifty years; Ripley's "Races of Europe," Trevelyan's "American Revolution," of which the first volume promises a fine work; Ropes' "Story of the Civil War," brought to special attention by the death of the author; Wise's "End of an Epoch," United States history to the end of the Civil War; the fifth volume of McMasters' "History of the United States," McCarthy's "Story of the People of England," Maclay's "American Privateering," Matthews' "Navy in 1861-1878," Wagner's "United States Army and Navy," Laughton's "From Howard to Nelson," Clowes' "Royal Navy," etc.

DESCRIPTION AND TRAVEL.

Heilprin's "Alaska and the Klondike," Hemstreet's "Old New York," Shoemaker's "Quaint Corners of Philadelphia," "Monumental Guide to Gettysburg," Simpson's "Edinburgh Days," Johnson's "Among English Hedgerows," "Famous Homes of Great Britain," "Troubadours at Home," "Fendal Chateaux of France," Meldrum's "Holland," Ransome's "Japan," Hearn's "In Ghostly Japan," Steevens' "In India," Mrs. Bird Bishop's "Yang-tse-Valley," Penfield's "Egypt."

LITERARY MISCELLANY.

Beers' "English Romanticism in the Eighteenth Century," Corson's "Introduction to Milton," Wiener's "Yiddish Literature," "Literatures of the World (Austrian, Japanese, Hungarian)," Darrow's "Realism," Hyde's "Literary History of Ireland," Trent's "Authority of Criticism," Smith's "Stories of Great National Songs," Cross' "English Novel," Max Muller's "Old Lang Syne," two series of reminiscences of literary subjects, Johnson's "Testimony of Shakespeare's Sonnets," two books on Edgar Allen Poe, one by Fruit, the other by Benton; Dominic's "Contemporary French Novelists," D. G. Mitchell's "American Lands and Letters," covering to Fenimore Cooper; Kipling's "From Sea to Sea," and several other works made up from Kipling's writings.

MISCELLANEOUS.

"The Man with the Hoe," a poem in a book by Edward Markham, was one of the most discussed literary products of the year; Dunbar's "Lyrics of the Hearthstone" and Realf's "Poems" were also much read; a memorial edition was published of the poems of Timrod, the ill-fated Southern singer. Of interest to theatre, opera, and concert patrons were Wagnalls' "Stars of Opera," Annesley's "Standard Opera Glass," the memorial volume for Anton Seidl, Stebbins' "Charlotte Cushman," Huret's "Sarah Bernhardt," "Reminiscences of Mrs. Drew," Hiatt's "Ellen Terry and Her Impersonations," Hunecker's "Mezzotints in Modern Music," Henderson's "Orchestra," "How Music Developed," etc.

The year was phenomenally rich in books on painters and musicians. George William Jordan's essays that made so great a success as editorials in the Saturday Evening Post, of Philadelphia, were issued as "Kingship of Self-Control," and other books dealing with ethics were Robert Grant's "Search-Light Letters," Hamilton Mabie's "Life of the Spirit," Fiske's "Through Nature to God," Lecky's "Map of Life," Knowlton's "Art of Thinking," Drummond's "City Without a Church," Van Dyke's "Fisherman's Luck," four examinations of "Christian Science," and a book among the sensations of the year, said to have sold nearly 3,000,000 copies, was Sheldon's "In His Steps; or, What Would Jesus Do?" Bernard Shaw, in "The Perfect Wagnerite," tried to prove that Wagner's music was meant to show up the social conditions of the modern world, and "Mr. Dooley in the Hearts of His Countrymen" is almost as good as the original Dooley volume. Works on education of great value were also a feature of the year.

Copyright Law of the United States.

DIRECTIONS FOR SECURING COPYRIGHT UNDER THE REVISED ACTS OF CONGRESS, INCLUDING THE PROVISIONS FOR FOREIGN COPYRIGHT, BY ACT OF MARCH 3, 1891.

SECTION 4,952 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, in force December 1, 1873, as amended by the act of June 18, 1874, as amended by the act of March 3, 1891, provides that the author, inventor, designer, or proprietor of any book, map, chart, dramatic or musical composition, engraving, cut, print, or photograph or negative thereof, or of a painting, drawing, chromo, statuary, and of models or designs intended to be perfected as works of the fine arts, and the executors, administrators, or assigns of any such person, shall, upon complying with the provisions of this chapter, have the sole liberty of printing, reprinting, publishing, completing, copying, executing, finishing, and vending the same; and, in the case of a dramatic composition, of publicly performing or representing it, or causing it to be performed or represented by others. And authors or their assigns shall have exclusive right to dramatize or translate any of their works for which copyright shall have been obtained under the laws of the United States.

PRINTED TITLE REQUIRED.

A printed copy of the title of the book, map, chart, dramatic or musical composition, engraving, cut, print, photograph, or chromo, or a description of the painting, drawing, statue, statuary, or model or design for a work of the fine arts, for which copyright is desired, must be delivered to the Librarian of Congress, or deposited in the mail, within the United States, prepaid, addressed "LIBRARIAN OF CONGRESS, WASHINGTON, D. C." This must be done on or before day of publication in this or any foreign country.

The printed title required may be a copy of the title-page of such publications as have title-pages. In other cases, the title must be printed expressly for copyright entry, with name of claimant of copyright. The style of type is immaterial, and the print of a typewriter will be accepted. But a separate title is required for each entry, and each title must be printed on paper as large as commercial note. The title of a periodical must include the date and number; and each number of a periodical requires a separate entry of copyright. Blank forms of application are furnished to applicants.

FEEES.

The legal fee for recording each copyright claim is 50 cents, and for a copy of this record (or certificate of copyright under the seal of the office) an additional fee of 50 cents is required, making $1, if certificate is wanted, which will be mailed as soon as reached in the records. No money is to be placed in any package of books, music, or other publications. A bank check to order avoids all risk. In the case of publications which are the production of persons not citizens or residents of the United States, the fee for recording title is $1, and 50 cents additional for a copy of the record. Certificates covering more than one entry in one certificate are not issued. Bank checks, money orders, and currency only taken for fees. No postage stamps received.

Not later than the day of publication in this country or abroad, two complete copies of the best edition of each book or other article must be delivered, or deposited in the mail within the United States, addressed "LIBRARIAN OF CONGRESS, WASHINGTON, D. C.," to perfect the copyright.

The freight or postage must be prepaid, or the publications included in parcels covered by printed penalty-labels, furnished by the Librarian, in which case they will come FREE by mail (not express), without limit of weight, according to rulings of the Post-Office Department. Books must be printed from type set in the United States or plates made therefrom; photographs from negatives made in the United States; chromos and lithographs from drawings on stone or transfers therefrom made in the United States. Without the deposit of copies above required, the copyright is void, and a penalty of $25 is incurred. No copy is required to be deposited elsewhere.

The law requires one copy of each new edition wherein any substantial changes are made to be deposited with the Librarian of Congress.

NOTICE OF COPYRIGHT.

No copyright is valid unless notice is given by inserting in every copy published, on the title-page or the page following, if it be a book; or if a map, chart, musical composition, print, cut, engraving, photograph, painting, drawing, chromo, statue, statuary, or model or design intended to be perfected as a work of the fine arts, by inscribing upon some portion thereof, or on the substance on which the same is mounted, the following words, viz.: "Entered according to act of Congress, in the year —, by —, in the office of the Librarian of Congress, at Washington," at the option of the person entering the copyright, the words: "Copyright, 18—, by —."

The law imposes a penalty of $100 upon any person who has not obtained copyright who shall insert the notice, "Entered according to act of Congress," or "Copyright," etc., or words of the same import, in or upon any book or other article.

TRANSLATIONS.

The copyright law secures to authors and their assigns the exclusive right to translate or to dramatize any of their works; no notice is required to enforce this right.

DURATION OF COPYRIGHT.

The original term of copyright runs for twenty-eight years. Within six months before the end of that time, the author or designer, or his widow or children, may secure a renewal for the further term of fourteen years, making forty-two in all.

RENEWALS.

Application for renewal must be accompanied by printed title and fee; and by explicit statement of ownership, in the case of the author, or of relationship, in the case of his heirs, and must state definitely the date and place of entry of the original copyright. Within two months from date of renewal the record thereof must be advertised in an American newspaper for four weeks.

TIME OF PUBLICATION.

The time of publication is not limited by any law or regulation, but the courts have held that it should take place "within a reasonable time." A copyright may be secured for a projected as well as for a completed work. But the law provides for no caveat or notice of interference—only for actual entry of title.

ASSIGNMENTS.

Copyrights are assignable by any instrument of writing. Such assignment, to be valid, is to be recorded in the office of the Librarian of Congress within sixty days from execution. The fee for this record and certificate is $1, and for a certified copy of any record of assignment $1.

A copy of the record (or duplicate certificate) of any copyright entry will be furnished, under seal of the office, at the rate of 50 cents each.

PROBLEMS OF THE YEAR 1899.

White to play and mate in three moves.

White to play and mate in three moves.

The above problems, the first by J. Drtina and the second by A. Silvestre, are selected as two of the most remarkable compositions which appeared during the last year.

1899 WAS replete with the usual number of interesting and important events which mark the close of a great century of chess development.

In the fourth cable match for the Newnes Trophy between the American and British players, March 10 and 11, the Americans won by the score of 6 to 4, the pairing and results being as follows :

| AMERICANS.           |    | BRITISH.              |    | AMERICANS.          |    | BRITISH.              |    |

Each side has now won two matches; the grand totals being 19½ games to 18½, in favor of the Americans, who now hold the trophy. Arrangements are being made for the fifth contest.

An international cable match was played between the American and British Universities April 21, and was won by the British, with the score of 3½ to 2½. The contest will be an annual affair, as Prof. Isaac L. Rice has donated a handsome international trophy for that purpose.

The annual intercollegiate tournament was held as usual during Christmas week, 1898, and resulted in favor of Harvard with 10 victories; Columbia, 8½; Yale, 2½, and Princeton 3. This makes five successive wins for Harvard since Columbia won in 1892 and 1893.

The State Chess Associations held their annual meetings and tournaments on Washington's Birthday in the States of New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Ohio, and Virginia. William M. DeVisser won the championship cup of the New York State Association, and S. Lipschutz carried off the first prize of the tournament of the midsummer meeting, held at Saratoga August 28-30.

Janowski, the distinguished Polish champion, played two matches with Showalter, winning the first, by the score of 7 to 2 with 4 draws, and losing the second match by 8 to 4 and 1 draw.

The chief event of the year was the great International Tournament held in London during July, in which Champion Lasker carried off the first prize against a field of the leading masters of the world, the following being the names and scores of the players :

|                 |     |                 |     |               |     |
|-----------------|-----|-----------------|-----|---------------|-----|
| Lasker.....     | 22½ | Blackburne..... | 15½ | Steinitz..... | 11½ |
| Janowski.....   | 18  | Tschigorin..... | 15  | Lee.....      | 9½  |
| Pillsbury.....  | 18  | Showalter.....  | 12½ | Bird.....     | 7   |
| Moroczy.....    | 18  | Mason.....      | 12  | Tinsley.....  | 6   |
| Schlechter..... | 17  | Cohn.....       | 11½ | Teichman..... | 2   |

As there were but nine prizes, it may be noted as a remarkable fact that for the first time in his eventful career ex-Champion Steinitz was not placed.

It may also be noted that Tschigorin, who only won the seventh prize, carried off the chief honors in the Russian National Tournament subsequently held at Moscow, the winners being; Tschigorin 10, Schiffers 7½, Lewitki 7, Lebedew 6½, Janowitsch 6, Hellbach and Nenarokow 5½.

Preparations are being made for an international tournament to be held on a grand scale in connection with the forthcoming Paris Exhibition.

The following are the solutions to the problems of 1898, contained in last year's ALMANAC :

Geographical Progress in 1899.

A RETROSPECT of the explorations and discoveries of 1899 reveals greater perseverance and activity in Polar expeditions and in the exploration of the Dark Continent than in any other field of geographical research. The following is mainly an outline of the achievements of noted explorers in these and in other quarters of the globe.

POLAR EXPLORATION.

About the middle of February, 1899, after wintering in a canvas-covered hut at Cape Tegetthoff, Hall Island, latitude  $80^{\circ}$  North, the American explorer, Mr. Walter Wellman, with three Norwegians and forty-five dogs, started north. The expedition had two objects in view—the discovery of the North Pole and the exploration of Franz Josef Land, in the latter of which Mr. Wellman was successful, and the mapping of the archipelago is now practically complete. About a month after leaving Winter quarters a fall into a crevasse necessitated Mr. Wellman's retreat. Otherwise  $87^{\circ}$  North would doubtless have been reached. Many unknown regions were explored, notwithstanding this, and the subsequent loss, through an earthquake, of some of the sledges and dogs. No vestige of Andrée was found. An Italian expedition, commanded by the Duke of Abruzzi, who had followed in the track of the American with the same objects in view, was met by him in Franz Josef Land on August 9. At  $80.30^{\circ}$  the two expeditions separated.

A Swedish expedition to East Greenland conducted by Dr. A. G. Nathorst found that the interior of Franz Josef Fjord lay  $2^{\circ}$  further east than was supposed, and that the fjord narrowed toward the interior and was much smaller than maps would indicate. A new fjord was also discovered connected with the southern branch of Franz Josef, and was named King Oscar's. It extends southward to Davy Sound, two branches to the eastward connecting it with the sea. Besides this important discovery, both fjords were mapped, as also was Hury Inlet, and the correct longitude of the Liverpool coast was ascertained. Dr. Nathorst sailed about 800 nautical miles through the waters of Antarctic Sound, where no ship had ever passed. The expedition failed in its main object, the discovery of some traces of Andrée. A Danish expedition from Copenhagen to East Greenland, under the command of Lieutenant Amstrup, R. D. N., explored the coast as far as  $67^{\circ}6'$ , establishing depots at  $66^{\circ}6'$  and  $67^{\circ}15'$ . Further operations in the Arctic regions, with the object of discovering the northern side of Greenland, and thus, if possible, reaching the Pole, have been carried on by Lieutenant Peary and the Norwegian Captain Sverdrup, of the Fram, Dr. Nansen's vessel. The Peary auxiliary expedition, which sailed with supplies from St. John's on July 15, conveyed to Ellesmere Land Dr. Robert Stein, of Washington, and other explorers. Scientific observations and experiments were also made by the Russian Admiral Makaroff from the Yermak, a powerful vessel specially built for Polar exploration.

In the Antarctic regions German deep-sea exploration, besides proving that the Southern Ocean is of astonishing depth, has discovered indications of the nature of the Antarctic Continent, through fragments of granite, gneiss, and schist conveyed from the shores and dropped by icebergs. Professor Chun found Bouvet Island to be of volcanic origin. Its centre lies in latitude  $54^{\circ}26.4'$  South, longitude  $3^{\circ}24.2'$  East. It is 5.1 nautical miles from east to west, and 4.3 from north to south. The loftiest point of its crater rim (Kaiser Wilhelm peak) is 3,067 feet high. One vast glacier covers the whole, forming on two sides a wall of ice 400 feet in height. Soundings taken between Enderby Land and Kerguelen Island revealed great abysses 2,000 to 3,000 fathoms in depth. Another Antarctic expedition, organized by Sir George Newnes under the British flag, after reaching Cape Adare, was assailed by terrific storms. After landing an exploring party and supplies, the vessel (Southern Cross) returned to New Zealand.

AFRICAN EXPLORATION.

In Africa Col. J. R. L. Macdonald explored the unknown regions lying to the north of Uganda, between the Nile and Lake Rudolf, collecting many facts respecting the drainage of those districts. He also discovered that the plateaus of Maus, Nandi, and the Guash Ngishu extend, at reduced elevations, far to the northward. For the first time the western shore of Lake Rudolf has been correctly laid down by Captain Austin. Another successful journey in the same quarter was undertaken by Captain Welby, who collected much interesting information respecting the numerous tribes through which he passed. A scientific expedition to the Central African lakes, under the direction of J. E. Moore, found the greatest depth of Lake Nyasa to be 430 fathoms. An expedition in the French Congo, under the conduct of M. Fourneau, was also a notable success. Leaving Wesso February 14, M. Fourneau pushed on to the River Mambili, and thence through an uninhabited wilderness where no food could be found to a settlement of the Bakabos. After reaching the basin of the Ivindo, he turned north and then veered toward the west, reaching the Albombe on April 2. M. Fourneau then penetrated to the Pahuin country as far as the Bokowe. He reached Gabon on the 10th of June. The journey from the upper Sanga to the coast was made via the River Como, a tributary of the Ogive. An expedition to the southeast corner of the Cameroons via the Congo was sent out under Dr. Pleyn, and the upper course of the Ngoko (a branch of the Sanga), which constitutes for some distance the boundary between the French and the German territories, was explored. By traversing regions entirely uninhabited Dr. Pleyn reached the junction of the Bumba and the Ya, which, uniting, form the Ngoko, and these in turn were explored. He found the country covered with primeval forest, rich in rubber and abounding in elephants. An expedition for the special study of the rubber plant was despatched to West Africa by the Committee on Colonial Agriculture in Berlin under the direction of Herr Schlechter. Further explorations were made in the region of Bangwenlu by Mr. Weatherby, and Mt. Kenya was climbed by Mr. Mackinder, who found it over 17,000 feet in altitude.

The remarkable journey across Africa accomplished by the French military expedition under Major Marchand proved of scientific as well as political importance. Two other French expeditions under Captains Voulet and Chanoine, after pursuing different routes, met at Lausanne Housa January 2. Hostilities having broken out between the French and the natives, charges of gross cruelty were preferred against Voulet and Chanoine and Colonel Klobb was sent out to investigate. Bloodshed followed and the leaders of both parties were killed. During the visit of the Marchand mission the correct latitude and longitude of the present capital of Abyssinia was determined by Captain Germain and Sub-Lieutenant Dyc, that given on the best maps having been very inaccurate. A journey through the interior of Morocco was made by Dr. F. Weisgerber, who visited localities rarely, if ever, reached by Europeans, and the Tensift River, hitherto but partially known, was explored by Dr. Th. Fischer from the plain of El Hamar to the city of Morocco. A belt of black soil of astonishing fertility was discovered, extending from Tensift to the Sebu, parallel with the coast, and interesting data respecting the foreland formation of the Atlas Mountains secured.

Further east a military expedition marched from Biskra to Onargia via Toucourt, showing that troops could be marched over the sands and insurrections suppressed in the extreme south of Algeria.

GEOGRAPHICAL PROGRESS IN 1899—Continued.

In the west another French expedition for the exploring of the upper Kavalli made its way from Bereby Rock, Ivory Coast, to the Duo River. In Ashanti a lake situated near the Guinea coast was explored by a French missionary, M. E. Perregaux, who found a score of native fishing hamlets along its shores. Exploratory work was also done by M. de Béhagle at the source of the Gribingi River. In the south, the Zambesi was ascended by Major Gibbons, who remapped the river, rectifying many mistakes. He found the waterfalls much more numerous than laid down on maps.

EXPLORATIONS IN SOUTH AMERICA.

In the Western Hemisphere South America, particularly the southern portion, has during the past year yielded many of its secrets to the indefatigable efforts of explorers. In Southern Chile a large river, the Rio Baker (Las Heras), was explored by Dr. Steffen. (The river is the largest south of the Palena. It drains the whole region between latitude 46° 5' and 47° 30' S., and also Lakes Buenos Ayres and Cochrane. Extensive swamps skirt the banks. The valley is broad and inclosed by lofty snow-covered mountains. Dr. Steffen's claims of original discovery are, however, disputed by the Argentine explorer, Dr. F. P. Moreno. Dr. Paul Krüger traced the course of the Patagonian Rio Yelcho to the debouchure of the Corintos, proving thereby its identity with the Futaleu (or Staleu). He showed that the Futaleu is not, as supposed, a continuation of the Rio Frio, a tributary of the Palena, but merely the upper portion of the Yelcho, which offers a comparatively easy route from the sea to the colonies in the interior. The so-called Palbitad Fiord to the southward, as shown on maps of that region, does not exist. A small stream, however was found in its place and named the Rio Palbitad.

GENERAL.

As a result of his explorations in Central America Dr. Carl Sapper contributed interesting facts as to the physical features of the northern regions. The original mountain system which covers a considerable area he found to be a continuation of the Archæan arc of the eastern Sierra Madre of Mexico. In Asia much interesting information was collected by Robert T. Turley in a journey to "No Man's Land," Manchuria, and the picturesque and all but unknown gorges of Hun Kiang, surpassingly beautiful in their icy grandeur. From further south valuable additions to the geography of China were contributed by the French traveller, M. Bonin. Since last year Sha-si, the centre of the greatest weaving district of China, has been opened up to foreign trade.

From India two pioneer ascents in the Himalayas were reported, Biafo Glacier and Hispar Pass, by Fanny Babcock Workman, and also a Danish expedition to explore the upper valleys of the Hindu-Kush, under the leadership of Lieutenant Olufsen. Many interesting facts concerning the aborigines of the island of Formosa, have come to light, thanks to the explorations of the Japanese in that quarter. In North Borneo Mt. Kinabalu was ascended by H. T. Burls, who collected much interesting geological data. From Australia was reported an expedition, the object of which was the discovery of the remains of Dr. Leichardt's expedition, which was lost in the interior fifty-two years ago.

In Iceland, Mr. F. W. Howell successfully accomplished the crossing of the Lång Jökull, accompanied by two Oxford men and two Icelanders.

There was considerable progress made during the year in oceanic research. Mr. R. E. Peake, in the steamship Britannia, secured 477 deep soundings in the North Atlantic, besides a large collection of deep-sea deposits, and made many deep-sea current and temperature observations. In the Pacific deep-sea investigation was continued by Alexander Agassiz from the United States steamer Albatross, and in the East Indian seas by Professor Weber on a Dutch warship. Operations in the Black and in the Caspian Sea have also been conducted by the Russians. About nine miles from Sebastopol an ancient city was unearthed by Dr. Kaspar, director of the Russian Archaeological Society, and thousands of objects were brought to light, including bronze and marble statues, and coins dating from the Christian Byzantine period.

SEVENTH INTERNATIONAL GEOGRAPHICAL CONGRESS.

The Congress met in Berlin September 23. Baron Richthofen presided and delivered the address of welcome. Continuing he reviewed the geographical progress of the century. Sir Clements Markham, President of the previous Congress (London, 1895), then presented report of permanent bureau, and resigned his office. The report contained recommendations regarding the triangulation of Africa and the proposed map of the world on a scale of 1-1,000,000, and also announced that hydrographic research would shortly be undertaken in the North Sea by the British, German, and Scandinavian Governments in collaboration. He then outlined a proposed plan for the thorough scientific exploration of the entire South Polar region by means of two expeditions to be conducted simultaneously by Great Britain and Germany in coöperation in 1901. (Sums of money have already been donated by both governments, and also by private individuals, for this purpose.) About a hundred papers were read and discussed. Oceanographical exploration and the question of international uniformity in nomenclature received special attention. The geographical work of the United States Government was outlined by General Greely, of Washington. Resolutions passed favored among other things a uniform map of the world as suggested, each sheet to be bounded by meridians and parallels, statistical population maps, maps on a natural scale, the furnishing of particulars as to method of surveying instruments employed and verification (recommending that all doubtful portions of maps be so indicated), and the adoption of the metric system in all geographical research and discussion. It was also recommended that the attention of governments holding foreign possessions be called to the necessity of obtaining more exact data as to population in unorganized countries.

The American National Red Cross.

INCORPORATED under the laws of the District of Columbia, October 1, 1881. Reincorporated, April 17, 1893, for the relief of suffering by war, pestilence, famine, flood, fires, and other calamities of sufficient magnitude to be deemed national in extent. The organization acts under the Geneva Treaty, the provisions for which were made in International Convention at Geneva, Switzerland, August 22, 1864, and since signed by nearly all civilized nations. The United States gave its adhesion by act of Congress, March 1, 1882. Ratified by the Congress of Berne, June 9, 1882. Proclaimed by President Arthur July 26, 1882. Headquarters, Washington, D. C.

The officers of the American organization are: Board of Consultation—The President of the United States and Members of the Cabinet.

Executive Officers—Clara Barton, President; George Kennan, First Vice-President; Stephen E. Barton, Second Vice-President; Walter P. Phillips, General Secretary; Dr. Julian B. Hubbell, General Field Agent. Directors—Clara Barton, Stephen E. Barton, Dr. Julian B. Hubbell, George Kennan, Walter P. Phillips, Peter V. De Graw, Dr. Joseph Gardner. Executive Committee—Stephen E. Barton, Chairman; George C. Boldt, Treasurer; Joseph Sheldon, Wm. B. Howland.

not otherwise specified. The National Academy was founded in 1826. The schools of the National Academy are open from the first Monday in October to the middle of May. Circulars containing rules, conditions of admission, and other details may be had on application at the Academy, corner Fourth Avenue and East Twenty-third Street, New York.

SOCIETY OF AMERICAN ARTISTS.

President—John La Farge. Vice-President—Kenyon Cox. Secretary—Douglas Volk. Treasurer—Samuel Isham. The above, with Edwin H. Blashfield, constitute the Board of Control. The address of the Secretary is 215 West Fifty-seventh Street, New York.

The Society is composed of 110 members, which includes both sculptors and painters. Its annual exhibition takes place at the above address, generally about the last of March, and lasts until about May 1. Two prizes are awarded each year.

ROYAL ACADEMY.

PRESIDENTS OF THE ROYAL ACADEMY.—1768, Sir Joshua Reynolds; 1792, Benjamin West; 1805, James Wyatt; 1806, Benjamin West; 1820, Sir Thomas Lawrence; 1830, Sir Martin A. Shee; 1850, Sir Charles Eastlake; 1866, Sir Edwin Landseer, elected, declined, Sir Francis Grant; 1878, Sir Frederic Leighton (Lord Leighton); 1896, Sir John Everett Millais, Bart.; 1896, Sir Edward John Poynter.

NATIONAL SCULPTURE SOCIETY.

The National Sculpture Society, with headquarters at New York, was incorporated in 1896. It is composed of lay and sculptor members, and has for its object the spreading of the knowledge of good sculpture, the fostering of the taste for ideal sculpture and its production, both for the household and museums; the promotion of the decoration of public and other buildings, squares, and parks with sculpture of a high class; the improvement of the quality of the sculptor's art as applied to industries, and the providing from time to time for exhibitions of sculpture and objects of industrial art in which sculpture enters. The officers are as follows:

President—John Q. A. Ward. Vice-Presidents—Charles De Kay and Charles Rollinson Lamb. Treasurer—I. Wyman Drummond. Secretary—Barr Ferree, No. 7 Warren Street, New York. Council—Class of 1902: Wm. T. Evans, Daniel C. French, James Brown Lord, C. Rollinson Lamb, F. Wellington Ruckstuhl, and Augustus St. Gaudens; Class of 1901: Herbert Adams, George B. Post, E. C. Potter, Charles De Kay, J. Q. A. Ward, and John De Witt Warner; Class of 1900: Samuel P. Avery, Karl Bitter, John J. Boyle, I. Wyman Drummond, Jonathan S. Hartley, and Barr Ferree.

NATIONAL ARTS CLUB.

THE National Arts Club was organized in the City of New York April 24, 1899. The President is George B. Post, President of the Fine Arts Federation, and recently President of the New York Chapter of the American Institute of Architects. Spencer Trask is Treasurer, and Charles De Kay Secretary and Managing Director pro tem. The club-house is at No. 37 West Thirty-fourth Street, New York, where there is a fireproof gallery for the exhibition of industrial and fine art. The main purpose of the National Arts Club is to show to manufacturers new ways of improving the objects they produce, and making the same more saleable in the markets of the world through addition of art, and further to open up to American artists new lines of endeavor by showing that art is not confined to the statue and the framed picture.

The Paris Exposition of 1900.

THE information about the "Paris Universal International Exposition" given below has been compiled for THE WORLD ALMANAC especially for intending American exhibitors, and revised for the present edition. It may be accepted as being exact in all its details, inasmuch as it has been put together with the courteous aid of the French authorities in the office of M. A. Picard, Commissioner-General for the Exposition and by the Commissioner-General for the United States, 20 Avenue Rapp, Paris.

INTENDING AMERICAN EXHIBITORS.

These should, in the first place, communicate direct with Mr. Ferdinand W. Peck, United States Commissioner for the Paris Exposition of 1900, Chicago, Ill., and not either to the French Minister of Commerce, the Commissioner-General of the Exposition, or the Paris office.

With this foreword of warning, which may save an immense amount of trouble to the intending exhibitor, the following is a brief survey of the mass of information, of general and special interest.

SCOPE AND CHARACTER.

What the number of visitors to the Exposition will be it is, of course, as yet impossible to say; it is enough to remember that the number which visited the last Paris Exposition in 1889 was officially returned at over 32,000,000, and to suppose that in 1900, should nothing internationally disastrous, such as a great war, intervene, these figures will be largely—perhaps enormously—surpassed. Official estimates now used for all calculations place the number of visitors expected at between fifty to sixty millions. The American exhibits at the Exposition of 1889 were wholly unworthy of a great industrial people, but there is every promise that America will show, in the Exposition of 1900, by concrete examples in all branches of human industry, the moral and material progress she has made in the last half century.

ORIGIN AND HISTORY.

Officially, the origin of the Paris Exposition of 1900 dates from the month of July, 1892. The first Paris Exposition was held in 1855; the next in 1867, and the third and fourth in 1878 and 1889, respectively. Shortly after the closing of the last Exposition the idea of a great centennial international exhibition, to be held in the last year of the nineteenth century, was mooted by the public, but it was not until July, 1892, that an official move was made in the form of a communication from M. Jules Roche, the then Minister of Commerce, to President Carnot.

On July 13, following, a decree was issued by President Carnot, announcing a "universal exposition of works of art, and of industrial and agricultural products." A date was fixed (May 5 to October 31, 1900, subsequently changed to April 15 to November 5, 1900), preliminary studies were made and a financial scheme devised, and for convenience of organization the administration was divided into seven sections. These are:

THE ADMINISTRATION.

1. Secretariat-General, which deals with all matters of general business, employment, medical, police, fire service, the press, and complimentary admission. 2. Architecture, which deals with the erection of palaces and pavilions, control of metallic structures and of all devices erected by foreign nations, colonies, and industrial exhibitors. 3. Roads, streets, parks, gardens, water, and lighting. 4. Exploitation, which deals with French, foreign, and colonial sections, installations, the fine arts, agriculture, catalogues, and diplomas. 5. Finance. 6. Litigation. 7. Fêtes.

Generally speaking, the Exposition and the works preliminary to it are under the control of M. Millerand, Minister of Commerce and Industry, Posts, and Telegraphs, but the entire execution has been confided to the following administration:

Commissioner-General, M. Alfred Picard; Director-General of Exploitation, M. Delaunay-Belleville (President of the Paris Chamber of Commerce); Director of Architecture, M. Bouvard (Inspector-General of Architecture for the City of Paris); Director of Roads, Streets, Parks, etc., M. de France; Director of Finance, M. Grison; Director of Litigation, M. E. Moreau; Director of Fine Arts, M. Roujon; Director of Agriculture, M. Vassilière; Delegate for Colonies, M. Charles-Roux; General Secretary, M. Henri Chardon.

COST OF THE EXPOSITION.

The French Government estimates the total cost at $20,000,000 (100,000,000 francs), and accordingly a guarantee fund for that amount has been brought into existence.

Of this total sum of 100,000,000 francs the following allotments have been (approximately) made:

|---|----------------|-------------------------------------|---------------|
| The Grand and Little Palaces of the Fine Arts in the Champs-Élysées, on and about the site of the demolished Palais de l'Industrie..... | Fr. 21,000,000 | Bridges across the Seine.....       | Fr. 5,000,000 |
| Buildings in the Champs de Mars .....   | 18,000,000     | Mechanical and Electrical Service.. | 6,750,000     |
| Buildings on the Esplanade des Invalides .....  | 5,000,000      | Circular Railway.....               | 1,500,000     |
| Buildings on the Quais (including the proposed Street of Venice).....   | 1,500,000      | Illumination and Lighting.....      | 800,000       |
|   |                | Fountains and Gardens.....          | 1,200,000     |
|   |                | Fêtes.....                          | 5,500,000     |
|   |                | Music.....                          | 1,200,000     |
|   |                | The Jury.....                       | 1,000,000     |

The works, it is calculated, will absorb 73,000,000 francs; the exploitation (advertisement, installation, etc.), 12,000,000 francs, and the administration, 8,000,000 francs. The reserve is 7,000,000 francs.

EXPOSITION BONDS.

This money comes from three sources: The French Government (20,000,000 francs), the city of Paris (20,000,000 francs), and bonds (60,000,000 francs). Only the last named call for further remark, because, while the two sums first named are simple contributions, the Exposition bonds are not alone an ingenious financial device, but a source of periodical speculation and excitement to the people of France, and especially of Paris.

The bonds were issued by the State, in cooperation with five of the chief banks, which underwrote bonds to the amount of 62,400,000 francs, receiving a commission of 5 per cent on the sales, and depositing 60,000,000 francs in the Caisse des Dépôts, where it remains at 2½ per cent interest until 1900. No interest is payable to the general public, who hold the bonds, having bought them at 20 francs each, but each bond entitles the holder to twenty tickets for the Exposition, and the holder, moreover, participates in twenty-nine drawings, comprising 4,313 prizes, ranging from 100 francs to 500,000 francs in value. If the Exposition, from any cause, should not take place, the State will redeem the bonds at par.

GENERAL REGULATIONS.

The General Regulations were issued on August 7, 1894, and may be obtained on application to the Special Commissioners of the various countries, but for present use we give a résumé of those regulations which most concern intending American exhibitors. It will be of interest to say here that the United States has obtained more space at the forthcoming Exposition than it had in either the Exposition of 1873 or of 1889, while the State grant, too, is likely to be largely in excess of the grants in those years.

The space finally allotted to the United States in the Paris Exposition of 1900 is 200,000 square feet, as compared with 91,000 square feet in 1873, and 113,300 square feet in 1889; and of this 200,000 feet more than 150,000 square feet have been allotted or assigned. The State grant by the United States in 1873 was $190,000; and in 1889, $250,000. In 1900 it is $1,210,000. The following includes the principal regulations which concern intending American exhibitors:

1. All nations participate on equal terms.
2. Foreign exhibitors must correspond with the Commissioners of their respective countries, and cannot communicate directly with the Administration of the Exhibition, but this regulation does not apply to the proposed retrospective centennial exposition reviewing the progress achieved since 1800 in the various branches of production.
3. All machinery, so far as possible, must be operated on the grounds in full view of the public.
4. All works of art must be deposited at the Fine Arts Building between February 15 and 20, 1900, under arrangements to be prescribed by the Commissioner-General; all expenses to be at the charge of the exhibitor, except in case of the retrospective centennial exposition (of collections, etc.), which may be borne by the administration. All expenses of installation, however, will be borne by the administration of Beaux Arts.
5. All industrial and agricultural products are admissible except those of an explosive, highly spirituous, or offensive character, unless they are inclosed in solid vessels of small dimensions. Applicants requiring gas or steam should state in their applications the quantity needed and all other desired information. The admission of foreign products will be authorized by the Commissioner-General upon the propositions of the Commissioners of the various countries, and certificates of admission will be delivered.
6. No charge will be made to exhibitors for space, water, gas, steam, or other motive power, but "connections" must be supplied by the exhibitor.
7. Generally speaking, all expenses of packing, re-packing, installation, storage, and so on must be borne by the exhibitor.
8. Plans for special constructions must be submitted to and approved by the administration (sent through the Special Commissioner).
9. Exhibitors are invited to mark exhibits with the market price, but this is not compulsory.
10. The exhibits will be admitted to the country duty free, as the Exposition is constituted, for the time being, a bonded warehouse. Duty, however, will be levied on articles manufactured on the spot.
11. The taking of general photographs is not forbidden, but no exhibit can be photographed or copied without special permission *visé*d by the administration.

CLASSIFICATION OF EXHIBITS.

The exhibits will be divided into eighteen groups, as follows: (1) Education and instruction. (2) Works of art. (3) Instruments and general methods of letters, sciences, and arts. (4) Machinery and processes of mechanism. (5) Electricity. (6) Civil engineering, transportation. (7) Agriculture. (8) Horticulture. (9) Forestry, hunting, fishing, crop-gathering. (10) Alimentation. (11) Mines, metallurgy. (12) Decoration and furniture of public buildings and dwellings. (13) Cotton fabrics, textures, clothing. (14) Chemical industry. (15) Various industries. (16) Social economy, hygiene, public assistance. (17) Colonization. (18) Territorial and naval armies.

THE JURY.

The jury will be, as in 1889, international, sub-divided into juries of class, juries of groups, and superior jury. Foreign jurors will be named by the Commissioners of the respective countries. The Foreign Commissioners will be ex officio members of the superior jury. The superior jury will finally revise the list of awards, and the distribution of diplomas will take place about the beginning of September, 1900.

AWARDS.

Only diplomas will be granted, thus classified; Grand prize diplomas, gold medal diplomas, silver medal diplomas, bronze medal diplomas, and diplomas of honorable mention.

MAIN FEATURES.

The grand entrance to the Exposition of 1900 will be off the Place de la Concorde, close to the Seine, but there will be a multitude of other entrances in the Champs-Elysées, the Champs de Mars, and the Esplanade des Invalides. The Exposition authorities themselves do not know what will be the most popular and striking feature of the Exposition, but it will doubtless prove to be one of the following, all of them novel and attractive: 1. The Streets of Old and New Paris, running along the embankment from the Place de la Concorde to the Pont de l'Alma and on the Champs de Mars. This will illustrate the art and wit of France, and will contain palaces of dancing, song, and all that is refined in the curiosities of Paris. The directors of the Opéra and another leading Paris theatre are engaged upon its elaboration. 2. M. Deloncle's telescope, bringing the moon's surface apparently within 40 kilometres (25 miles) of the spectator. 3. An Alpine Exhibition (by the French Alpine Club). 4. A city of gold, near the Trocadéro, showing every detail of gold production, with Californian miners and models of the mines. 5. A History of Costume. 6. A gigantic Turning Palace, or Revolving Tower, 100 yards high and lighted throughout by electricity. 7. The Grand and Little Palaces of the Fine Arts of all nations. 8. The Pavilion of the Press, and those of the special commissioners which will be scattered over the area. From here will probably be issued a daily trilingual news sheet. 9. An enormous Terrestrial Globe by the famous French geographer, M. Réclus, placed, owing to its size, outside the Exposition proper. 10. Palace of the Army and Navy and a Palace of Food, or Alimentation. 11. A Submarine Grotto. Besides the above, a piece of land along the Seine, to the left as one stands with one's back to the Eiffel Tower (which will be painted silver-gray), and facing the Trocadéro, will be the scene of many colonial villages within Exposition bounds. In addition to these there will almost certainly be a switchback; a colossal vat; an enormous bell; imitation of the Blue Grotto of Capri, of the fountain of Vaucluse; captive balloons; a cyclorama of the war of secession in America, and other devices to interest, charm, or amuse.

THE EXTENT.

It is calculated that the Exposition of 1900 will cover 12 per cent more space than was occupied by the Exhibition of 1889. The ground will not be partitioned off by nationalities, but by sections, each section being devoted to a particular industry or art, and the processes of each art and industry being, so far as is possible, displayed in operation.

The site occupied includes the public grounds on both sides of the Seine, from the Place de la Concorde to the Pont de l'Alma, this area including the Champs de Mars, the Trocadéro, the Esplanade des Invalides, the Quai d'Orsay, the Quai de la Conférence, the Cours la Reine, and the part of the Champs-Elysées where until recently stood the Palais de l'Industrie, a landmark of the Exhibition of 1855.

THE UNITED STATES BUILDING.

The United States building, which stands on the Quai d'Orsay on the Seine, amid the other buildings of the nations, is being erected according to the plans of Mr. Charles A. Coolidge, of New York, and M. Morin-Goustiaux, the French architect. It has a frontage of 85 feet and a depth of 90 feet, and the top of the dome will be 160 feet from the ground. One of the main features is a classic porch which opens on the Seine. Two hundred thousand dollars are being expended on United States buildings.

Exhibits other than works of art must be received at the Exposition between December 1, 1899, and February 28, 1900.

There are three offices that have been established by Commissioner-General Peck, at which information as to exhibits and copies of all rules can be had. These are in the Equitable building, New York; the Auditorium building, Chicago, and the Embassy of the United States, Paris.

Other International and National Expositions.

1901. Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo, N. Y.—Particulars appear on a following page.

1901. Glasgow International Exhibition—This will be held in Glasgow, Scotland, in the Summer of 1901. It will open May 1, and close October 31. It will be held on the site of the exhibition of 1888, and it is intended to present an illustration of the produce and manufactures of the British Empire and colonies, with adequate representation from other countries. The exhibition will be divided into sections, among which the following will receive attention: Fine art, history and archaeology, locomotion and transport, electricity, labor-saving machinery, marine engineering, and sports. The River Kelvin will be available for the exhibition of naval shipbuilding and life-saving apparatus. The charge for space within the building will be 3s. (73 cents) per square foot, with a minimum charge of £5 ($24.30). Payment to the extent of 25 per cent must accompany the application.

1901. Detroit Bi-Centenary—It is proposed to celebrate the bi-centenary of the settlement of that city by an international exposition in 1901.

1902. Ohio Centennial and Northwest Territory Exposition at Toledo, O.—On April 26, 1898, a bill was passed by the General Assembly of Ohio creating the Ohio Centennial and Northwest Territory Exposition "for the purpose of conducting and holding a public exposition in 1902, designed for the education, edification, and entertainment of the public, to show the great progress made along financial, industrial, commercial, and educational lines." To further advance the interest of the exposition the bill was followed by an act creating a commission of twenty-one members, one from each Congressional district; a local commission of nine members, and a centennial company of fifteen members, with a sum of $150,000 toward preparing the grounds for the exposition. Toledo was selected as the location for the great exposition, and Bay View Park was accepted by the State as the site. This park contains 225 acres, a greater portion of it extending out into Lake Erie, where during the Summer months a fresh breeze is generally sweeping over the land. It has a frontage on Lake Erie of over a mile. The United States Congress passed a bill March 3, 1899, appropriating

OTHER INTERNATIONAL AND NATIONAL EXPOSITIONS—Continued.

$500,000 for the purpose of "encouraging the holding of the Ohio Centennial and Northwest Territory Exposition at the city of Toledo, in the year 1902, for the exhibition of the resources of the United States, Hawaii, Cuba, Porto Rico, and the Philippines, and the progress of American countries; and for the display of the arts, industries, manufactures, and products of the soil, mine, and sea." It was also declared that such an exposition should be international in character. The Ohio Centennial Company is organized and working and has a capital stock of $500,000. The cost of preparing the park will exceed $300,000. Many of the States have passed bills appropriating from $50,000 to $100,000, and nearly half a hundred societies of the territory interested have signified their intention of erecting suitable buildings for their use, some appropriating from $5,000 to $40,000 for such purpose.

1903. The St. Louis Exposition to commemorate the purchase of the Louisiana Territory in 1803, will be held in that city in the Summer of 1903. It is intended to raise $15,000,000 for the purpose, of which the citizens of St. Louis will raise a third, the city of St. Louis will be bonded for a second third, and the last third is expected to be loaned by the United States. The river front near Jefferson Barracks is favored for the site. Ex-Governor David R. Francis heads a committee of 200 to further the details of the movement.

The Pan-American Exposition of 1901.

AN exposition of the industries of the countries of the American continents, North and South, will be held at Buffalo, N. Y., near the Niagara frontier, in the Summer of 1901.

The following statement has been prepared by the Publicity Department of the Exposition for THE WORLD ALMANAC:

Although the exposition will cover but 50 per cent of the ground space occupied by the World's Columbian Exposition at Chicago in 1893, the Pan-American will, in many particulars, exceed the great Chicago Fair, and particularly in the magnificence of the electrical, aquatic, and horticultural displays.

It will not be as big, but it will be far more beautiful. Where at Chicago the acme of severely classical architecture was reached, the style adopted by the Advisory Board of Architects of the coming exposition is a sort of an American renaissance—if the term be allowed. It will be in the warmer Southern style, and the buildings will be masses of color where the buildings at Chicago were of a dazzling white. Here the domes and minarets of the structures will be colored, and from a distance the red, green, and golden pinnacles of the buildings and the acres of flowers will look like a mass of flower beds.

As first planned in 1897, the fair was to be held at Cayuga Island, near Niagara Falls, in the year 1899, and the fifty acres embraced by the island was thought to be ample ground. The preliminary work was done along those lines, and the Federal Government and the Government of the Empire State were approached and interested, and nearly $1,000,000 was pledged. Then the Spanish-American War intervened, and it was deemed best to allow the project to slumber. When it was revived it was on broader lines. It had been a semi-private enterprise, but when new life was injected into it the men and women of the entire Niagara frontier were invited to come in and help the matter along. There was a veritable rush, and at one dinner tendered to Mayor Diehl, of Buffalo, $500,000 was raised in three hours, and the million dollar mark of capital stock was passed in five days. Then the capital stock was increased to $2,500,000, and the company was empowered to float bonds in a similar amount, thus placing $5,000,000 at the disposal of the management, and the Federal Government soon followed with an appropriation of $500,000, while the Empire State set aside $300,000.

With that great sum on hand, and with possibilities of large appropriations from the Dominion of Canada, Mexico, the Central and South American Republics, and the various States of the Union for special buildings, all thoughts of Cayuga Island were set aside, and a site embracing 335 acres, and consisting of land north of and adjacent to the Delaware Park, at Buffalo, was selected.

The work is now being pushed as rapidly as skill and money can do it. The preliminaries are disposed of. The organization was completed with the advent of Director-General William I. Buchanan, who arrived in Buffalo on the first day of November, 1899, and immediately took the reins of government. Before Mr. Buchanan's arrival the work had been forwarded by a Committee on Organization, composed of President John G. Milburn and Chairmen Scatcherd, of the Executive Committee; Bleistein, of the Publicity Department; Baird, of the Exhibits Committee; Pierce, of the Concessions Committee; W. Caryl Ely, of the Transportation Committee; Hotchkiss, of the Printing and Supplies Committee; Adams, of the State and Foreign Relations Committee, and Treasurer George L. Williams, Commissioner-General John B. Weber, and Secretary Edwin Fleming, who carried on the bulk of the business until the appointment of Newcomb Carlton, the Director of Works, who, with Directors George K. Birge and Carleton Sprague, of the Buildings and Ground Committee, accomplished large results.

From purposes to plans is but a short step, and it is not now amiss to tell what the management of the great fair expects to do. In the first place, it plans to show to the visitors the grandest display of electricity that the world has ever seen. As Buffalo intends in 1901 to prove her claim to the title of "The Electric City," which some have given her, it is but fitting that electricity should be the dominant feature of the coming exhibition, for the Cataract of Niagara is within a few miles, and the countless millions of horse-power of that great waterfall will be harnessed to produce the energy which will move the wheels, and turn the levers, and illuminate the buildings within the exposition gates. The electric fountains will be colored red, and green, and gold by thousands of electric bulbs, which will be skilfully made to furnish effects never before seen. All about the exposition grounds a grand canal will twist and twine, and at numerous points along that waterway there will be caverns and grottoes more beautiful than the famed ones of Capri, and in them will be the most charming electrical effects. Water cascades will flash lights in never ending beauty, and towers, domes, and pinnacles will be masses of radiance.

The facilities afforded by the location of the exposition are unusual. Buffalo is an ideal Summer city, and is the very hub of the most thickly settled section of the North American Continent. As gateway between the Prairie States of the West and the Atlantic seaboard, a vast flood of travel comes to her gates, and within the confines of a five hundred mile circle no less than 40,000,000 people live. A similar circle drawn about the city of Chicago would show a population of about 22,000,000, and statisticians claimed that over 60 per cent of the attendance at the World's Columbian Exposition came from within that 500 mile belt. The attendance at the World's Fair was something over 27,000,000. That being so, a much greater number of people may be expected to visit the Pan-American Exposition of 1901.

THE PAN-AMERICAN EXPOSITION OF 1901—Continued.

The Governor of New York, at the last session of the Legislature of that State, nominated the following Board of Managers of the New York exhibit at the exposition, and they were confirmed by the Senate: Daniel T. Lockwood, of Buffalo, President of the Board; Jacob Amos, of Syracuse; Gaius C. Bolin, of Poughkeepsie; Nicholas V. V. Franchot, of Olean; William H. Geisbelen, of New York; Frederick Greiner, of Buffalo; John T. Mott, of Oswego; Leopold Stern, of New York, and George E. Vost, of Theresa.

The Chairman of the Committee on Publicity is George Bleistein, and the office of the committee is at 222 Ellicott Square, Buffalo.

The American Lafayette Memorial in Paris.

ON March 30, 1899, the Congress of the United States appropriated 50,000 silver dollars in behalf of a monument to be erected in Paris by the school children of America in honor of Lafayette. The creation of the monument has been intrusted to Paul Weyland Bartlett, sculptor, of New York, who will be aided by Thomas Hastings, architect. The statue will be of equestrian style, and possibly will be the largest of the kind ever erected. Lafayette is seated facing the west, extending his sword in offering to Liberty. Its cost will be $150,000, which has all been paid in, the popular collection inaugurated by the secretary of the commission having proved an immense success, far surpassing in number of contributors, viz., 4,000,000, all previous records of public collections. The site of the monument, given by the French Government, is in the very heart of Paris, and within the beautiful garden of the Tuileries, the exact spot being Lafayette Square, so named especially for the statue, and adjacent to the Gambetta monument. The unveiling and dedication exercises will take place in Paris on July 4, 1900, United States day at the Exposition. Robert J. Thompson, who originated this movement, is the Secretary of the Memorial Committee, and his office is at the Auditorium building, Chicago. The Honorary President is Ferdinand W. Peck, the United States Commissioner for the Paris Exposition.

John Marshall Day.

THE American Bar Association at its annual meeting in 1899 appointed a committee to devise a plan for observing February 4, 1901, in honor of the illustrious Chief Justice John Marshall. This date is the one-hundredth anniversary of the appointment of Marshall to the head of the judiciary of the United States.

* The French Academy is one of five academies, and the most eminent, constituting the Institute of France. It was founded in 1635 by the Cardinal Richelieu, and reorganized in 1816. It is composed of 40 members, elected for life, after personal application and the submission of their nomination to the head of the State. It meets twice weekly, at the Palace Mazarin, 23 Quai Conti, Paris, and is "the highest authority on everything appertaining to the niceties of the French language, to grammar, rhetoric, and poetry, and the publication of the French classics." The chief officer is the secretary, who has a life tenure of his position. The present permanent secretary is Marie L. A. G. Boissier, who was elected an Academician in 1876. A chair in the Academy is the highest ambition of most literary Frenchmen.

The other academies of the Institute of France are: The Academy of Inscriptions and Belles-Lettres, with 40 members; Academy of Sciences, with 68 members; Academy of Fine Arts, with 40 members (as follows: Painting, 14, sculpture, 8; architecture, 8; engraving, 4; musical composition, 6), and Academy of Moral and Political Science, with 40 members. All members are elected for life.

Review of Scientific Progress in 1899.

ASTRONOMY.

In this department of physical research considerable progress was made in 1899. Several new asteroids were discovered by the photographic method; some of these, however, may turn out to be old ones rediscovered, since the number of these small bodies is now so great that a strict account of their places in the heavens cannot be kept, very few astronomers having the inclination or time to undertake such a prodigious amount of labor.

Some three or four comets were also discovered—all telescopic and of little or no interest. A return of Biela's comet is announced, but an impression is entertained in some quarters that this comet has been disintegrated and reduced to a swarm of meteoric matter.

A branch of the Harvard University Observatory located on the Andes Mountains, near Arequipa, Peru, announced the discovery of a very faint satellite of Saturn. It was found by the photographic method; very few, if any, telescopes in the world can show it. The satellite is exceedingly faint, being of the fifteenth or sixteenth magnitude, and when viewed from Saturn itself it would appear only of the fifth magnitude, or two magnitudes below Hyperion, hitherto the faintest known object in the solar system. Notwithstanding this, it is fully 200 miles in diameter; its distance from the primary is estimated at 8,000,000 miles, or more than thirty times the distance of our moon from the earth, and its period about eighteen months. Further observations are required to determine the elements of this faint but interesting body.

A gigantic telescope is in course of construction at Paris, France; its object glass has a diameter of 49.2 inches, or 9.2 inches more than the great Yerkes telescope at Williams Bay, Wis., and 13.2 inches larger than the Lick instrument at Mount Hamilton, Cal. In order to obviate the effect of chromatic aberration and to reduce the mechanical and optical difficulties to a minimum, it was decided to extend the focal length to sixty metres, or nearly 200 feet. The tube is of steel, formed by twenty-four separate tubes screwed together, weighs twenty-one tons, and has a diameter in the largest part of 59 inches. It would be practically impossible to mount such an instrument in the ordinary way owing to the great weight and to the instability and flexure to which it would be exposed, not to mention the difficulty in operating the enormous dome which would be required to protect it. These difficulties have been in part overcome, at the expense, however, of a considerable loss of light, by resting the tube in a horizontal position on cast-iron supports, so arranged that they can have a slight motion on a system of rails in order to neutralize the effect of expansion by heat. The tube is placed in the plane of the meridian, with the object glass toward the south, and in front of it at a convenient distance is placed a siderostat, or plane mirror, so mounted that when operated by clock work it will reflect the rays from a heavenly body into the tube of the telescope. The mirror has a diameter of 78 inches and weighs six and a half tons. There are two object glasses—one for visual observations, the other for photographic work. Each glass weighs 1,600 pounds.

In light-grasp power this instrument, compared with that of the most powerful in existence (the Yerkes glass), is as three to two, but in consequence of the loss of light by reflection from the siderostat this ratio will be considerably reduced. In regard to photography, however, it will doubtless surpass all other instruments, since, owing to its great focal length, photographic pictures of the moon, for instance, 20 or 22 inches in diameter, can be taken, and this of itself will constitute a marked progress in our knowledge of the physical constitution of our satellite.

Another monster telescope, intended for the Allegheny, Pa., Observatory, is also in course of construction. The object glass is to be 32 inches in diameter, and from the well-known reputation of the maker, it is expected to be one of the finest in the world.

CHEMISTRY.

Experimentation with liquid hydrogen has resulted in the discovery of some wonderful and interesting properties, which may eventually be turned to practical account.

Atmospheric air, on entering a vessel containing liquid hydrogen, is at once frozen to a solid, and falls like a precipitate; a piece of cotton, or a glass rod, dipped into it and lighted gives the well-known hydrogen flame; a small cork ball sinks at once in liquid hydrogen; a solid body immersed in it for a few seconds becomes so cold that it liquefies the surrounding air on its withdrawal, which runs off in drops, and if a tube containing air, or oxygen, be plunged into it, it is at once solidified. The actual temperature of liquid hydrogen is thought to be about 21° absolute. Very perfect vacua have been produced by placing tubes containing air in liquid hydrogen—so perfect, indeed, that an electric discharge cannot pass through them.

A new method of extracting nickel from its ores, which usually contain iron, cobalt, copper, etc., has been devised and successfully put into practice. It depends on the fact that nickel forms a volatile compound with CO, carbon monoxide—called nickel carbonyl, which boils at 150° C., and from which the nickel is again regenerated at 180° C.

An investigation into the nature of helium has been made with the view of determining whether it is an element or a compound, as was at one time suspected. It is now shown to be a perfectly homogeneous body, and is therefore to rank hereafter as one of the elementary bodies existing in the sun as well as on the earth.

GEOLOGY AND EXPLORATION.

Geological researches were carried on in 1899 with unabated vigor and with some very practical results. Among the regions which received more than the usual attention from geologists and explorers may be mentioned San Clemente Island, off the south coast of California; it is purely of volcanic origin, with some sedimentary rocks of the Miocene Age; also Edwards Plateau and the plain of the Rio Grande, and the famous crater lake of Oregon. This last is one of the most stupendous works of nature, and considered in all its aspects, ranks with the grand cañon of Colorado, the Yosemite Valley, and the Falls of Niagara. Such is the extraordinary beauty and grandeur of the region that a bill has been introduced in Congress to make it a National Park. The other regions which have been partially explored, from a geologic standpoint, are the Isthmus of Panama, Costa Rica, Jamaica, certain parts of Montana, North Labrador, and Tasmania, all of which have yielded results of great scientific and commercial importance.

Extensive coal-bearing districts have been discovered in the neighborhood of Crow Nest Pass, on the eastern side of the Rocky Mountains, and also on the Pembina River, in Northern Alberta, Canada. The seam, which is seventeen feet thick, crops out on the river bank and has been on fire for many years. Petroleum has been found on Pelican River, Northwest Territory, Canada; borings 800 feet deep have shown the existence of inexhaustible deposits of coal tar and natural gas.

Gold is found in all the streams flowing east of the Rocky Mountains, north of the international boundary line, especially on the Peace and Liard rivers, and in the Klondike regions. The metal is found in the disintegrated rocks of the Laurentian Plateau. The aggregate value of the minerals produced in this region during 1897 was $28,661,430, an increase of 27 per cent on the preceding year.

Native silver in paying quantities has been found near Livingston, Davidson County, N. C., and two extensive beds of corundum have been discovered in widely separated parts of the world—one in India, which also yields rubies and sapphires, the other in Renfrew County, Ontario; the latter occurring in dykes of syenite and quartz, intersecting the Laurentian gneiss.

An extensive investigation of the Atlantic coast and lake regions of Canada and the United States has been carried on for many years, and conducts to the most astounding, if not alarming, results. The question of any progressive change in the level of our Atlantic coast, and of the Great Lakes on our northern frontier, is not only of great scientific interest, but also of great practical and national importance, for any change in the rise and fall of the water in these regions may have a profound effect on the value of property in their vicinity and on national boundaries. It is now pretty clearly shown that the earth movements which characterized the closing epochs of the Pleistocene period extend to the Great Lakes and are still going on.

This slow but continuous movement of the lake basin is destined eventually to turn the waters of the Great Lakes through the Illinois River into the Mississippi, resulting in the entire or partial flooding of the lower portion of the valley of that great river. Another great movement is going on on the Atlantic coast and the shores of Hudson Bay. South of Connecticut the land is subsiding at the rate of about two feet in one hundred years, while the land around Hudson and James's bays has actually risen seven feet during the present century. Bays and inlets in which the Hudson Bay Company's ships formerly wintered, over a century ago, will now scarcely float a rowboat, and rivers whose mouths were formerly navigable for ships for several miles are now no longer so, but enter the bay by a rapid or fall. Ancient beaches are easily seen on the eastern shore of Hudson Bay from fifty to seventy feet above the present high-water mark.

All these facts, pointing in a common direction, warrant the hypothesis that the tilting of the lake region, which was going on at the close of the glacial period, as shown by the slopes of all shore lines, is still in progress.

Observations show that in the case of Lake Superior there is a gradual rise of water at the west end and a falling at the east end, or, in other words, the west end is sinking and the east rising. The mean rate of change derived from a long series of observations is 0.42 feet in a hundred miles per century. It would appear then that the whole lake region is being lifted at one side and depressed on the opposite, so that its plane is bodily canted toward the southwest. Certain general consequences must necessarily flow from this movement independently of any irregularities that may be due to excessive rainfalls, or evaporation. Thus, it is found that on Lake Ontario the water is advancing on all shores; the same is true of Lake Erie, the most rapid change being at Sandusky and Toledo, Ohio. Around Lake Huron, the water is falling more rapidly in the north and northeast than in the south and southwest. At Lake Superior the water is advancing on the United States shore and receding on the Canadian, and a similar movement exists in Lake Michigan, the water of which is falling in the north and rising in the south at Chicago at the rate of 9 or 10 inches in 100 years. At the present rate, the discharge of the water of the lakes through the Illinois River into the Mississippi may begin and flow on uninterruptedly in about 800 years, and in about 1,800 or 2,000 years the Illinois and Niagara rivers will carry about equal volumes of water. Chicago is, therefore, a doomed city; it stands on a sinking plain, which is now only a few feet above the level of Lake Michigan. A similar fate awaits Manhattan and Long Islands, the greater part of New Jersey, Delaware, and portions of Maryland, Virginia, and the Carolinas. This populous region, at present the centre of life, energy, and activity, is destined to be ultimately submerged beneath the Atlantic. This gradual subsidence of the Atlantic coast is probably due to a fault which is known to extend from New England to the Carolinas, and it was along this fault that the Charleston earthquake of 1886 was chiefly felt.

In confirmation of this relation between earthquakes and faults, it may be noticed that a recent investigation into the earthquake in Hereford, England, in 1896, shows that it also was due to a slip or fall along a fault many miles in length. There were in this case two foci or centres of disturbance, eight miles apart, between which there was no disturbance.

A meteorite, weighing ninety-six pounds nine ounces, was found near the Tombigbee River, Ala.; the date of the fall is unknown. It has all the characteristic depressions and marks of siderites in general. It consists chiefly of very soft iron, which, however, is capable of a very high polish. An analysis gives iron 95, nickel 4.1, cobalt 0.4, phosphorus 0.32, carbon 0.16, and sulphur a trace, per cent respectively.

During the year 1899 science was called upon to mourn for the loss of a few of her most distinguished votaries. Prof. Bunsen, the famous German chemist; Prof. Marsh, of New Haven, Ct., the foremost paleontologist of his time; Sir Edward Frankland, a celebrated English chemist; Dr. D. G. Brinton, anthropologist, of Philadelphia, Pa., and Sir W. H. Flower, the eminent zoologist of the British Museum, have passed over to the majority, leaving behind them an imperishable record in their respective lines of scientific research.

Statistics of the Press.

ROWELL'S American Newspaper Directory for 1899 reports the number of newspapers published in the United States and Canada as 22,056. Of these, 883 were Canadian publications. The following was the frequency of issue: Weekly, 15,688; monthly, 2,964; daily, 2,229; semi-monthly, 368; semi-weekly, 445; quarterly, 182; bi-weekly, 74; bi-monthly, 59; tri-weekly, 47—total, 22,056.

The following table exhibits the number of papers printed in the several States and Canada in 1899:

Founding of Noted Colleges,

FRATERNITIES, AND SOCIETIES.

THE University of Oxford has the reputation of having been founded by King Alfred in 872.

The first college of the University of Cambridge was founded by Hugo, Bishop of Ely, in 1257.

The University of Paris was founded by King Philip II. about 1200.

The first German university was at Prague, 1348.

Trinity College, Dublin, was incorporated by royal charter in 1591.

The University of Edinburgh was founded in 1582 by a charter granted by King James VI. of Scotland.

Harvard University had its beginning at Newtown, afterward Cambridge, Mass., in 1636.

Yale University had its beginning at Saybrook, Ct., in 1700, and was removed to New Haven in 1716.

William and Mary College, first steps taken toward establishing it in 1617, erected at Williamsburg, Va., and charter granted in 1693.

The first common schools established by legislation in America were in Massachusetts, 1645; but the first town school was opened at Hartford, Ct., prior to 1642.

There are twenty-eight college Greek-letter societies in the United States, which have a membership of 100,000, with some 650 active chapters and 350 inactive chapters. They own 70 houses or halls in various college towns and cities.

The oldest college fraternity is the Kappa Alpha, which was founded at Union College, Schenectady, N. Y., in 1825.

There are eleven women's college fraternities, the oldest being the Pi Beta Phi, founded at Monmouth College in 1867.

There are also 16 professional fraternities founded by professional schools attached to colleges, and these number some 50 active chapters and over 3,500 members.

In addition are a number of local fraternities.

*The difference between the cheers of Harvard and Yale lies in the length of time it takes to give them. Harvard's cheer is long and deep; Yale's quick and sharp.

Phi Beta Kappa.

THE National Council, Phi Beta Kappa, is composed of fifty different college chapters in union. At the triennial session at Saratoga Springs, N. Y., September 7, 1898, the following officers and Senators were elected: President, J. A. De Remer, Schenectady, N. Y.; Vice-President, Prof. J. C. Van Benschoten, Middletown, Ct.; Secretary and Treasurer, Rev. E. B. Parsons, D. D., Williamstown, Mass.; Senators, Joseph H. Choate, New York City; J. A. De Remer, Schenectady, N. Y.; T. E. Hancock, Syracuse, N. Y.; Prof. Samuel Hart, D. D., Hartford, Ct.; Col. T. W. Higginson, Cambridge, Mass.; Seth Low, New York City; H. W. Mabie, New York City; Prof. F. A. March, Easton, Pa.; H. E. Scudder, Cambridge, Mass.; Prof. J. C. Van Benschoten, Middletown, Ct.; Prof. S. E. Baldwin, New Haven, Ct.; Prof. H. L. Chapman, Brunswick, Me.; President D. C. Gilman, Baltimore, Md.; Rev. E. E. Hale, Roxbury, Mass.; Bishop J. F. Hurst, Washington, D. C.; Col. William Lamb, Norfolk, Va.; Prof. F. P. Nash, Geneva, N. Y.; Rev. E. B. Parsons, Williamstown, Mass.; President C. F. Thwing, Cleveland, O.; Prof. Adolph Werner, New York City.

The Peabody Education Fund.

IN 1867 and 1869 George Peabody established a fund of $3,500,000, to be devoted to education in the Southern States of the Union. Unfortunately, $1,350,000 of this amount was in Mississippi and Florida bonds, which those States repudiated. The fund was placed in the charge and control of 15 trustees, of which the Hon. Robert C. Winthrop, of Massachusetts, was the chairman. Mr. Peabody died in London in 1869. The trustees hold meetings annually, usually in New York. They fill vacancies caused by death or resignation. But one of the original trustees survives—Ex-Senator Everts. The present trustees are: William M. Everts, who is President of the board; Chief Justice Fuller, First Vice-President; Rt. Rev. Bishop Whipple, Second Vice-President; Hon. Jabez L. M. Curry, LL. D., General Agent; Joseph H. Choate, J. Pierpont Morgan, of New York; President William McKinley, of Ohio; Samuel A. Green, Richard Olney, and George F. Hoar, of Massachusetts; William Wirt Henry, of Virginia; ex-Mayor William A. Courtenay, of South Carolina; James D. Porter, of Tennessee; Henderson M. Somerville, of New York; President D. C. Gilman, of Johns Hopkins University; George Peabody Wetmore, of Rhode Island, and Charles E. Fenner, of Louisiana. Dr. Curry is general agent of the fund, with headquarters at Washington, D. C., and has charge of the distribution of the fund in the several Southern States. In its earlier history, the chief aim of the fund was to encourage and secure the establishment of public school systems for the free education of all children. That having been accomplished, the income of the fund is now used for the training of teachers through Normal Schools and Teachers' Institutes. At its session in October, 1896, the board declared it to be inexpedient to close the Trust in February, 1897, the power to do which was left to its discretion. In the thirty-one years since the organization of the Trust, over $2,585,182 for education has been spent, as the income of the sum left by Mr. Peabody. Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan is the Treasurer.

The John F. Slater Fund.

IN 1882 Mr. John F. Slater, of Connecticut, placed in the hands of trustees the sum of $1,000,000, for the purpose of "uplifting the lately emancipated population of the Southern States and their posterity." For this patriotic and munificent gift the thanks of Congress were voted, and a medal was presented. Neither principal nor income is expended for land or buildings. Education in industries and the preparation of teachers are promoted in institutions believed to be on a permanent basis. The board consists of D. C. Gilman, of Johns Hopkins University, as President; Chief Justice Fuller, as Vice-President; Morris K. Jesup, as Treasurer; J. L. M. Curry, as Secretary and General Manager, and Bishops Potter and Galloway, and Messrs. William E. Dodge, William A. Slater, John A. Stewart, Alexander E. Orr, ex-Governor Northen, and Wm. L. Wilson. The fund is a potential agency in working out the problem of the education of the negro, and over half a million of dollars has already been expended. Schools established by States, denominations, and individuals are helped by annual donations. Among the most prominent are the Hampton Normal and Industrial, the Spelman, the Tuskegee, and schools at Orangeburg, S. C.; Tongaloo, Miss.; Marshall, Tex.; Raleigh, N. C.; New Orleans, the Meharry Medical College at Nashville, etc.

National Educational Association.

President—E. Oram Lyte, Millersville, Pa. Secretary—Irwin Shepard, Winona, Minn. Treasurer—I. C. McNeil, West Superior, Wis. Depository of Association at 450 Pennsylvania Avenue, Washington, D. C. Object—To elevate the character and advance the interests of the profession of teaching, and to promote the cause of public education in the United States. Annual dues for active members and for associate members, $2. Annual meetings of the General Association are held in July. There are about 2,000 active, and an average of 8,000 associate members. The Association has a permanent invested fund of about $65,000.

American Library Association.

President—Reuben G. Thwaites, Secretary and Superintendent of the Wisconsin State Historical Society, Madison, Wis. Vice-Presidents—Edwin H. Anderson, Carnegie Library, Pittsburgh; Mary W. Plummer, Pratt Institute Free Library, Brooklyn; Ernest C. Richardson, Princeton University Library, New Jersey. Secretary—Henry J. Carr, Scranton (Pa.) Public Library. Recorder—Helen E. Haines, Library Journal, New York City. Treasurer—Gardner M. Jones, Salem (Mass.) Public Library.

The American Library Association is a national body, organized in 1876, and incorporated in 1879. Its motto is: "The best reading, for the largest number, at the least cost." The Association seeks in every practicable way to develop and strengthen the public library as an essential part of the American educational system. It therefore strives by both individual effort and local organization to stimulate public interest in establishing and improving libraries, and thereby bring the best reading within the reach of all. The present membership of the Association is over 600 in number, and its successive annual meetings have been held in various places so as to accommodate all sections of the United States and Canada.

The next conference of the American Library Association, its twenty-second general meeting, is to be held at Montreal early in June, 1900.

University Extension.

THE American Society for the Extension of University Teaching was founded at Philadelphia in June, 1890. Its objects are: To organize groups of people into centres and to bring together these centres and competent lecturers, chosen from the list of instructors, whose qualifications to teach have been passed upon by the Society; to cooperate as far as possible with institutions of learning and other bodies with the purpose of bringing to the many the best thought of the few; to keep the University Extension idea before the country by the Society's representatives and publications. It offers:

First—Education by means of systematic courses of lectures and classes in the subjects usually taught at high schools and universities.

Second—Illustrated lectures and classes in literature, art, and science, with the purpose of teaching the appreciation of the beautiful, and rendering life more interesting and enjoyable.

Third—Lectures and classes in history, civics, and economics, designed to aid the citizen in studying the problems of free government and modern life, and to encourage a sense of responsibility, habits of sound thinking, and right conduct.

The Board of Directors of the American Society are: Charles A. Brinley, M. G. Brumbaugh, Charles E. Bushnell, Isaac H. Clothier, John H. Converse, Walter C. Douglas, Theodore N. Ely, Charles C. Harrison, William H. Ingham, John S. MacIntosh, Frederick B. Miles, Henry S. Panscoast, Joseph G. Rosengarten, Justus C. Strawbridge, and Stuart Wood. The officers are: President, Charles A. Brinley; Treasurer, Frederick B. Miles; Secretary, John Nolen.

Since the organization there have been delivered under its auspices 5,084 lectures, usually in courses of six lectures each; the average attendance at each lecture has been 186, and the aggregate attendance 953,676. The average annual attendance at courses is 17,500, and of this number 10 per cent pursue the systematic reading and study recommended by the lecturers. During 1898-99 seven courses of lectures were given in Philadelphia to audiences made up mainly of artisans; the total attendance was 4,144.

From Philadelphia the movement has extended to many States. In Rhode Island Brown University has organized many centres. In New York the University of the State, through its Secretary, Melvil Dewey, has arranged for Extension lectures in many important towns and cities. Rutgers College, as the agricultural college of New Jersey, has offered scientific courses especially for the farmers of the State. The Universities of Wisconsin, Indiana, Kansas, and California have done much for their respective States. Chicago University has provided a special University Extension Division, with three departments: (1) Lecture-study; (2) Class-work; (3) Correspondence. Conferences held from time to time in Philadelphia have been an important feature of the movement. The Society publishes valuable syllabi, giving a careful outline of the lectures, together with lists of recommended books and questions for essays in connection with the lecture courses. Circulars and information in reference to the movement can be obtained by addressing John Nolen, Secretary, Fifteenth and Sansom Streets, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Chautauqua System of Education.

President—Clem. Studebaker, South Bend, Ind. Chairman of Executive Committee and Acting Manager—Wilson M. Day, Cleveland, O. Secretary—W. A. Duncan, Syracuse, N. Y. Chancellor—John H. Vincent, Topeka, Kan. Superintendent of Department of Instruction—G. E. Vincent, Chicago, Ill. New York State Summer School. Charles E. Skinner, Albany, N. Y. Superintendent.

The Chautauqua Assembly was organized in 1874 as the result of a joint plan of Lewis Miller and John H. Vincent. It holds annual sessions during July and August at Chautauqua, N. Y. The plan includes courses of instruction in language, literature, science, and art, lecture courses, musicales, recitals, and concerts, and various forms of entertainment and recreation.

The Chautauqua Literary and Scientific Circle, Kate F. Kimball, Cleveland, O., Executive Secretary, was organized at Chautauqua in 1875, with the aim of continuing the influence of the Assembly throughout the year in all parts of the country. Since that time more than two hundred and fifty thousand members have been enrolled. The Circle aims to promote habits of reading and study in history, literature, science, and art, in connection with the routine of daily life. The course seeks to give "the college outlook" on the world and life. The essentials of the plan are: A definite course covering four years, each year's course complete in itself; specified volumes approved by the counselors allotment of time by the week and month, a monthly magazine with additional readings and notes a membership book with review outlines, and other aid. Individual readers may have all the privileges and local circles may be formed by three or four members. The time required is about one hour daily for nine months. Certificates are granted to all who complete the course. Seals are affixed to the certificates which are granted for collateral and advanced reading. Any one may become a member of the C. L. S. C. by sending an application, together with 50 cents (the annual fee), to Chautauqua Assembly, General Offices, Cleveland, O.

Catholic Summer School of America.

President—Rev. Michael J. Lavelle, LL. D., New York. First Vice-President—Rt. Rev. Mgr. James F. Loughlin, D. D., Philadelphia, Pa. Second Vice-President—Hon. Thomas J. Gargan, Boston, Mass. Treasurer—Rev. John F. Mullany, LL. D., Syracuse, N. Y. Secretary—Warren E. Mosher, A. M., Youngstown, Ohio. Chairman Executive Committee—Hon. John B. Riley, Plattsburg, N. Y. Chairman Board of Studies—Rev. Thomas McMillan, C. S. P., New York. Chairman Reading Circle Board—Rev. Morgan M. Sheedy, Altoona, Pa.

A Roman Catholic Chautauqua or Summer School was opened at New London, Ct., in the Summer of 1892 under the auspices of distinguished clergymen and laymen, and the first meetings were held from July 30 to August 14. The association has since acquired a site at Cliff Haven, near Plattsburg, N. Y., on Lake Champlain, upon which the necessary buildings have been erected, and here the Summer School is held annually in July and August. The work of the institution is continued throughout the year by means of reading circles and study clubs on the University Extension plan.

The returns of the Grand Lodges of the United States and British America for 1898-99 were as follows: Whole number of members, 836,549; raised, 43,542; admissions and restorations, 20,473; withdrawals, 16,889; expulsions and suspensions, 669; suspensions for non-payment of dues, 19,122; deaths, 12,542. Gain in membership over preceding year, 19,322.

These Grand Lodges are in full affiliation with the English Grand Lodge, of which the Prince of Wales is Grand Master, and the Grand Lodges of Ireland, Scotland, Cuba, Peru, South Australia, New South Wales, Victoria, and Mexico, and also with the Masons of Germany and Austria. They are not in affiliation and do not correspond with the Masons under the jurisdiction of the Grand Orient of France; they, however, affiliate with and recognize Masons under the jurisdiction of the Supreme Council. Freemasonry is under the ban of the Church in Spain, Italy, and other Catholic countries, and the membership is small and scattered.

It has no subordinate bodies, and the membership is 271. It holds its charter from the Grand Lodge of the Royal Order of Scotland, at Edinburgh. The office of the Provincial Grand Master is at Portland, Me.; of the Provincial Grand Secretary at Washington, D. C.

SOVEREIGN SANCTUARY OF ANCIENT AND PRIMITIVE FREEMASONRY.

RITE OF MEMPHIS—IN AND FOR THE CONTINENT OF AMERICA.

M. I. Grand Master-General. H. G. Goodale, 96° | V. I. Grand Chancellor-General. J. S. Phillips, 95°
V. I. Grand Administrator-General. W. F. Ford, 95° | V. I. Grand Secretary-General. E. T. Stewart, 95°

J. Adelphi Gottlieb, M. A., M. D., LL. D., Legate of the M. I. Grand Master-General and Sovereign Sanctuary to Foreign Countries. M. A. Gottlieb, 95°, Deputy Grand Representative and Assistant Grand Examiner Mystic Temple. Office of Deputy Grand Secretary-General and Grand Examiner of the Mystic Temple, State of New York, 304 West One Hundred and Fourth Street, New York City.

The Sovereign Sanctuary is composed of Masons who have received the 95th degree of Patriarch Grand Conservator of the Rite; and has jurisdiction over the continent of America. It was formally instituted in the United States in the year 1856. The American body is in affiliation with the various Masonic powers of the world and has a regular exchange of Representatives with England, Ireland, New Zealand, Italy, Spain, Roumania, Egypt, etc. The Degrees of the Rite, which are ninety of instruction and seven official, are conferred in the subordinate bodies of the Rite thus. Fourth to 18th degree in a Chapter Rose Croix; 19th to 42d degree in a Senate of Hermetic Philosophers; 43d to 90th degree in a Council of Sublime Masters of the Great Work.

The A. and P. Rite of Memphis acknowledges the Blue Lodge as the fundamental basis of the institution, to which the Masonic allegiance of all its members is due, and from which there can be no deviation; therefore no Mason can be allowed to join the Masonic Order of Memphis unless he is a Master Mason of a lodge in good standing, working under a Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons.

COLORED MASONIC BODIES.

There are thirty-one grand lodges in as many different States of the United States and one in Canada. The Prince Hall Grand Lodge, of Massachusetts, is the oldest lodge, having been organized in the year 1808. It was the outgrowth of African Lodge, No. 459, the warrant for which was granted to Prince Hall and fifteen other colored Masons September 24, 1784. The number of colored Masons in the United States and Canada is 35,113; Royal Arch, 13,000; Knights Templar, 10,335; Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, 1,326; Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite Masons, 5,712. The Grand Lodge of New York, organized in 1843, has jurisdiction over thirty-three lodges, located in different parts of the State. The total membership is about 1,100. Enoch R. Spaulding, Oswego, N. Y., is Grand Master.

Nobles of the Mystic Shrine.

The Ancient Arabic Order of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine is not a regular Masonic body, but its membership is composed strictly of Masons who have reached the 32d degree, A. A. S. Rite (18th degree in England), or Knights Templars in good standing. There are 51 temples in the United States, and a total membership of about 52,000.

The following are the imperial officers for the United States for 1900: Imperial Potentate, John H. Atwood, Leavenworth, Kan.; Imperial Deputy Potentate, Lou. B. Winsor, Reed City, Mich.; Imperial Chief Rabbun, Philip C. Shaffer, Philadelphia, Pa.; Imperial Assistant Rabbun, Henry C. Akin, Omaha, Neb.; Imperial High Priest and Prophet, George H. Green, Dallas, Tex.; Imperial Oriental Guide, George L. Brown, Buffalo, N. Y.; Imperial Treasurer, William S. Brown, 520 Wood Street, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Imperial Recorder, Benjamin W. Rowell, 28 School Street, Boston, Mass.; Imperial First Ceremonial Master, Henry A. Collins, Toronto, Can.; Imperial Second Ceremonial Master, Rial S. Peck, Hartford, Ct.; Imperial Marshal, Alvah P. Clayton, St. Joseph, Mo.; Imperial Captain of Guards, Archibald N. Sloan, Chattanooga, Tenn.; Imperial Outer Guard, Edwin I. Alderman, Cedar Rapids, Ia. The Order of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine was instituted by the Mohammedan Kalif Alee, the cousin-german and son-in-law of the Prophet Mohammed, in the year of the Hegira 25 (A. D. 656), at Mekkah, in Arabia, as an Inquisition, or Vigilance Committee, to dispense justice and execute punishment upon criminals who escape their just deserts through the tardiness of the courts, and also to promote religious toleration among cultured men of all nations.

Sheikhs of the Kaaba, Defenders of the Mystic Shrine.

GRAND COUNCIL for the Western Hemisphere: Grand Sheikh ul Allah, Max Scheuer, 358 Broadway, New York; Grand Sheikh Khasat, John H. Russell; Grand Sheikh Ambar, Charles Sotheran; Grand Sheikh Bazesh, William H. Peckham; Grand Sheikh Fakir, P. F. D. Hibbs.

Order of the Eastern Star.

THIS is a society composed of Masons in good and regular standing and their wives, mothers, sisters, and daughters, and the widows of Masons. No other persons are eligible to membership. The organization took its rise in the City of New York in 1868. The order has extended over the United States, and there are now twenty-eight grand chapters in as many States. In the State of New York there are 135 chapters and a membership of 9,131, thirty-two chapters being in New York and Brooklyn. The principal officers of the New York Grand Chapter are: M. W. Grand Matron, Mrs M. Eva Williams, Binghamton; R. W. Grand Secretary, Mrs. Christiana Buttrick, New York City; R. W. Grand Treasurer, Mrs. Emma A. Smith, Brooklyn.

National Council of Women.

President—Fannie Humphreys Gaffney, 41 Riverside Drive, New York City.

Vice-President-at-Large—María P. Peck, Davenport, Ia.

Treasurer—Hannah G. Solomon, Chicago, Ill.

First Recording Secretary—Anna G. Spencer, Providence, R. I.

Second Recording Secretary—Emeline B. Wells, Salt Lake City, Utah.

Honorary Presidents—May Wright Sewall and Mary Lowe Dickinson.

This organization is a central council of women, to which all National societies organized for any purpose whatsoever come to hear what other National societies are doing on other lines. They counsel together as to any reform, or movement, in which all might cooperate. It is the purpose to send a commission to Cuba and Hawaii, to inquire into the conditions of women. The Council has a Cabinet, and is fashioned on a plan similar to the Senate of the United States. It is self-supporting, with the aid of patrons. Twenty National societies are represented in the Council; they aggregate a membership of 1,200,000 women, the largest representative organization in the world. It is affiliated with the International Council of Women.

General Federation of Women's Clubs.

President—Mrs. Rebecca D. Lowe, Atlanta, Ga.

Vice-President—Mrs. Sarah S. Platt, Denver, Col.

Recording Secretary—Mrs. E. A. Fox, Detroit, Mich.

Cor. Sec'y—Mrs. Geo. W. Kendrick, Jr., Phila., Pa.

Treasurer—Mrs. Philip N. Moore, St. Louis, Mo.

Auditor—Mrs. C. P. Barnes, Louisville, Ky.

The Board of Directors are: Mrs. Mary S. Lockwood, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Charles S. Morris, Berlin, Wis.; Mrs. C. S. Kinney, Salt Lake City; Mrs. H. H. Pyle, Bridgeport, Ct.; Mrs. F. A. Eastman, California; Mrs. Frances Ford, Omaha, Neb.; Mrs. Wm. Todd Helmuth, New York; Mrs. E. L. Buchwalter, Ohio; Mrs. Harriet Windsor, Des Moines, Iowa.

This organization, incorporated in 1892, is composed of over 2,700 women's clubs, having a membership of 200,000 women in the United States and foreign countries. The purpose of the Federation is declared in its articles of incorporation to be "to bring into communication with one another the various women's clubs throughout the world, that they may compare methods of work and become mutually helpful. Constitutions of clubs applying for membership should show that no sectarianism or political test is required, and, while the distinctively humanitarian movements may be recognized, their chief purpose is not philanthropic or technical, but social, literary, artistic, or scientific culture." Meetings of the Federation are held biennially, the last meeting having been in June, 1898. There are 30 State federations auxiliary to the General Federation, and 795 single clubs in forty-one States. Several foreign clubs are members of the Federation—the Pioneer Club of London, Woman's Club of Bombay, and Educational Club of Ceylon, clubs in Australia, South America, etc.

Christian Science.

MRS. LAURA LATHROP, C. S. D., New York, has prepared the following statement for THE WORLD ALMANAC of the claims made on behalf of Christian Science:

The revelation of Christian Science came to Rev. Mary Baker G. Eddy in the year 1866, and its truth and power were immediately demonstrated by signs following. For thirty-three years sinners have been reclaimed, depraved appetites for opium and intoxicating drinks have been destroyed, the sick have been healed of every disease, including insanity; the blind have received their sight, the deaf their hearing, shortened limbs have been elongated, crooked spines have been straightened, and law after law of the human mind has been broken. The one great text book of this science is "Science and Health," with key to the Scriptures, by Mary Baker G. Eddy, supplemented by another book by the same author called "Miscellaneous Writings." "Science and Health" is now in its one hundred and eighty-fifth edition and the demand for it is increasing daily. The Christian Science Publishing House is at 95 Falmouth Street, Boston, Mass., and here are published, besides the two books above mentioned, other works by the same author, also "The Christian Science Monthly Journal," "The Christian Science Weekly," and the "Christian Science Bible Lessons." In the October Journal for 1899 there were mentioned 2,524 practitioners, 389 regularly organized churches, 113 services where no church has as yet been organized, and 81 institutes. One hundred and twenty of these practitioners are in Greater New York, and sixty-seven in Manhattan Borough. There are six regularly organized churches of this denomination in New York City, three of which own church buildings. Two beautiful buildings are now being erected—one at the corner of Sixty-eighth Street and Central Park West, the other at the corner of Ninety-sixth Street and Central Park West.

Flourishing churches have been organized in London, England; Paris, France; Dresden, Berlin, and Hanover, Germany, and in Canada, Brazil, and Scotland. Many handsome church edifices have been built in different cities, and many others are in process of erection. The mother church is located in Boston, Mass., and those all over the country are its branches. Their services are uniform, consisting of two meetings on Sunday and one on Wednesday evening. Nosermons are preached by a personal pastor, but a sermon made up of selections from the Bible and "Science and Health," with key to the Scriptures, is read by two readers, called the first and second readers. This church is emphatically a healing church, and many cases of restoration to health have been testified to during the past few years, brought about by attendance on one of these meetings.

Christian Science is demonstrable Christianity. Through the spiritual understanding of the teachings of Christ Jesus, its followers are enabled to obey His command to "heal the sick" and do the works He and His disciples did. The omnipotence, omnipresence, and omniscience of God are proved to be true. Christian Science is not mind-cure, as that is popularly understood, because it recognizes but one mind, God. It is not faith-cure, because it does not perform its wonderful works through blind faith in a personal god, but through the understanding of man's relation to God. It is not mesmerism or hypnotism, because it denies absolutely the power of the human mind and human will, and claims no will but God's. Through recognizing the one mind and man as the reflection of that mind, it forever establishes the brotherhood of man. It is the perfect salvation from sin, disease, and death Christ Jesus came to bring. In "Rudimental Divine Science," Mrs. Eddy defines Christian Science "as the law of God, the law of good, interpreting and demonstrating the principle and rule of eternal harmony."

Theosophy.

THE UNIVERSAL BROTHERHOOD.

THE Universal Brotherhood for the benefit of the people of the earth and all creatures was founded by Katherine A. Tingley, January 13, 1898, at New York City. This organization is the outgrowth and expansion of the Theosophical Society founded by H. P. Blavatsky, W. Q. Judge, and others at New York in 1875 and reorganized under William Q. Judge at its annual convention at Boston, Mass., in 1895. The constitution of the Universal Brotherhood was adopted by the Theosophical Society in America at its annual convention held in Chicago February 18, 1898, by which act the Theosophical Society in America became the Literary Department of the Universal Brotherhood.

The Universal Brotherhood, or the Brotherhood of Humanity, declares that brotherhood is a fact in nature. The principal purpose of the organization is to teach brotherhood, demonstrate that it is a fact in nature and make it a living power in the life of humanity. Its subsidiary purpose is to study ancient and modern religion, science, philosophy, and art, to investigate the laws of nature and the divine powers in man. It declares in its constitution that every member has a right to believe or disbelieve in any religious system or philosophy, each being required to show that tolerance for the opinions of others which he expects for his own.

There are over 150 lodges of the Universal Brotherhood in the United States and Canada, also lodges in England, Ireland, Sweden, Holland, France, Germany, Greece, India, Australia, and New Zealand. The central office of the organization is at 144 Madison Avenue, New York City.

The officers are: Katherine A. Tingley, Leader and Official Head; Frank M. Pierce, Secretary General; E. Aug. Neresheimer, Treasurer. All inquiries should be addressed to Frank M. Pierce, Secretary General, 144 Madison Avenue, New York.

THE THEOSOPHICAL SOCIETY IN AMERICA.

The following statement has been prepared for THE WORLD ALMANAC:

The Theosophical Society in America is the Literary Department of the Universal Brotherhood. Its principal purpose is to publish and disseminate literature relating to Theosophy, brotherhood, ancient and modern religions, philosophies, sciences, and arts. Its subsidiary purpose is to establish and build up a great library in which shall be gathered ancient and modern literature of value to the great cause of universal brotherhood.

THE ECLECTIC THEOSOPHICAL SOCIETY.

An independent international body, with headquarters in New York City. Its objects are: "First, the formation of a nucleus of Universal Brotherhood; second, the comparative study of the philosophical, religious, and scientific systems of the world; third, the manifestation of the divine powers in man." It is free from control by any "Esoteric section." Its constitution, under the form of the initiative and referendum, places final decisions with the votes of the membership.

First election of officers in January, 1900. For further information address the Chairman of the Committee for Theosophical Work, John M. Pryse, 17 West Ninety-eighth Street, New York City.

A very large number—more than 18,000,000—of Hindoos, Mohammedans, Buddhists, and others in the East also speak and read English.

The estimates in the last table are from Whitaker's (London) Almanack, 1895.

The Encyclopaedia Britannica, last edition, makes a rough estimate of numbers of Protestants in the world speaking all civilized languages, and places the Lutherans at the head, with over 42,000,000 members (mostly in Germany and Scandinavia), and the Anglican Church second, with about 20,000,000 members. *United States census of 1890.

The aggregate of 27,714,523 represents actual church membership, and includes all Catholics, but not all persons affiliated by family ties to Protestant bodies. The larger of the Protestant bodies may claim twice the number of their communicants as nominal adherents.—EDITOR OF THE ALMANAC.

Sunday-School Statistics of All Countries.

THE following table was compiled by E. Payson Porter, of New York, and Edward Towers, of London, Statistical Secretaries of the Seventh International Sunday-School Convention, for that body, at St. Louis, Mo., September 4 and 5, 1893. These are the latest figures reported, as the World's Convention, which was to have been held in 1897, was postponed until 1900.

The total number of teachers and scholars in the world, according to this report, was 22,608,661.

The table does not include the schools of the Roman Catholic and Non-Evangelical Protestant churches. The number of scholars in Roman Catholic Sunday-schools in the United States is estimated at 800,000 by clerics.

The next World's Sunday-School Convention will be held in London in 1900.

Universalist General Convention.

THE Universalist General Convention has jurisdiction over the ecclesiastical organizations of the Universalist Church in the United States and Canadian provinces. It meets biennially, the next meeting being ordered for October, 1901. The Convention is composed of the presidents and secretaries of the State conventions, and of clerical and lay delegates from the State conventions. All laws relating to fellowship, ordination, and discipline originate in the General Convention, and it is the final court of appeal in all cases of dispute or difficulty between State conventions. It has funds to the amount of nearly $300,000, the income of which, with the contributions of its constituency, is used for missionary and educational objects. The officers of the Convention are: President, Charles L. Hutchinson, Chicago, Ill.; Vice-President, Rev. I. M. Atwood, D.D., Canton, N. Y.; Secretary, Rev. G. L. Demarest, D. D., Manchester, N. H.; Treasurer, Frank W. Wise, Boston, Mass.

The Young People's Christian Union of the Universalist Church was organized October 22, 1889, "to foster the religious life among the young people, to stimulate to all worthy endeavor, to train the young in the work of the Universalist Church, in the promulgation of its truth, and the increase of its power and influence." It has 12,000 members, and its general officers and executive board are: President, H. M. Fowler, Cleveland, O.; Secretary, Rev. Alfred J. Cardall, 30 West Street, Boston, Mass.; Treasurer, Rev. Omer G. Petrie, Palmer, Mass.; Miss Jennie L. Ellis, Pawtucket, R. I.; Rev. Edward G. Mason, Hightstown, N. J.; Miss Cora A. Wilder, Victor, N. Y.; George F. Sears, Chicago, Ill.

The Congregational National Council

is composed of delegates from Congregational churches, and was organized November 17, 1871. It meets once in three years, and the next triennial meeting will be held at Portland, Me., in October, 1901. The officers are: Moderator, Rev. Frederick A. Noble, of Illinois; Secretary, Rev. H. A. Hazen, D.D., of Auburndale, Mass.; Treasurer, Rev. S. B. Forbes, of Hartford, Ct.; Registrar, Rev. W. H. Moore, of Hartford, Ct.

Reformed Church in America.*

OFFICERS of the General Synod of the Reformed Church in America: President, Rev. George S. Bishop, D. D.; Vice-President, Rev. W. H. Van Arsdale, D. D.; Stated Clerk, Rev. William H. De Hart; Permanent Clerk, Rev. William H. Ten Eyck, D. D.

The Treasurers of the Church agencies are: Synod's board of direction, F. R. Van Nest; foreign missions, Peter Donald; domestic missions, John S. Bussing; education, R. N. Perlee; publication, Abraham C. Holdrum. The Corresponding Secretaries of the Boards are: Foreign missions, Rev. Henry N. Cobb, D. D.; domestic missions, Rev. Charles H. Pool, D. D.; education, Rev. G. H. Mandeville, D. D.; publication, Rev. Isaac W. Gowen. Denominational headquarters, 25 East Twenty-second Street, New York City.

* Known formerly as the Reformed Dutch Church.

Luther League of America.

President—E. F. Ellert, New York City. General Secretary—M. C. Olsen, Chicago, Ill. Recording Secretary—C. G. Grauer, Buffalo, N. Y. Treasurer—Cornelius Eckhardt, Washington, D. C.

The first National Convention of the Luther League of America was held at Pittsburgh, Pa., October 30 and 31, 1895. The League is a Lutheran organization, linking together the Lutheran young people who are laboring for the good of the Church by means of many individual societies of various names and styles of organization, each within its own immediate church. The constitution declares that its objects shall be "to encourage the formation of the young people's societies in all Lutheran congregations in America, to urge their affiliation with their respective State or Territorial leagues, and with this league to stimulate the various young people's societies to greater Christian activity and to foster the spirit of loyalty to the Church." The aggregate enrolled membership of the various local organizations represented in the national organization is over 70,000. These are comprised in twenty States, fourteen of which already have permanent State organizations. The first local organization adopting the title of "The Luther League" was organized by delegates of six Lutheran Church societies in the city of New York, April 19, 1888.

Woman's Christian Temperance Union.

The following statement of the purposes of the society was prepared for THE WORLD ALMANAC by an officer of the Union:

The National W. C. T. U. was organized in Cleveland, Ohio, in 1874, and is the sober second thought of the great woman's crusade. It is now regularly organized in the forty-five States of the Union, and in every Territory. Its headquarters are in Chicago, Ill., where it has a Woman's Temperance Publishing House that sends out over 118,000,000 pages annually, and has seven editors and 110 employes. The Woman's National Temperance Hospital demonstrates the value of non-alcoholic medication. The Woman's Temperance Temple, costing over $1,000,000, has been built in Chicago.

There are about 10,000 local unions, with a membership and following, including the children's societies, of about half a million. The W. C. T. U. has forty-four distinct departments of work, presided over by as many women experts, in the National Society, and in nearly every State. All the States in the Republic except two have laws requiring the study of scientific temperance in the public schools, and all these laws were secured by the W. C. T. U., also the laws forbidding the sale of tobacco to minors. Most industrial homes for girls were secured through the efforts of this society, as were the refuges for erring women. Laws raising the age of consent and providing for better protection for women and girls have been enacted by many Legislatures through the influence of the department for the promotion of social purity.

The World's W. C. T. U. was founded through the influence of the National Society in 1883, and already has auxiliaries in more than forty countries and provinces. The white ribbon is the badge of all the W. C. T. U. members, and is now a familiar emblem in every civilized country.

The headquarters of the National organization is The Temple, Chicago. The following are the officers: President, Mrs. Lillian M. N. Stevens, of Maine; Vice-President-at-Large, Miss Anna A. Gordon; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Susannah M. D. Fry; Recording Secretary, Mrs. Clara C. Hoffman.

Society of St. Vincent de Paul.

THIS great Roman Catholic organization is engaged in the important work of caring for the Roman Catholic poor in the large cities of the United States. Its head is the Superior Council of the New York Circumscription, which has its office at No. 2 Lafayette Place. Local bodies, over which it has, in nearly all cases, jurisdiction, are known as Particular Councils.

The officers of the Superior Council are as follows: Spiritual Director, The Rt. Rev. Bishop John M. Farley, V. G.; President, Jeremiah Fitzpatrick; Vice-Presidents, Joseph A. Kernan and James E. Dougherty; Secretary, Thomas M. Mulry; Treasurer, Michael J. Scanlan. There are also twenty-two councilors. The principal work of the Particular Councils consists in visiting the poor and relieving them, procuring situations for deserving persons out of employment, and promoting attendance on the Sunday-schools of the Church. There are sixty-five councils in the city of New York.

World's Ecumenical Missionary Conference.

A WORLD'S Ecumenical Missionary Conference will be held in the city of New York in the year 1900, possibly in the month of April. This Conference will be attended by representatives of Protestant missionary societies from all over the world. At the London Conference, the first of the kind to be held, 141 different missionary societies, representing almost as many different denominations of Protestant Christendom, were present. The United States and Canada furnished nearly 300 of the 1,500 delegates. This great missionary movement has as its chief supporter the American Board of Foreign Missions, the oldest of mission bodies in America. The purpose of the Conference is to arouse interest in foreign missions. Great Britain and America now do the bulk of this work.

Christian and Missionary Alliance.

OFFICERS: President and General Superintendent, Rev. A. B. Simpson, 690 Eighth Avenue, New York; Secretary, A. E. Funk; Treasurer, David Crear; Financial Secretary, Mrs. A. B. Simpson.

The Christian Alliance was founded in 1887. It combined with the International Missionary Alliance in 1897, and the present title was adopted. Membership consists of all professing Christians who shall subscribe to the principles of the order and enroll their names. The objects of the Alliance are stated to be "Wide diffusion of the Gospel in its fulness, the promotion of a deeper and higher Christian life, and the work of evangelization, especially among the neglected classes, by highway missions and any other practicable methods." State auxiliary and local branches are being rapidly formed. Connected with the Alliance are the Missionary Training Institute, Institute for the Training of Home Workers, Berachah Home, and Berchah Orphanage. The headquarters of the Alliance are in New York, but its buildings are located at Nyack, N. Y.

The Young People's Christian Union.

THE Young People's Christian Union of the United Brethren in Christ was organized June 5, 1890. It is a union of all forms of young people's societies within the Church, uniting them for the purpose of denominational direction. There are now in this Union 2,085 societies, of which 280 are junior societies. The total membership is $3,890. A mission church has been built in Los Angeles, Cal., to which over $7,000 has been paid. The Union is now building a church in Chicago. The principal officers are: President, Professor J. P. Landis, D.D., Ph.D., Dayton, Ohio; Corresponding Secretary, Rev. H. F. Shupe, Dayton, Ohio; Recording Secretary, Miss Lizzie Sheets, Vermillion, Ill.; Treasurer, E. Jay Rogers, Dayton, Ohio; Junior Superintendent, Rev. W. A. Dickson, Chambersburg, Pa. The fifth biennial convention will be held in Lebanon, Pa., June, 1900.

The Zionist Movement.

THE Zionist Movement aims at the settlement of Jews in Palestine, and has for its leaders abroad Max Nordau, of Paris; Dr. Herzl, of Vienna, and Chief Rabbi Gaster, of London, and in this country Dr. Richard Gottlieb and Rabbi Wise, of New York. Some twenty-five colonies have already been settled in Paris from Southern and Eastern Europe, where anti-Semitic antagonism takes the form of persecution. A Jewish colonial bank has been founded in London with $10,000,000 capital to promote the movement. The second International Zionist Convention was held at Basle, Switzerland, in August, 1899. The President of the Federation of American Zionists is Dr. Richard Gottlieb, and the Secretary is J. D. Morrison, New York.

Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor.

The following statistics and statement of the purposes of the organization were prepared for THE WORLD ALMANAC by Mr. John Willis Baer, General Secretary of the United Society of Christian Endeavor:

OFFICERS OF THE UNITED SOCIETY OF CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.—Office, Tremont Temple, Boston, Mass. President, Rev. Francis E. Clark, D. D.; Treasurer, Wm. Shaw; General Secretary, John Willis Baer.

The first Society of Christian Endeavor was formed February 2, 1881, in the Williston Church, Portland, Me., by Rev. F. E. Clark pastor, for the purpose of training a large number of converts for the duties of church membership.

Each society is in some local church, and in no sense outside. It exists simply to make the young people loyal and efficient members of the Church of Christ. It is the Church training the young. Its motto is, "For Christ and the Church." In November, 1899, there were 56,280 societies, with a membership of 3,376,800, chiefly in the United States and Canada, and in Australia, Great Britain, China, India, Japan, and in all missionary lands. It is found in about the same proportions in all the great evangelical denominations and in all their subdivisions. Wherever it has been established longest it is most fully indorsed by pastors and churches.

Its essential features are the prayer-meeting pledge, honestly interpreted, the lookout, prayer-meeting, and social committees, and the consecration meeting. Other committees are optional, and the constitution is entirely flexible in other points according to the needs of the local church.

The United Society is simply the bureau of information for all the societies. It prints the literature, supports one general secretary, and is the general headquarters of the work. It levies no taxes, however, and assumes no authority, but every society manages its own affairs in its own way. It is supported by the sales of its literature, badges, etc. It is managed by a board of trustees, representing the great evangelical denominations, the President being Francis E. Clark, D. D. the founder of the society; General Secretary, John Willis Baer; Treasurer, William Shaw. The executive committee of the board of trustees meets quarterly to consult concerning the best interests of the society. The next international convention will be held in London, England, July 14-18, 1900.

The whole number of societies in the United States is 42,490; in the British Provinces, 3,526; in foreign countries, 10,264. Grand total, 56,280 societies, with an aggregate membership of 3,376,800.

American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions.

The head office of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions is at the Congregational House, Beacon Street, Boston, Mass. There are two district offices, at the United Charities Building, Twenty-second Street and Fourth Avenue, New York City, Rev. C. C. Creegan, D. D., District Secretary, and at 153 La Salle Street, Chicago, Ill., Rev. A. N. Hitchcock, Ph. D., District Secretary. The World's Y. W. C. A. was founded in 1893. General office, 26 George Street, Hanover Square, London. Miss Annie M. Reynolds, Secretary. Twenty-one States have organized State associations. Each State holds an annual convention. The international convention occurs biennially. Each year three Summer schools are held for the training of young women in Secretarial and Bible work. The Evangel, the official organ of the associations, is published monthly at Chicago, Ill. The second week of October is observed as a day of prayer for young women. A special department is maintained for young women of colleges, and through this department the student volunteer movement is connected with the association work.

American Bible Society.

THE American Bible Society was founded in 1816. It is a charitable institution, whose sole object is to encourage a wider circulation of the Scriptures without note or comment. It invites the contribution and cooperation of "all who accept the Bible as their rule of life and believe that every human being is entitled to know what it teaches concerning truth and duty." The President is the Hon. Enoch L. Fancher, of New York, and there are twenty-six vice-presidents, headed by the Hon. J. L. Chamberlain, Maine. Among the others are General O. O. Howard, Vt.; Cortlandt Parker, N. J.; Hon. Frank M. Cockrell, Mo.; Hon. John W. Foster, D. C.; T. A. Brouwer, N. Y.; Cyrus Northrop, Minn.; James H. Carlisle, S. C.; Hon. Howard Van Epps, Ga.; James H. Taft, N. Y.; Annis Merrill, Cal.; Hon. W. P. Dillingham, Vt.; Hon. David J. Brewer, D. C.; Hon. James A. Beaver, Pa.; D. C. Gilman, Md.; and Hon. Benj. Harrison, Ind. There are thirty-six managers, divided into four classes as to terms of office. The Secretaries are: Rev. E. W. Gilman D. D., Rev. John Fox, D. D., and Rev. W. I. Haven, D. D. The Treasurer is William Foulke. The issues for the year 1898-99 were 1,350,892 copies, and for the eighty-three years of the existence of the Society 65,962,505 copies. This includes Bibles in many foreign tongues, and the languages of several American Indian tribes. (The British and Foreign Bible Society, established in 1804, has distributed to date 160,009,393 copies.) The offices of the Society are at the Bible House, Eighth Street, New York.

American Tract Society.

THIS Society was founded in 1825. During seventy-four years it has been publishing books and tracts representing the best Christian literature approved by all Evangelical Christians. Its total issues at home, in twenty languages, number 475,758,587 copies. It has helped Foreign Missions, in one hundred languages, to many millions of copies. Its colporteurs have visited 14,861,008 families. Offices, 150 Nassau Street, New York. President, General O. O. Howard; Secretaries, William W. Rand, D. D., and George L. Shearer, D. D.

International Order of the King's Daughters and Sons.

The following information about this organization was corrected for THE WORLD ALMANAC by the Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Isabella Charles Davis:

OFFICERS OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL.—Office, No. 156 Fifth Avenue, New York City President, Mrs. F. Bottome; Vice-President, Miss Kate Bond; General Secretary, Mrs. Mary Lowe Dickinson; Treasurer, Mrs. J. C. Davis; Recording Secretary, Mrs. Robert Sturjiss; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Isabella Charles Davis.

The Order of The King's Daughters and Sons is a religious order of service, composed of thousands of small circles of men, women, and children united in one great organization, that is estimated now to number over half a million members. It is an inter-denominational order, and its members may be found in all churches and in almost all nations. It was founded by ten women in New York City, and has spread over every State in the Union, and has its representatives in Canada, England, Ireland, Scotland, France, Italy, Germany, India, China, Japan, Turkey in Europe and in Asia, Australia, New Zealand, and other countries. Its members are bound individually and collectively to serve the needy and the suffering, to consider the poor, and to be helpful in good work. Each individual circle may choose its own field of labor, but cannot escape the obligations of service.

The badge is a small cross of silver, bearing the letters I. H. N. on one side and the date 1836 on the other, often worn with a knot of purple ribbon. The Order is an incorporated society, of which this little cross is the seal. Its headquarters are at No. 156 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

Its original circle of ten women, to which have been made some additions, forms now the Central Council or Executive Board of the Order. The officers of the International Order are members of this Council. The first meeting of the original circle was held in New York City on January 13, 1836. It is now fourteen years old, and it ranks among the strongest and most useful societies of the world. It issues a weekly magazine called The Silver Cross, which is most helpful to the members of the Order, and takes a high rank among the religious and philanthropic periodicals of the country.

The Daughters of the King.

THE Order of the Daughters of the King was organized on Easter Evening, 1835. It is desired by its promoters that a careful distinction shall be made between the Daughters of the King and The King's Daughters. This is the older society, and differs from The King's Daughters in many important particulars. In the first place, it is more of an order than a society, and is distinctively Episcopal. Its work is definite, and is "for the spread of Christ's kingdom among young women," and the "active support of the rector's plans in the parish in which the particular chapter may be located." Its badge is a cross of silver, a Greek cross fleury, and its mottoes are "Magnanimiter Crucem Sustine" and "For His Sake." Its colors are white and blue—white, the old royal color of Israel, and blue, the color of the Virgin Mary, the "blessed daughter of Israel's King, the Mother of the King of Kings." Its constitution is framed, as far as is possible, in the terms of that of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, the work of the two organizations being similar. The officers of the Council are: President, Mrs. E. A. Bradley; Vice-President, Mrs. E. J. Warner; Secretary, Miss Elizabeth L. Ryerson; Treasurer, Mrs. John H. Kahrs. Office of the Council, Church Missions House, 281 Fourth Avenue, New York.

The Brotherhood of St. Andrew.

THE following was prepared for THE WORLD ALMANAC by Mr. John W. Wood, General Secretary: The Brotherhood of St. Andrew is an organization of men in the Protestant Episcopal Church. Its sole object is the spread of Christ's kingdom among men. It works under two rules, known as (1) The Rule of Prayer: To pray daily for the spread of Christ's kingdom among men, and that Christ's blessing may be upon the labors of the Brotherhood, and (2) The Rule of Service: To make an earnest effort each week to bring at least one man within the hearing of the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

The Brotherhood started in St. James' Church, Chicago, on St. Andrew's Day, 1833. It takes its name from the Apostle who, when he had found the Messiah, first found his own brother Simon and brought him to Jesus. This Brotherhood in St. James' parish was started simply as a parochial organization, with no thought of its extending beyond the limits of the parish. Its work, however, was so successful in bringing men to church that attention was called to it, and other Brotherhoods, having the same objects and the same rules, were formed in other parishes in Chicago and in different parts of the country. In 1836 there were about thirty-five of these separate Brotherhoods. It then was proposed to form them into one general Church organization. This was done in 1836. Since that time the Brotherhood has gone on growing, and at present has spread to all parts of the United States. There are now twelve hundred and twenty active chapters, with a membership of about thirteen thousand men. The Brotherhood idea has also taken root in Canada, and the Brotherhood of St. Andrew in the Church of England in the Dominion of Canada has been formed, with one hundred and eighty chapters and two thousand men. A similar organization has been formed in the Scottish Episcopal Church. Forty chapters have also been formed in Australia, and have been organized into a Brotherhood of St. Andrew in the Church of England in Australia. June 12, 1896, the Brotherhood of St. Andrew in the Church of England was formed.

The officers for 1899-1900 are: President, James L. Houghteling, 164 Dearborn Street, Chicago; General Secretary, John W. Wood, 281 Fourth Avenue, New York; Treasurer, John P. Faure, 281 Fourth Avenue, New York; Editor of St. Andrew's Cross, John W. Wood, 281 Fourth Avenue. The General Secretary will furnish information and literature to any one who may be interested in the work.

The Brotherhood of Andrew and Philip.

This organization, founded in 1838, held its first federal convention in the city of New York in 1893. It is composed of members of twenty-one evangelical denominations—the Reformed Church in America, the Reformed Church in the United States, the Congregational, Presbyterian (North, South, Canadian, and United), Methodist Episcopal, Methodist Protestant, Baptist, United Brethren, Lutheran, Reformed Episcopal, Church of Christ, Progressive Brethren, Friends, United Evangelical, Free Baptist, Federal, African Methodist Episcopal, and Evangelical Association. Its objects are embodied in the statement that "Any man can belong to the Brotherhood who will promise to pray daily for the spread of the kingdom of Christ among men, and to make an earnest effort each week to bring at least one man within the hearing of the Gospel." The number of chapters of the Brotherhood in the United States is 500, and the membership 15,000 in 35 States. The Rev. Dr. Rufus W. Miller, the founder, Reading, Pa., is President of the Federal Council, and Rev. C. E. Wyckoff, Irvington, N. J., General Secretary and Treasurer. The Brotherhood Star, the organ of this order, is published monthly at 25 East Twenty-second Street, New York City.

The Epworth League.

THE following statistics and statement of the purposes of the organization were prepared for THE WORLD ALMANAC by Rev. Edwin A. Schell, General Secretary of the Epworth League:

OFFICERS OF THE EPWORTH LEAGUE.—President, Bishop William X. Ninde, Detroit, Mich.; Vice-Presidents: Department of Spiritual Work, Rev. W. I. Haven, Bible House, New York City; Department of Mercy and Help, Rev. E. M. Mills, D. D., Elmira, N. Y.; Department of Literary Work, R. R. Doherty, Ph. D., 150 Fifth Avenue, New York City; Department of Social Work, John A. Patten, Chattanooga, Tenn.; General Secretary, Rev. Edwin A. Schell, 57 Washington Street, Chicago, Ill.; General Treasurer, Chas. E. Piper, 1601 Masonic Temple, Chicago, Ill. The Central Office of the Epworth League is located at 57 Washington Street, Chicago, Ill.

The Epworth League was formed in May, 1889, by the union of five societies then existing in the Methodist Episcopal Church, which had under their united jurisdiction about 1,500 local societies, or "chapters," and about 6,000 members. On October 1, 1899, the Epworth League in the Methodist Episcopal Church numbered 26,700 chapters, with a membership of 1,900,000.

Its purpose is to promote intelligent and loyal piety in the young members and friends of the church, to aid them in religious development, and to train them in the works of mercy and help. Its constitution provides for development along social, intellectual, and religious lines. Its essential features are the weekly prayer-meeting, the "intellectual" and "mercy and help" departments, and its harmony with the officary of the church. There are no salaried officers, except the General Secretary

The Epworth League of the M. E. Church, South.

President—Bishop W. A. Candler, Oxford, Ga. First Vice-President—Rev. J. W. Newman, Birmingham, Ala. Second Vice-President—Rev. W. T. McClure, Independence, Mo. Third Vice-President—Rev. J. M. Barcus, Temple, Tex. Treasurer—O. W. Patton, Nashville, Tenn. General Secretary and Editor Epworth Era—Rev. H. M. DuBose, D. D., Nashville, Tenn. Assistant General Secretary—Mr. Gus. W. Thomasson, Nashville, Tenn. The League sprang from a movement inaugurated by the pastor of Trinity Church, at Los Angeles, Cal., in the year 1889. The League was authorized by the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, at St. Louis in 1890. The first League was organized at the First Church, Memphis, Tenn., January, 1891. At the General Conference in May, 1894, the central office of the League was established at Nashville, Tenn. Five thousand and thirty-one chapters have been chartered, and the total membership is 271,445. Texas leads with a membership of 26,000.

White Cross Society.

THE principal purposes of this organization are: (1) To urge upon men the obligation of personal purity; (2) to raise the tone of public opinion upon the subject of morality; (3) to secure proper legislation in connection with morality—one law only for men and women.

The White Cross movement was begun publicly February 14, 1883, at Bishop-Auckland, England, by the Bishop of Durham. The work was taken up in this country by the Rev. B. F. De Costa, D. D., Rector of the Church of St. John the Evangelist, New York City, aided by his young men, during the Winter of 1883-84. It has now spread throughout the United States and Canada.

"The member promises by the 'help of God' (1) to treat all women with respect, and endeavor to protect them from wrong and degradation; (2) to endeavor to put down all indecent language and coarse jests; (3) to maintain the law of purity as equally binding upon men and women; (4) to endeavor to spread these principles among my companions, and to try and help my younger brothers; (5) to use every possible means to fulfil the command, 'Keep THYSELF pure.'"

The officers are: President, Rev. A. B. Howard, 224 Waverley Place, New York; Secretary, Alfred Fenney, 224 Waverley Place, New York. The Central White Cross Committee, representing the Protestant Episcopal Church at large, is composed of the Bishops of Chicago, New York, Minnesota, Central New York, and Pittsburgh, Rev. Drs. Morgan Dix, J. H. Eccleston, and D. Parker Morgan, with E. P. Dutton, of New York. The Assistant Secretary is Rev. W. W. Steel, 3916 Locust Street, Philadelphia, Pa., and the Treasurer E. P. Dutton.

National Spiritualists' Association.

The National Spiritualists' Association of the United States and Dominion of Canada was organized September 29, 1893, in Chicago, Ill., and incorporated November 1, 1893, under the laws of the District of Columbia, where its permanent headquarters were established. Its objects are: "The organization of the various Spiritualist societies of the United States and Canada into one general association, for the purpose of mutual aid and cooperation in benevolent, charitable, educational, literary, musical, scientific, religious, and missionary purposes, and enterprises germane to the phenomena, science, philosophy, and religion of Spiritualism." There are 650 local associations of Spiritualists in the United States and Canada, 16 State associations, and 52 camp-meeting associations devoted to the interests of Spiritualism. The bona fide membership of these associations is 150,000, while the total number of Spiritualists in the United States and Canada is 1,500,000. Three hundred and fifty lecturers, ministers, and platform mediums are now actively engaged in promulgating the doctrines of Spiritualism. The number of psychics now before the public for various phases of phenomenal manifestations is 1,500, while some 10,000 persons utilize their mediumistic gifts in their homes. The Spiritualists have 82 churches, temples, auditoriums, etc., in the United States. The valuation of their public buildings, camp-meeting property, and real estate is $1,250,000. The membership of the National Spiritualists' Association consists of Spiritualist societies only. Ten regular periodicals, weeklies, and monthlies are published in the interests of Spiritualism.

The officers for the year ending October 19, 1900, are as follows: President, Harrison D. Barrett, Needham, Mass.; Vice-President, Hon. Harvey W. Richardson, East Aurora, N. Y.; Secretary, Mrs. Mary T. Longley, Washington, D. C.; Treasurer, Theodore J. Mayer, Washington, D. C.; Trustees, Hon. David P. Dewey, Grand Blanc, Mich.; Ilttyd C. I. Evans, Washington, D. C.; Alonzo Thompson, Fullerton, Neb.; Clarence D. Pruden, Minneapolis, Minn.; Hon. Eber W. Bond, Willoughby, O. The permanent headquarters of the Association are located at 600 Pennsylvania Avenue, S. E., Washington, D. C. The eighth annual convention will be held in Cleveland, O., October 16, 17, 18, and 19, 1900.

The Salvation Army.

THIS is a body of men and women organized in the form of a military force, its object being the evangelization of the unchurched masses. It has its International Headquarters at 101 Queen Victoria Street, London, E. C., England, and the headquarters for the United States at 120 West Fourteenth Street, New York City. Its officers are: General, chief-of-staff, commissioner, or commander, colonel, brigadier, major, staff captain, adjutant, ensign, captain, and lieutenant.

The Salvation Army, known originally as the Christian Mission, was created at Mile End, London, July 5, 1865, by the Rev. William Booth, a minister of the "Methodist New Connection." The present name was adopted in 1878. At first treated with a good deal of derision and occasionally with violence from the classes among which it worked, its earnestness and remarkable achievements have gradually won the respect and encouragement of many of the most prominent divines and laymen of the evangelical denominations.

At the present time there are 15,300 officers, composed of men and women whose lives are entirely given to the work; 6,229 corps or societies operating in thirty-eight countries and colonies in thirty-four languages. There are some 2,500,000 meetings held annually out doors and in. The number of periodicals printed or published is forty-four, with a combined weekly circulation of over a million. The annual rental roll is over $1,000,000. The amount of property owned by this organization now exceeds $4,000,000, and the annual income is $3,645,000. The United States Division of the Salvation Army has to-day 2,577 officers, 694 corps or societies, 21 slum posts, 14 rescue homes, with accommodation for 350 fallen women; 75 food and shelter depots, furnishing 27,000 meals monthly, and providing nightly beds for 4,664 of the homeless poor; 5 working-women's hotels, with accommodation for 128 women; 5 salvage brigades for collecting household waste, together with 7 wood and coal yards, furnishing temporary work for 337 unemployed men; 5 farms, and 2 children's homes. The organization also has in the United States cavalry brigades, out-riders' circuits, maternity homes, labor bureaus, women's shelters, and an inquiry department, which looks up missing friends and relatives. Altogether there are 156 social institutions for the poor, under the charge of 325 officers and employes, accommodating 5,622 persons.

William Booth is the general and commander-in-chief of the forces throughout the world. His headquarters are at London. The United States commanders are Commander and Consul Booth-Tucker.

The army numbers, according to the last reports, 1,338 corps and 4,306 officers in Great Britain; 831 corps and 1,527 officers in Australia, and 735 corps and 2,709 officers in the United States. The organization extends to nearly all the countries of the world.

The Volunteers of America.

THE commander-in-chief is Ballington Booth. The headquarters are at No. 1 Fourth Avenue, nearly opposite Cooper Institute, New York City. The following statement has been prepared for THE WORLD ALMANAC in the office of the commander-in-chief:

The Volunteers of America is a religious organization, inaugurated in March, 1896, by Commander and Mrs. Ballington Booth in response to numerous requests on the part of American citizens. It is organized in true military style, having as its model the United States Army, but in conjunction with military discipline and methods of work it possesses a thoroughly democratic form of government, having as its ideal the Constitution of the United States of America. Its adherence to American principles has been further signalized by the movement having been incorporated. The object of the Volunteers is to reach with the Gospel of the Lord Jesus Christ the millions of this and other countries which hitherto have been unreached by any existing religious organization. The fact is recognized that these untouched masses pervade every section of society, and while those of the lowliest walks of life—the poor, the vicious, the criminal, the drunkard, and others—will always be the objects of the tenderest solicitude of Volunteers, the teeming thousands of the middle class and the sinful and Godless in even aristocratic circles will also be confronted with the eternal truths of Divine revelation and the glorious Gospel of full salvation.

When it is remembered that this organization has not had the advantage of time in which to augment its forces and attain its present dimensions—being only inaugurated on March 9, 1896—not yet (December 1, 1899) four years old; that its growth has been during a distracting war and in the midst of political and financial agitation, its friends think they may lay claim to a rise and progress phenomenal in Christian history in this country. There are at the present time eight regiments of sixteen battalions; 150 staff officers in positions of responsibility. The Volunteers are established in some 150 cities and towns. During 1899 over $80,000 was raised by posts, 2,611,647 persons were attracted to the open-air service, while 1,937,347 persons attended indoor service.

The Volunteers will seek to cooperate with all the existing Evangelical Churches and religious organizations. To this end the commander-in-chief was ordained a "Presbyter of the Church of God in General." The Sacrament of the Holy Communion will be administered in the Volunteers' meetings by the commander-in-chief and properly qualified and ordained staff officers at least once a month. The Sacrament of Baptism is also recognized, but its observance is left perfectly optional to every individual Volunteer. There is a prison branch of the Volunteers, which has influenced 7,000 prisoners for good living.

The Latter-Day Saints.

THE MORMONS, or Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, were organized April 6, 1830, with six members, by Joseph Smith, at Fayette, Seneca County, N. Y. After being driven by mobs from various places in Missouri, Ohio, and Illinois, they settled at Great Salt Lake, Utah, under the leadership of Brigham Young, in 1847. He was the first President, and was succeeded on his death in 1877 by John Taylor, who was succeeded in 1887 by Wilford Woodruff, who died in 1889. The present President is Franklin D. Richards, and he and Brigham Young, Francis M. Lyman, John Henry Smith, George Teasdale, Heber J. Grant, John W. Taylor, Marriner W. Merrill, Anthon H. Lund, Matthias F. Cowley, Abraham O. Woodruff, and Rudger Clawson constitute the Apostolic Quorum. The total Church membership is 300,000, and the number of Elders 1,700.

The Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints is a separate body, having its headquarters at Lamoni, Iowa. It was organized in 1851, and is presided over by Joseph Smith, son of the Propnet. Its enrolled membership is 40,639, and it has 2,200 active ministers.

The tenets of these two bodies of Mormons were printed in THE WORLD ALMANAC for 1897, page 329.

Society of Colonial Wars.

Suydam, 45 William Street, New York. Deputy Secretary-General—Gen. Howard R. Bayne, New York. Treasurer-General—Edward Shippen, Philadelphia. Registrar-General—George Norbury Mackenzie, Baltimore. Historian-General—T. J. O. Rhineland, New York. Chaplain-General—C. Ellis Stevens, Philadelphia.

The Society of Colonial Wars was instituted in 1892 to "perpetuate the memory of these events and of the men who, in military, naval, and civil positions of high trust and responsibility, by their acts or counsel assisted in the establishment, defence, and preservation of the American Colonies, and were in truth the founders of the nation. With this end in view it seeks to collect and preserve manuscripts, rolls, and records; to provide suitable commemorations or memorials relating to the American Colonial period, and to inspire in its members the paternal and patriotic spirit of their forefathers, and in the community respect and reverence for those whose public services made our freedom and unity possible." Eligibility is confined to an adult male descendant of an ancestor who fought in battle under Colonial authority, from the settlement of Jamestown, Va., in 1607, to the battle of Lexington, in 1775, or who served as Governor, Deputy-Governor, Lieutenant-Governor, Member of the Council, or as a military, naval, or marine officer in the service of the Colonies, or under the banner of Great Britain, or was conspicuous in military, official, or legislative life during that period.

The Settlers and Defenders of America.

A NEW hereditary-patriotic order, incorporated in 1899, but whose organization is yet incomplete. The incorporators are Walter S. Carter, Robert D. Benedict, Ralph E. Prime, William De Hertburn, Washington, William B. Davenport, S. Victor Constant, Robert Endicott, Henry Melville, Edward F. Dwight, P. Tecumseh Sherman, Everett V. Abbot, Rodney S. Dennis, and Grenville E. Winthrop. Its objects are: "To stimulate genealogical, biographical, and historical research, to publish patriotic manuscripts and records, to collect colonial and revolutionary relics, to preserve traditions, to mark patriotic graves, to locate and protect historic sites, to erect tablets and monuments, to aid in founding and erecting libraries, museums, and memorial buildings; and in all other fitting ways, through broad fellowship and co-operation, to perpetuate the memory of the Settlers and Defenders of the nation, and to exemplify and teach in all later generations their spirit of wise patriotism, to the end that we may loyally advance the purpose for which they struggled."

To be eligible, a person must be eighteen years of age, and have lineally descended (1) from a settler in one of the thirteen original Colonies, during the first thirty-three years of its settlement; (2) from one who is also lineally descended from an ancestor who, between May 13, 1607, and April 19, 1775, inclusive, rendered civil or military service in the general government of such colony; and (3) who is likewise lineally descended from an ancestor who, between April 19, 1775, and September 13, 1783, inclusive, rendered actual service to the cause of American Independence, either as a military or naval officer, soldier, seaman, privateer, militia, or minute man, associator, signer of the Declaration of Independence, member of a Continental, Provincial, or Colonial Congress, or Colonial or State Legislature, or as a recognized patriot who performed or actually counselled or abetted acts of resistance to the authority of Great Britain; but no claim of eligibility through descent from a settler or from an ancestor who rendered colonial service to be valid unless the descendants of such ancestor in the line of descent of the applicant were patriots in the War of the Revolution. Women are eligible to admission, and junior chapters of the order are to be established.

Aztec Club of 1847.

This society, originally composed of officers of the United States armies who served in the war with Mexico, was formed in the City of Mexico in 1847, "with a view to cherish the memories and keep alive the traditions that cluster about the names of those officers who took part in the Mexican War." Membership is confined to officers of the army, navy, and marine corps who served in the war or their blood relatives. Each primary member may nominate as his successor his son or a blood relative, who during the life of the primary member is known as associate-member, and on the death of the former is entitled, as his representative, to full membership. There are 240 members.

Society of Mayflower Descendants.

THE Society of Mayflower Descendants was organized in the city of New York December 22, 1894, by lineal descendants of the Mayflower pilgrims, "to preserve their memory, their records, their history, and all facts relating to them, their ancestors, and their posterity." Every lineal descendant over eighteen years of age, male or female, of any passenger of the voyage of the Mayflower, which terminated at Plymouth, Massachusetts, December, 1620, including all signers of "The Compact," are eligible to membership. The initiation fee is ten dollars and the annual dues are five dollars. The annual meeting is held November 22, the anniversary of the signing of "The Compact." Societies are organized in New York, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Ohio, Illinois, and the District of Columbia, with a membership of 2,000. These societies have formed a national organization. The officers of the New York Society are as follows: Governor, Henry E. Howland; Deputy Governor, John T. Terry; Captain, Col. J. J. Slocum; Elder, Rev. Roderick Terry, D. D.; Secretary, Edward W. Dewey, 52 Broadway; Treasurer, W. M. Grinnell, New York; Historian, R. H. Greene, New York.

The Huguenot Society of America.

THIS Society was organized April 12, 1883, and has its office in New York at No. 105 East Twenty-second Street. President, Frederic J. De Peyster; Vice-Presidents, William Jay, Rev. Lea Luquer, Henry M. Lester, A. T. Clearwater, Nathaniel Thayer, and Richard Olney, of Boston; William Ely, Prof. D. D. Demarest, of New Jersey; C. M. Du Puy, Col. R. L. Maury, of Richmond, Va., and B. K. Neufville, of Charleston, S. C.; Treasurer, George S. Bowdoin; Secretary, Mrs. James M. Lawton. Descent from Huguenot ancestors is the qualification necessary for membership.

Irish National Federation of America.

To aid the Home Rule movement in Ireland by constitutional methods and parliamentary agitation. President—Dr. Thomas Addis Emmet. Secretary—Joseph P. Ryan. Treasurer—John D. Crimmins. Headquarters, No. 47 West Forty-second Street.

The American-Irish Historical Society.

President-General—Hon. Thomas J. Gargan, Boston, Mass. Vice-President-General—Hon. John D. Crimmins, New York City. Secretary-General—Thomas Hamilton Murray, 77 Main Street, Woonsocket, R. I. Treasurer-General—Hon. John C. Linehan, Concord, N. H. Librarian and Archivist—Thomas B. Lawler, New York City. There is also an executive council and a vice-president for each State.

The Society was organized at Boston, Mass., January 20, 1897, for the special study of the Irish element in the composition of the American people; to investigate and record the influence of this element in the upbuilding of the nation, and to collect and publish facts relating to and illustrating that influence. The Society draws no creed lines, and is non-political. Being an American organization in spirit and principle, it greets and welcomes to its ranks Americans of whatever race descent and of whatever creed who take an interest in the special line of work for which the Society is organized. It at present includes Roman Catholics, Protestant Episcopalians, Methodists, Presbyterians, Unitarians, and members of other denominations. The membership roll contains the names of gentlemen of the seventh, eighth, and ninth American generations. The membership is about 1,200. The society issues an annual bound volume called the "Journal." The annual meeting is held in New York City.

The Scotch-Irish Society of America.

THIS Society was organized in May, 1889, when the first Scotch-Irish Congress was held at Columbia, Tenn. It is composed of the people of Scotch-Irish descent, residents of the United States and Canada. Its purpose is declared to be "the preservation of Scotch-Irish history and associations, the increase and diffusion of knowledge regarding the Scotch-Irish people, the keeping alive of the characteristic qualities and sentiments of the race, the promotion of intelligent patriotism, and the development of social intercourse and fraternal feeling." State societies are being formed, and the growth of the organization is expected to be large, as the race is widely extended over the Union, and particularly in the middle South, where such men as Andrew Jackson, John C. Calhoun, and Sam Houston were its types. Membership includes females as well as males. Communications may be addressed to the Honorary Secretary, Rev. J. S. MacIntosh, D. D., No. 220 Witherspoon Building, Philadelphia.

Society of Tammany, or Columbian Order.

Grand Sachem—Thomas L. Feitner. Sachems—John Whalen, John F. Carroll, Daniel F. McMahon, John W. Keller, John J. Scannell, Charles F. Murphy, Randolph Guggenheimer, Maurice Featherston, Asa Bird Gardiner, George W. Plunkitt, George C. Clausen, John Fox, Thomas J. Dunn. Secretary—Thomas F. Smith. Treasurer—Peter F. Meyer. Sagamore—John T. Nagle. Wiskinkie—John A. Boyle.

This organization was formed in 1789, being the effect of a popular movement in New York, having primarily in view a counterweight to the so-called "aristocratic" Society of the Cincinnati. It was essentially anti-Federalist or democratic in its character, and its chief founder was William Mooney, an upholsterer and a native-born American of Irish extraction. It took its first title from a noted ancient wise and friendly chief of the Delaware tribe of Indians, named Tammany, who had, for the want of a better subject, been canonized by the soldiers of the Revolution as the American patron saint. The first meeting was held May 12, 1789. The act of incorporation was passed in 1805. The Grand Sachem and thirteen Sachems were designed to typify the President and the Governors of the thirteen original States. William Mooney was the first Grand Sachem. The Society is nominally a charitable and social organization, and is distinct from the general committee of the Tammany Democracy, which is a political organization and cannot use Tammany Hall without the consent of the Society.

| Assistant Treasurer-General..... | Mr. John Cropper, Va.                |

The historic and patriotic Order of the Cincinnati was founded by the American and French officers at the cantonments of the Continental army on the Hudson at the close of hostilities in the War of the Revolution for American Independence in May, 1783.

In forming the society it was declared that, "To perpetuate, therefore, as well the remembrance of this vast event as the mutual friendships which have been formed under the pressure of common danger, and, in many instances, cemented by the blood of the parties, the officers of the American army do hereby, in the most solemn manner, associate, constitute, and combine themselves into one Society of Friends, to endure as long as they shall endure, or any of their eldest male posterity, and in failure thereof the collateral branches who may be judged worthy of becoming its supporters and members."

For convenience, thirteen State societies were formed, and one in France, under the direct patronage of Louis XVI. Upon the roll of original members appeared the names of all the great historic military and naval characters of the Revolution, and upon the roll of honorary members, elected for their own lives only, appeared many of the signers of the Declaration of Independence.

THE RIGHT TO MEMBERSHIP.

All Continental officers who had served with honor and resigned after three years' service as officers, or who had been rendered supernumerary and honorably discharged, in one of the several reductions of the American army, or who had continued to the end of the war, and all French officers who had served in the cooperating army under Count d'Estaing, or auxiliary army under Count de Rochambeau, and held or attained the rank of colonel for such services, or who had commanded a French fleet or ship of war on the American coast, were entitled to become original members, and upon doing so were required to contribute a month's pay.

STATE SOCIETIES.

There are nine active State societies—viz., those of Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut (revived 1893), New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, and South Carolina, and the one in France, which was dispersed at the Reign of Terror in 1793, is being re-established.

There were originally thirteen State societies, corresponding to the number of States at the close of the Revolutionary War. Several of these became dormant in the early part of the nineteenth century, but all these are now revived and reorganized, and those of New Hampshire, Delaware, North Carolina, and Georgia have been provisionally recognized, and may be restored to the general society at its next triennial meeting.

Membership descends to the eldest lineal male descendant, if judged worthy, and, in failure of direct male descent, to male descendants through intervening female descendants.

The general society is composed of the general officers and five delegates from each State society, and meets triennially. In 1854 it ruled that proper descendants of Revolutionary officers who were entitled to original membership, but who never could avail themselves of it, are qualified for hereditary membership, if found worthy, on due application.

State societies are organized in New Hampshire, Delaware, North Carolina, and Georgia, but are not yet admitted to active membership in the general society.

A society of "Daughters of the Cincinnati" was organized in New York in 1894. It is not recognized by the Society of the Cincinnati, and its assumption of the society name was formally disapproved by the general society at its triennial meeting in May, 1896.

Sons of the Revolution.

General Vice-President—Garrett D. W. Vroom, N. J. Assistant General Secretary—Wm. H. Harris, Md.
Second General Vice-President—Pope Barrow, Ga. General Registrar—Francis E. Abbott, Mass.
General Treasurer—R. M. Cadwalader, Pa. General Historian—H. W. Dudley, Ill.
Assistant General Treasurer—Henry Cadle, Mo. General Chaplain—Rt. Rev. H. B. Whipple, Minn.

The society of the "Sons of the Revolution" was originated in New York in 1875 by John Austin Stevens, in conjunction with other patriotic gentlemen of Revolutionary ancestry. The New York Society was instituted February 22, 1876, reorganized December 3, 1883, and incorporated May 3, 1884, to "keep alive among ourselves and our descendants the patriotic spirit of the men who, in military, naval, or civil service, by their acts or counsel, achieved American independence; to collect and secure for preservation the manuscript rolls, records, and other documents relating to the War of the Revolution, and to promote intercourse and good feeling among its members now and hereafter." Eligibility to membership is confined to male descendants, above the age of twenty-one years, from an ancestor who as either a military, naval, or marine officer, soldier, sailor, or marine, or official in the service of any one of the thirteen original Colonies or States, or of the National Government, representing or composed of those Colonies or States, assisted in establishing American independence during the War of the Revolution between the 19th day of April, 1775, when hostilities commenced, and the 19th day of April, 1783, when they were ordered to cease. The last triennial meeting of the general society was held at Denver, Col., beginning April 19, 1899. The next triennial meeting of the general society will be held in the city of Washington April 19, 1902.

The officers of the New York Society Sons of the Revolution are as follows: President—Frederick Samuel Tallmadge. Vice-President—Robert Olyphant. Secretary—Morris P. Ferris, 146 Broadway. Treasurer—Arthur Melvin Hatch. Registrar—Prof. H. P. Johnston. Historian—Talbot Olyphant. Chaplain—Rev. Brockholst Morgan.

There are thirty State societies and a society in the District of Columbia. The aggregate membership is over 7,000, that of the New York State Society being over 2,000, and of the Pennsylvania State Society over 1,000.

Sons of the American Revolution.

NATIONAL OFFICERS.

- President-General*—Franklin Murphy, N. J. Secretary-General—Samuel E. Gross, Chicago, Ill.
Vice-Pres.-Gen.—Jos. C. Breckinridge, D. C. Treasurer-General—C. W. Haskins, N. Y.

Vice-Pres.-Gen.—J. M. Richardson, O. Historian-General—E. M. Gallaudet, D. C.
Vice-Pres.-Gen.—Jonathan Trumbull, Ct. Chaplain-General—Rev. Rufus W. Clark, Mich.

The National Society of "Sons of the American Revolution" was organized in New York April 30, 1889, and chartered in Connecticut in 1890. Its purposes are the same as those of the older organization, the "Sons of the Revolution." State societies exist in thirty-eight States, the District of Columbia, and Hawaii. A California society of descendants of Revolutionary patriots, entitled "Sons of Revolutionary Sires," organized July 4, 1875, having reorganized and changed its name in 1889, has been admitted to membership. A formal movement by this society and the "Sons of the Revolution" toward a union was attempted in 1892, and again in 1897, but was not successful. The total membership of the organization, according to the report of the Registrar-General made at the annual congress of the general society at Detroit, Mich., April 30, 1899, is 9,690. The Massachusetts Society has 1,300 members, the New York Society over 1,100 members, and the Connecticut Society over 1,000 members.

The New York or Empire State Society was organized February 11, 1890. The following are the officers: President—Robert B. Roosevelt. Secretary—William W. Kenley, 1123 Broadway, New York. Treasurer—Richard T. Davis. Registrar—Teunis D. Hunting. Historian—Walter K. Benjamin. Chaplain—Rev. James M. King.

Mount Vernon Ladies' Association.

The Washington estate at Mount Vernon, Va., is under the care and direction of the Mount Vernon Ladies' Association of the Union. The founder of the Association, in 1854, was Miss Ann Pamela Cunningham, of South Carolina. She was the first Regent, and was succeeded in 1873 in that position by Mrs. Macalester Laughton. She died in 1891, and the present Regent is Mrs. Justine Van Rensselaer Townsend, of New York (a great-granddaughter of General Philip Schuyler, and great-great-granddaughter of Philip Livingston, the signer of the Declaration of Independence). There are Vice-Regents for thirty-two States.

Military Order of Foreign Wars.

THE Military Order of Foreign Wars of the United States was instituted in the City of New York, December 27, 1894, by veterans and descendants of veterans of one or more of the five foreign wars which the United States had been engaged in, to wit: The War of the Revolution, the War with Tripoli, the War of 1812, the Mexican War, and the War with Spain, "to perpetuate the names and memory of brave and loyal men who took part in establishing and maintaining the principles of the Government" in said wars, and "to preserve records and documents relating to said wars, and to celebrate the anniversaries of historic events connected therewith." Since the establishment of the order the United States has fought its fifth foreign war. By an amendment to the constitution all American officers who participated in the war with Spain are rendered eligible to membership as veteran companions.

Members are entitled "companions," and are either "veteran companions" or "hereditary companions." The former are commissioned officers of the army, navy, or marine corps of the United States who participated in any of the foreign wars of the United States. The latter are direct lineal descendants, in the male line only, of commissioned officers who served honorably in any of the said wars. Commanderies may be established in each of the States, and State commanderies now exist in the States of New York, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Illinois, California, Massachusetts, Florida, Maryland, District of Columbia, Ohio, Missouri, and Vermont.

The National Commandery was instituted March 11, 1896, by the officers of the New York, Pennsylvania, and Connecticut commanderies. The following are the officers of the National Commandery: Commander-General—Major-General Alexander S. Webb, U. S. A. Secretary-General—James H. Morgan, St. Paul Building, New York City. Treasurer-General—Edward S. Sayres. Registrar-General—Rev. Henry N. Wayne. Historian-General—Captain Samuel E. Gross, U. S. V. Judge-Advocate-General—Frank Montgomery Avery. Chaplain-General—Rev. C. Ellis Stevens. Recorder-General—Charles D. Walcott. There are Vice-Presidents-General representing each State society.

Naval Order of the United States.

THE Naval Order of the United States is composed of a General Commandery and commanderies in the States of Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, New York, California, and Illinois, and in the District of Columbia. The General Commandery meets triennially on October 5, and the State Commanderies meet annually in the month of November. The Massachusetts Commandery is the parent Commandery, and was organized at Boston on July 4, 1890. The General Commandery was established three years later, on June 19, 1893. The Companions of the Order are officers and the descendants of officers who served in the navy and marine corps in any war or in any battle in which the said naval forces of the United States have participated. The membership clause, as adopted at the triennial congress held at Boston, October 5, 1895, provides for two classes of members: First, veteran officers and their male descendants, and, second, enlisted men who have received the United States naval medal of honor for bravery in the face of the enemy. The next triennial meeting will be held at New York in November, 1902.

The officers of the General Commandery are: General Commander—Rear-Admiral John G. Walker. Vice-General Commanders—Admiral George Dewey, Rear-Admiral George E. Belknap, Colonel John Biddle Porter. General Recorder—Lieutenant-Commander Leonard Cheney. Assistant General Recorder—Rodney Macdonough. General Treasurer—Jarvis B. Edson, late U. S. N. General Registrar—J. V. P. Turner, late U. S. N. General Historian—Captain R. S. Collum, U. S. M. C. General Chaplain—Rev. George Williamson Smith, D. D. General Council—Rear-Admiral W. S. Schley, Commodore Norman H. Farquhar, Chief Engineer George W. Melville, Captain Hobart H. Bellas, U. S. A.; Medical Director George W. Woods, Captain Henry C. Taylor, Commodore John W. Philip, Lieutenant-Commander Edward M. Stedman, Paymaster John Randolph Carmody. The Commander of the New York Commandery, which is the largest in the order, is Admiral George Dewey.

Societies of the War of 1812.

SOCIETY OF THE WAR OF 1812 AND VETERAN CORPS OF ARTILLERY IN THE STATE OF NEW YORK.

INSTITUTED as a military society by the veterans of the War of 1812, on January 3, 1826, in the City of New York, and incorporated under the laws of the State of New York by the surviving veteran members, January 3, 1892.

The officers are: President—Rev. Morgan Dix, D. D., D. C. L. Vice-President—Hon. Asa Bird Gardiner, LL. D. Secretary—Vacant. Assistant Secretary—Charles Isham. Treasurer—Charles Augustus Schermerhorn.

The original members comprise those who actually served in the military or naval forces of the United States during the War of 1812, or on vessels other than merchant ships which sailed under commissions of letters of marque and reprisal from the United States in that war.

Eligibility to hereditary membership is confined to descendants of commissioned officers who actually served in the War of 1812, and descendants of former members of the Society in the State of New York, and of other military societies of 1812.

The purposes of the order are to inspire among the members and among the American people the patriotic spirit of the men who, during the War of 1812, defended their country against hostile encroachments on its rights and interests and caused its sovereignty and independence to be respected; to inculcate and maintain the great principles of the laws of nations for which they contended; to collect and preserve the manuscript rolls, records, and other documents relating to that war, and to commemorate the land and naval victories of the American arms in that war; to undertake and assist in the erection of proper memorials thereof; to perpetuate the mutual friendships formed in that war under the pressure of common danger, and to promote fellowship among the members of every degree.

THE GENERAL SOCIETY OF THE WAR OF 1812.

Composed of federated State societies, in Maryland, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Ohio, and other States. The officers are: President-General—Hon. John Cadwalader, Philadelphia, Pa. Treasurer-General—Satterlee Swartwout, Stamford, Ct. Secretary-General—Henry Hobart Bellas, Germantown, Pa. Lineal descendants of soldiers and sailors (whether enlisted or sailing under letters of marque and reprisal) only are entitled to membership.

Military Order of the Loyal Legion.

Commander-in-Chief—Lieut.-Gen. John M. Schofield. Senior Vice-Commander-in-Chief—Acting Volunteer Lieut. Charles P. Clark. Junior Vice-Commander-in-Chief—Brig.-Gen. Henry C. Merriam. Recorder-in-Chief—Brevet Lieut.-Col. John P. Nicholson. Registrar-in-Chief—Brevet Major William P. Huxford. Treasurer-in-Chief—Paymaster George De F. Barton. Chancellor-in-Chief—Brevet Brig.-Gen. William L. James. Chaplain-in-Chief—Brevet Major Henry S. Burrage. Council-in-Chief—Brevet Major George W. Chandler, Rear-Admiral George Brown, Col. Charles A. Woodruff, Brevet Major-Gen. John B. Sanborn, Capt. Roswell H. Mason.

The Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States was organized by officers and ex-officers of the army, navy, and marine corps of the United States who took part in the Civil War of 1861-65. Membership descends to the eldest direct male lineal descendant, according to the rules of primogeniture. There are 20 commanderies, each representing a State, and one commandery representing the District of Columbia. The total membership of the Loyal Legion July 31, 1899, was 9,099.

Woman's Relief Corps.

AUXILIARY TO THE GRAND ARMY OF THE REPUBLIC.

National President—Agnes Hitt, 40 When Building, Indianapolis, Ind. National Secretary—Ida S. McBride, Indianapolis, Ind.

This organization was created by the mothers, wives, daughters, and sisters of Union soldiers of the Civil War of 1861-65, for the purpose of aiding and assisting the Grand Army of the Republic, and to "perpetuate the memory of their heroic dead," to "extend needful aid to the widows and orphans," to "cherish and emulate the deeds of our army nurses," and to "inculcate lessons of patriotism and love of country among our children and in the communities in which we live." The organization is composed of departments, which are subdivided into corps.

Sons of Veterans, U. S. A.

Camp No. 1, Sons of Veterans, U. S. A., was organized in the city of Philadelphia, September 29, 1879. The organization is composed of lineal descendants, over eighteen years of age, of honorably discharged soldiers, sailors, or marines who served in the late Civil War. There are now about two thousand Camps, with a membership of one hundred thousand distributed among twenty-nine Divisions, corresponding to States, the general society or national body constituting the Commandery-in-Chief. Each Camp has its own officers, the head officer being the Captain. The principal officer of the Division is the Commander. The nineteenth annual encampment will be held at Syracuse, N. Y., in September, 1900.

Society of the Sons of War Veterans.

THE Society of the Sons of War Veterans is composed of the male lineal descendants above the age of eighteen years of honorably discharged Union soldiers, sailors, or marines who served in the War of 1861-65 for a period of not less than six months (a part of said service having been at the front), unless discharged on account of wounds received in battle or killed in the discharge of duty.

Commander-in-Chief—W. F. Langschultz, New York City. Deputy Commanders—Charles S. Watrous, Bridgeport, Ct., and Andrew Emerich, Montpelier, Vt. Adjutant-General—W. F. Kennedy, 110 East Forty-seventh Street, New York City. Quartermaster-General—John J. Harvey, New York City.

The objects are "to preserve and perpetuate the principles for which our ancestors fought in battle, to support, aid, and assist the Union soldiers and their widows, and for mutual benefit and advancement."

Union Veteran Legion.

National Commander—W. R. Wooters, Philadelphia, Pa. Senior Vice-National Commander—J. Ben. Renner, Cincinnati, O. Junior Vice-National Commander—H. C. Zollinger, Fort Wayne, Ind. Quartermaster-General—Thomas J. Hubbard, Baltimore, Md. Adjutant-General—John N. Rober, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Union Veteran Legion was organized at Pittsburgh, Pa., March, 1884, and the National organization was perfected November 17, 1886. Encampments are now organized in 21 States and the District of Columbia, numbering 152 encampments. The membership is over 20,000. To become a member, the applicant must have been an officer, soldier, sailor, or marine of the Union army, navy, or marine corps during the late Civil War, who volunteered prior to July 1, 1863, for a term of three years, and was honorably discharged for any cause, after a service of at least two continuous years; or was, at any time, discharged by reason of wounds received in the line of duty; also those who volunteered for a term of two years prior to July 22, 1861, and served their full term of enlistment, unless discharged for wounds received in the line of duty; but no drafted person, nor substitute, nor any one who has at any time borne arms against the United States is eligible. A statement by the Adjutant-General of the Legion says: "It is believed that those who entered the service prior to July, 1863, had but one object in view, and that was the preservation of the Union. There were no bounties prior to that date, nor were there any fears of a draft; consequently, those who shouldered a musket or wielded a sabre felt that it was a sacred duty to offer their lives in defence of their country's honor."

Union Veterans' Union.

Commander-in-Chief—Charles W. Wood, Worcester, Mass. First Deputy Commander-in-Chief—J. W. Long, Soldiers' Home, Kent Co., Mich. Second Deputy Commander-in-Chief—P. G. Harshbarger, Louisville, Ky. Adjutant-General—C. W. Putnam, Worcester, Mass. Quartermaster-General—E. D. McFarland, Worcester, Mass. Chief of Staff—Charles P. Battelle, Somerville, Mass.

The Union Veterans' Union was organized in Washington, D. C., in the year 1886. It is composed of honorably discharged Union soldiers, sailors, and marines, of good character, who served at least six months continuously, unless sooner discharged on account of wounds or injuries received in the line of duty, during the Civil War.

National Association of Naval Veterans.

Commodore Commanding—George L. Seavey, Chicago, Ill. Fleet Captain and Chief of Staff—I. D. Baker, Boston, Mass. Fleet Commander—James A. Miller, Athens, O. Fleet Secretary—Frederick E. Haskins, 767 Washington Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The National Association of Naval Veterans was organized by delegates from the various associations of naval veterans throughout the Union at a meeting held in the City of New York, in January, 1887. Any officer, appointed or enlisted man who has served in the United States Navy, United States Marine Corps, or United States Revenue Marine Service during any portion of the time between April 12, 1861, and August 25, 1865, who has not borne arms against the United States, or been convicted of any infamous crime, and who has been honorably discharged or resigned by an honorable acceptance of resignation, is eligible to membership in this association. There are 41 local associations under the national charter, a paid membership of over 8,500, and 3,000 contributing members.

The National Society of the Spanish-American War.

Honorary President—Clara Barton. Honorary Vice-Presidents—Admiral George Dewey, Mrs. John A. Logan, Rear-Admiral W. S. Schley, and Major-Gen. N. A. Miles. National Executive Secretary—Hildegard H. Langsdorff, M. D., Carlisle, Pa. National Advisory Council—The Governors of the various States and Territories and other prominent Americans.

This Society was organized August 12, 1898. Its headquarters are in Baltimore, Md. Local councils of the Society may, upon approval of the Executive Council, be formed in any community. Membership is open to all patriotic Americans. Men and women share equally the honors and duties of membership. The badge of the Society is a circular field of dark-blue enamel. The edge of the field is worked into thirteen points; on the field are thirteen golden stars encircling the letters "L. W. F.," which stand for the motto of the Society, which is, "Let Us Forget." The executive officers wear signet rings in the shape of eagle's claws grasping a sard, upon which are engraved the letters "L. W. F." and the insignia of the rank of the officer. The membership fee, payable to the National Society, is $1; patrons and patronesses pay $5 annually, and life members, $100 in one payment. The local fees are regulated by the local councils. The local councils have great freedom of action. All that is required of them is unswerving fidelity to the purposes of the National Society, the payment of yearly dues, and certain work on Memorial Day.

Naval and Military Order Spanish-American War.

INSTITUTED February 2, 1899. Commander—Col. Theodore Roosevelt. Senior Vice-Commander—Capt. Henry C. Taylor. Junior Vice-Commander—Brig.-Gen. Wallace F. Randolph. Secretary—Lieut. Walter J. V.; Historian, Major G. Creighton Webb, Inspector-General, U. S. V.

The Rough Riders' Association.

BEFORE the disbanding of the First Regiment United States Volunteer Cavalry, serving in Cuba, the members organized the Rough Riders' Association. All members of the regiment are eligible to membership in the Association, and membership descends to the eldest sons of original members, as in the Order of the Cincinnati, founded by the officers of the Revolutionary War. The following are the officers for the first year: President, Lieut.-Col. Alexander O. Brodie; Vice-Presidents, Col. Theodore Roosevelt and Brig.-Gen. Leonard Wood; Secretary-Treasurer, Lieut. J. D. Carter.

Naval Order of St. Louis.

INSTITUTED May 1, 1898. Incorporated July 26, 1899. Senior Member—Capt. Caspar F. Goodrich, U. S. M. Treasurer—P. A. Paymaster T. Hinsey, late U. S. N. Secretary—P. A. Surgeon R. Lloyd Parker, late U. S. N., Pier 14 N. R., New York. The particular objects of the association are the continuation of the good feeling and fellowship begun while commissioned officers on board or with the United States steamship St. Louis, and to perpetuate the memory of the part that vessel and her consorts took in the Spanish-American War.

United States Veteran Navy.

THIS organization was formed in the City of New York, September 21, 1899, and has 42 local bodies called squadrons and 3,000 members, composed of naval officers and enlisted men who served in the civil and Spanish wars. B. S. Osbon is Flag Officer-Commanding, and George H. Wood, Fleet Secretary. Headquarters, 15 Whitehall Street, New York.

United Confederate Veterans.

Commander—Gen. John B. Gordon, of Georgia. Adjutant-General and Chief of Staff—Major-Gen. George Moorman, New Orleans, La.

Army of Northern Virginia Department—Commander, Lieut.-Gen. Wade Hampton, Columbia, S. C.

Adjutant-General—Brig.-Gen. E. T. Sykes, Columbus, Miss.

Trans-Mississippi Department—Commander, Lieut.-Gen. W. L. Cabell, Dallas, Tex. Adjutant-General—Brig.-Gen. A. T. Watts, Dallas, Tex.

The Confederate Veteran, Nashville, Tenn., established by S. A. Cunningham, is the official organ of the association.

This association was organized at New Orleans June 10, 1889. Its avowed purpose is strictly social, literary, historical, and benevolent. Its constitution says that it "will endeavor to unite in a general federation all associations of Confederate veterans, soldiers, and sailors now in existence or hereafter to be formed; to gather authentic data for an impartial history of the war between the States; to preserve relics or mementoes of the same; to cherish the ties of friendship that should exist among men who have shared common dangers, common sufferings, and privations; to care for the disabled and extend a helping hand to the needy; to protect the widows and the orphans, and to make and preserve a record of the resources of every member, and, as far as possible, of those of our comrades who have preceded us in eternity." State organizations are authorized, and are called Divisions. The present headquarters of the association are at New Orleans, La. Number of Camps, 1,170. Number of members, according to last report, about 45,000. The last reunion of the veterans was at Charleston, S. C., in July, 1899. The next reunion will be at Louisville, Ky., in 1900.

United Sons of Confederate Veterans.

THE general society of this organization, which is composed of representatives of local camps throughout the United States, held its reunion in 1899 at Charleston, S. C. The following is the official roster:

Commander-in-Chief—Walter T. Colquitt, Atlanta, Ga. Adjutant-General, Chief of Staff—L. D. T. Quinby, Atlanta, Ga. Quartermaster-General—E. Leslie Spence, Jr., Richmond, Va. Surgeon-General—Dr. Mike Hoke, Richmond, Va. Inspector-General—T. T. Stockton, Jacksonville, Fla. Chaplain-General—Rev. J. H. McCoy, Huntsville, Ala. Commissary-General—John I. Moore, Asheville, N. C. Judge-Advocate-General—John Marks, Napoleonville, La.

United Daughters of the Confederacy.

President—Mrs. Kate Cabell Currie, Dallas, Tex. First Vice-President—Mrs. C. A. Forney, Hope, Ark. Second Vice-President—Mrs. Helen C. Plane, Atlanta, Ga. Recording Secretary—Mrs. John P. Hickman, Nashville, Tenn. Corresponding Secretary—Miss Mary F. Meares, Wilmington, N. C. Treasurer—Mrs. J. Jefferson Thomas, Atlanta, Ga.

The United Daughters of the Confederacy was organized at Nashville, Tenn., September 10, 1894. It is composed of the widows, wives, mothers, sisters, and lineal female descendants of men who served honorably in the army and navy of the Confederate States, or who served in the Civil Service of the Confederate States or one of the Southern States, or who gave personal services to the Confederate cause. There are local federations, governed by State divisions, which in turn are subordinate to the National organization. The objects of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, as stated in the constitution of the Society, are "social, literary, historical, monumental, benevolent, and honorable in every degree, without any political significance whatever." It will endeavor: (1) To unite in the federation all bodies of Southern women now organized or that may hereafter be formed. (2) To cultivate ties of friendship among our women whose fathers, brothers, sons, and, in numberless cases, mothers, shared common dangers, sufferings, and privations; and to perpetuate honor, integrity, valor, and other noble attributes of true Southern character. (3) To instruct and instill into the descendants of the people of the South a proper respect for and pride in the glorious war history, with a veneration and love for the deeds of their forefathers which have created such a monument of military renown, and to perpetuate a truthful record of the noble and chivalric achievements of their ancestors. All with the view of furnishing authentic information from which a conscientious historian will be enabled to write a correct and impartial history of the Confederate side during the struggle for Southern independence. The organization now has 400 chapters in the United States, North and South, with about 8,000 members.

Society of the Army and Navy of the Confederate States

IN THE STATE OF MARYLAND.

President—Gen. Bradley T. Johnson. Recording Secretary—Capt. Augustine J. Smith. Corresponding Secretary—John F. Hayden, Baltimore, Md. Treasurer—Capt. F. M. Colston. There are twelve vice-presidents and an executive committee of seven members. The Society of the Army and Navy of the Confederate States in the State of Maryland was organized in 1871, "to collect and preserve the material for a truthful history of the late war between the Confederate States and the United States of America; to honor the memory of our comrades who have fallen; to cherish the ties of friendship among those who survive, and to fulfil the duties of sacred charity toward those who may stand in need of them." The membership is 1,082. The annual dues are $1.

Regular Army and Navy Union.

National Commander—Henry Shindler, Leavenworth, Kan. Vice-National Commander—Stephen O. Tripp, Peoria, Ill. Adjutant-General—Richard J. Fanning, Columbus, Ohio.

The Regular Army and Navy Union was organized at Cincinnati and incorporated under the laws of Ohio in March, 1888. The national organization (called the National Corps) was organized in August, 1890. The Union admits to its ranks men now in the service who have served one or more terms and hold honorable discharges, also those now in civil life who have served in the army, navy, and marine corps of the United States and who have been honorably discharged therefrom, whether said service was before, during, or since the war. Officers who have served five years or more are also eligible to membership. There are at present 170 garrisons, with an estimated membership of 12,000.

COLONIAL DAMES OF AMERICA.

OFFICERS.

President—Mrs. John Lyon Gardiner. First Vice-President—Mrs. Thomas Wren Ward. Second Vice-President—Mrs. James W. Gerard. Treasurer—Mrs. Oscar Egerton Schmidt. Secretary—Mrs. Timothy Matlack Cheesman, 109 University Place. Historian—Miss Julia Livingston Delafield. Advisory Council—Henry E. Howland, Franklin Bartlett, Louis V. Bright.

The Society of the Colonial Dames of America was organized in the City of New York May 23, 1890, and was the first society of women for this patriotic purpose founded in this country. It was incorporated April 23, 1891. The Society is purely patriotic and educational in its objects, which are: (1) To collect and preserve relics, manuscripts, traditions, and mementoes of the founders and builders of the thirteen original States of the Union, and of the heroes of the War of Independence, that the memory of their deeds and achievements may be perpetuated. (2) To promote celebrations of great historic events of national importance, to diffuse information on all subjects concerning American history, particularly among the young, and to cultivate the spirit of patriotism and reverence for the founders of American constitutional history.

This Society has already a large membership and chapters in many States. It is a distinct organization from that which follows.

DAUGHTERS OF THE HOLLAND DAMES.

Directress-General—Mrs. William Ghion. Deputy Directress-Generals—Miss Mary Van Buren Vanderpool, Mrs. A. C. Chenoweth. Treasurer—Mrs. Eugene Hoffman. Registrar—Miss Harriet Duer Robinson. Historian—Mrs. William Budd. Secretary—Mrs. A. C. Chenoweth. "The Daughters of Holland Dames, Descendants of the Ancient and Honorable Families of New York," was incorporated for the purpose of erecting a memorial to commemorate the early Dutch period of our colonial history, and to preserve and collect historical documents relating to the same. The headquarters are at New York. This Society is not connected with the Holland Dames, of which Miss Lavinia Dempsey is Queen.

HOLLAND DAMES OF THE NEW NETHERLANDS.

The Holland Dames of the New Netherlands and their "associate members," gentlemen of Dutch descent, are governed by a National Board of Management composed of Dames and a Council of State composed of "Sir Knights." The principal officers of the Board are: Queen—Miss Lavinia H. Van Westervelt Dempsey. National Regent—Mrs. Stewart Osborne. Directress-General—Mrs. J. C. Wycoff Mitchell. Recording Secretary—Mrs. Lina K. Trafton. Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. Henry A. Topham. Treasurer—Mrs. May Banks Stacey. Historian—Mrs. Jesse Larrabee. Mistress of Ceremonies—Miss Fannie Wynkoop Clark. The officers of the Council are: Chairman—Hon. T. F. Reed. Chancellor of National Affairs—Dr. Christopher Kiersted. Chancellor of Foreign Affairs—Hon. William L. Strong. Chancellor in Equity—Jesse Larrabee. Chamberlain of State—Guy C. Dempsey. Lord of the Admiralty—Frank Stewart Osborne. Secretary—W. Irving Van Imwegen. The affairs of the Society are submitted yearly to a meeting of delegates, called the "Staten Generaal," from Holland's Parliament. The Society's headquarters are the Waldorf-Astoria, New York.

CONDITIONS OF SERVICE AND AVAILABLE STRENGTH OF POWERS.

Every year the young men who attain the age in which they are available for military service are enrolled in advance, in every European country. These ages run generally from 21 to 45, and this time is divided up by service, first, in the active army, which answers to our regular establishment; second, in the reserve to the active army; third, in the Landwehr; fourth, in the Landsturm, in which they are never called out, except in time of war, and then for defence of the fatherland only.

AUSTRIA-HUNGARY.—The registered number of young men attaining the age of military service in 1897 was 347,298. Out of this, those fit for service numbered 191,300, of which 136,000 were drawn for service as follows: Active army and navy, 106,000; Landwehr, 30,000. Obligatory service commences on the first day of January of year young man attains 21 years. It consists of three years with colors, seven in active army reserve, two in the Landwehr, and the balance up to end of forty-fifth year of age in the Landsturm. From the number registered, there were exempted, postponed, etc., 155,198.

GERMANY.—The registered number of young men in 1897 was 426,245, out of which 268,000 were required to fill annual contingent. There were that year 11,000 one-year volunteers. Liability commences with end of seventeenth year and ends with beginning of forty-fifth year. It is termed "Wehrpflicht." It is divided into two classes, "Dienstpflicht" and "Landsturmpflicht." The two foregoing terms translated mean "Service Liability" and "Landsturm Liability." The soldier's term is two years with the colors, then leave of absence for five years, during which time he is called out for two trainings of eight weeks each. He then has five years in the first ban of the Landwehr, in which he has two trainings of two weeks each. His next step is five years in the second ban of the Landwehr, and the balance of his time in the Landsturm. The general staff, which is so much needed in the United States Army, in the German Army is a close and flexible organization which permeates the entire army and prepares it in peace for war, and in war conducts the strategical and tactical operations. All regimental officers have to do staff work, and to rise it is made a requisite that the officer must distinguish himself in the staff first. Hence between the regimental or line work and the staff there is a constant interchange, a constant touch by which each is in sympathy with the other and works for the greatest good of the whole.

FRANCE.—In 1897 the registered number of men for military service was 342,644. After exemptions, postponements, etc., there remained for service 268,500, or a few more than in Germany. This number, however, includes the postponements of former years. All classes of citizens are liable to serve. The liability commences with the twentieth year and lasts till the end of the forty-fifth year. It is divided as follows: Three years with the colors, ten with active army reserve, six in the territorial army, and the remaining six in reserve of territorial army.

ITALY.—In 1897 269,600 was the number registered. Out of this only 93,000 were drawn and the remainder excused. Former year exemptions to the number of 152,000 were enrolled. Service is in all classes and lasts for eighteen years. The first two are with the colors, the following ten are on leave, with thirty days' service in training each year. The remaining six are the reserve of territorial army.

RUSSIA.—The number for 1897 was 985,200 the greatest number ever recorded. Out of this, 302,500 were drawn for active service. The soldier spends his first five years in the active army and the next thirteen in its reserve. There are two bans in this reserve, and all registered but not drawn except those exempted, are placed in second ban of the reserve from the beginning. Their service in it is eighteen years, the same time as those who go directly in the active army. All other men in the empire between ages of twenty-one and forty-five constitute the militia and are called out for three years of home training.

TURKEY.—The Turkish forces are organized on the territorial system, the entire empire being divided into seven territorial districts. All Mussulmans are liable to military duty, but Christians and certain sects may pay an exemption tax. Many Nomads, Kurds etc. evade the duty though all are liable if caught. All conscripted are divided into the following classes: 1 Nizam, or regular army and its reserves. 2 Redil, corresponding to Landwehr. 3 Mustahfurz, or Landsturm. Liability commences with twenty-fourth year and lasts for twenty years: Active army four years; Landwehr, four years, active army reserve, two years, four years in second class of Landwehr, and remaining six in Landsturm. Great difficulty is experienced by the Turkish officials in trying to find the number liable to military duty.

GREAT BRITAIN.—Interest is especially given to the land forces of Great Britain by reason of the Boer war in South Africa. The numbers given in foregoing table are correct up to July 1. Since then the forces have been greatly augmented, and nothing definite can be known outside the British War Office. The British expect to have in South Africa by January 1 1900, a force of 70,000 men; but as the Boers can bring against this number over 55,000 well-armed men, it is evident that ere the war is ended in victory for the English, their forces must be increased to over 100,000.

RIFLES AND SMALL ARMS.

In official tests made recently comparing the Mauser, calibre .30, and the Krag-Jørgenson, calibre .30, rifles, it was shown that from either gun twenty shots a minute with a good degree of accuracy could be fired, while without aiming twenty shots could be fired in forty seconds. When used as single loaders it was shown that forty shots could be fired with great accuracy in two minutes, while the continuity of magazine fire with either did not exceed that of the same when employed as single loaders. A practical test was further made with these two guns by taking a number of men who had never before handled both guns, and were accustomed solely to the swinging block system of the Springfield. It was found that twenty shots could be fired with fair accuracy in one minute and fifty seconds. As these two rifles were selected as the highest of any type used by any of the great powers, they may be considered as the best military rifles made.

A mistake has been made by some military writers in late years in advocating the use of the magazine rifle. The normal supply of ammunition a soldier carries about his person is 120 rounds, or about twelve pounds weight. At the rate of ten shots per minute, which surely is reasonable, the supply would be exhausted in twelve minutes, while if the magazine were used and twenty shots a minute fired his supply would be entirely gone in six minutes. This consideration is a new factor in the discipline of the modern soldier, who is guided not only by the obedience he inclines to give his officer, but by the training which enables him to do it, and to control himself and act with coolness, and take if necessary the initiative or obey that of others.

It is worthy of remark that notwithstanding the reported experience of volunteers during the Spanish-American War the troops in the Philippines soon learned that the Springfield rifle did more execution than the Krag on the Filipinos. It has the "stopping" effect, while the Krag, with higher velocity and greater range, passes through men with their bareely feeling it. This, it is true, is only at certain ranges. At others the wound of the Krag-Jørgenson rifle is terrible. The cause was explained in THE WORLD ALMANAC for 1899.

Some of the conclusions reached by medical officers as to the effects of new small-calibre guns and powerful powders are: 1. That while weapons like the Mauser leave nothing to be desired on the score of humanity, they are failures in that they do not serve the special service for which they were intended. Soldiers fire with the intention of putting as many as possible of the enemy hors du combat, but when the bullets bore neat little holes through flesh and bone, and, except when vital organs are traversed, cause no shock to the system, then the soldier's task is more difficult and prolonged. In other words, guns of the Mauser type prolong conflicts. 2. The missiles from new rifles do greater harm or are more effective at long range than at short, but, unlike the old bullets, clothing is not so apt to be carried into the flesh, and thus poison it. 3. Abdominal wounds are now almost always fatal.

SMOKELESS POWDERS.

It is remarkable that it was the effort to produce small arms which gave longer ranges, with more searching powers, that led to the development of smokeless powder. A high authority on this subject says: "Its production had not been by design, and the desirability of even this property (smokelessness) at the time was questioned by high military authority." As a resumé of what may be considered the latest conclusions on this subject the same authority says: "At present there is unquestionable unanimity as to the desirability of the absence of smoke from the battlefield, but this absence of smoke is viewed by real soldiers not so much as a safeguard for themselves as for the advantage it carries with it in clearing the field for skilful action. The conclusion would seem to be that practical experience in the Santiago campaign sustains the claim that troops furnished with smokeless powder have the advantage over troops which are not so supplied. This conclusion should, however, in turn be qualified by the fact that many line officers of our army of high rank, prior to the campaign, openly and emphatically expressed their preference for the Springfield rifle even using smoky powder."

As a matter of fact, a satisfactory smokeless powder does not exist. Neither France, Germany, nor Russia possesses one, and they are continually experimenting with the hope of discovering some compound that will answer the many and hard tests required of it. England professes confidence in cordite, but when used in American guns it is found to erode the metal of the guns to such an extent as to shorten their lives materially. All powders that amount to anything contain more or less of nitro-glycerine. In small quantities, as in small-arm cartridges, there is no appreciable effect from erosion, but in larger quantities it is so great an element that a few discharges have been known to put guns out of service. It is still a problem, and to the inventor or discoverer who first gets a satisfactory smokeless powder there awaits a fame and fortune of immense proportions.

Lyddite, which figures so extensively in the British-Boer War, is a high explosive named from a small town in Kent, England, and is composed of picric acid brought into a dense state by fusion. Picric acid is obtained by the action of nitric acid on phenol or carbolic acid. Its destructive effect in a shell is eleven times that of powder, and it kills more by air concussion than flying fragments.

United States Warships.

A COMPLETE LIST OF THE WAR VESSELS OF THE UNITED STATES FROM THE REVOLUTION TO THE PRESENT TIME (1775-1900).

GIVING THE DATE OF PURCHASE OR CONSTRUCTION, THE RIG, CLASS, ARMAMENT, COST (SO FAR AS IS KNOWN), AND FATE OF EVERY WAR VESSEL OWNED BY THE UNITED STATES FOR 125 YEARS.

Prepared for THE WORLD ALMANAC by Edgar Stanton Maclay, A. M., Author of "A History of the United States Navy," "A History of American Privateers," "Reminiscences of the Old Navy," Editor of "William Maclay's Journal" (U. S. Senator from Pennsylvania, 1789-1791).

NAVY OF THE REVOLUTION.

NOTE.—Pur., purchased; Bor., borrowed; Capt., captured.

WHEN the original thirteen Colonies began their struggle for independence they had, of course, no navy. Owing to the many dangers attending commerce on the high seas, not only from the interference of British cruisers but from those of other nations—to say nothing of buccaneers—most of our merchantmen had been constructed quite as much with a view to fighting as to carrying cargoes, so that many of our merchant craft were readily converted into formidable war vessels. The first fourteen vessels in the following list were purchased merchantmen. The Alfred, for instance, had been the trader Black Prince and was renamed Alfred in honor of Alfred the Great; the Columbus had been the Sally, etc. On December 13, 1775, Congress authorized the construction of five 32-gun, five 28-gun, and three 24-gun frigates. These are the vessels in the following list marked thus *, and were the first regularly authorized and constructed warships of the United States Navy:

SUMMARY OF THE LAKE CHAMPLAIN FLOTILLA.—Seventeen vessels, carrying 118 guns, 210 swivels, and 1,061 men. The Liberty and Gates were not engaged in the fight.

THE COUNTRY WITHOUT A NAVY.

On the close of the struggle for independence the navy had been reduced to a minimum, and by 1785 the last war craft had been sold, so that from 1785 to 1797 the country was without naval protection. The arguments against a standing army and a permanent navy are well summed up by William Maclay, who, with Robert Morris, represented Pennsylvania in the first United States Senate: "It is the design of the Court party to have a fleet and an army. This is but the entering wedge of a new monarchy in America, after all the bloodshed and sufferings of a seven years' war to establish a republic. The Indian war is forced forward to justify our having a standing army, and eleven unfortunate men, now in slavery in Algiers, is the pretext for fitting out a fleet." In another place Mr. Maclay said: "This thing of a fleet has been working among our members all the session. I have heard it break out often. It is another menace to our republican institutions."

The fallacy of these arguments was soon demonstrated in a most forcible manner. British and other foreign maritime powers, and even the piratical states of Barbary, soon began to prey upon our commerce, causing losses to our merchants which amounted to millions of dollars. Washington saw the necessity of a permanent and progressive navy when he said in his message to Congress: "To an active, external commerce, the protection of a naval force is indispensable," and he added: "To secure respect to a neutral flag requires a naval force organized and ready to vindicate it from insult or aggression." The losses the country sustained from the encroachments of aliens on its commerce were many times greater than the cost of maintaining a navy adequate for its protection would have been. Viewed in whatever light it may be, the expense of maintaining a respectable and progressive navy is nothing more than a safe and economical insurance on the prosperity of the country.

Congress was quickly brought to a recognition of this truth, and on April 30, 1798, a Secretary of the Navy was added to the President's Cabinet, Benjamin Stoddert being the first to fill that office. The construction of a new navy was now begun in earnest, and the first group of warships, that was destined to make the United States navy famous, was completed.

It will be noted that in building the new navy, carronades, or guns having a short range but greater smashing power, were first generally introduced in United States warships.

The first United States warship to display our flag in the Mediterranean. (See page 358.)
 The keel of this vessel, with those of other 74-gun ships (the Virginia, Alabama, and New York), was laid in 1818, but work on her was suspended until 1848. The others were never completed.

THE NAVY IN THE CIVIL WAR.

At the outbreak of the civil war the navy of the United States consisted of 90 war craft, of which 21 were unseaworthy, 27 were out of commission, and 42 were in commission. This force was rapidly increased by purchase, chartering, and building during the war, so that by March 10, 1865, the navy list showed 717 vessels. The great majority of these vessels were craft purchased and fitted for the emergency, many of them being canal-boats, ferry-boats, while a number were sea-going passenger steamers, which cannot properly be counted as the regular warships of the United States Navy.

In 1861 the following side-wheel steamers were purchased and fitted for various services: Alabama, Augusta, Bienville, Clifton, Commodore Barney, Commodore Perry, Connecticut, Delaware, De Soto, Florida, Hatteras (sunk by the Confederate cruiser Alabama), Island Belle, Jacob Bell, James Adger, John L. Lockwood, J. N. Seymour, J. P. Jackson, Keystone State, Morse, O. M. Pettit, Quaker City, Rhode Island, Santiago de Cuba, Satellite, State of Georgia, Stepping Stones, Thomas Freeborn, Westfield, W. G. Putnam, Whitehall, Wyandank, and Yankee, making a total of 32 side-wheel steamers, mounting in all 160 guns, having 26,686 tons, and costing $2,418,103. As the war progressed the following side-wheel steamers were drafted into the service: Adela, Alexandria, Arizona, Baltimore, Banshee, Bloomer, Britannia, Cactus, Calhoun, Carrabasset, Cour de Lion, Columbine, Commodore, Commodore Hull, Commodore Jones, Commodore Macdonough, Commodore Read, Cornubia, Cowslip, Daffodil, Darlington, Elk, Ella, Ellen, Fort Jackson, Geranium, Gettysburg, Glasgow, Granite City, Harriet Lane, Harvest Moon, Heliotrope Hetzel, Hollyhock, Honduras, Hunchback, Hyacinth, King Philip, Magnolia, Malvern, Mercury, Merrimack, Meteor, Mount Washington, Nansemond, Nita, Nyanza, Oleander, Philadelphia, Phillipi, Primrose, Rodolph, Shokohon, Somerset, Southfield, Stockdale, Tallahatchie, Tennessee, Tritonia, Vanderbilt, and Wave.

There were purchased in 1861 the following screw steamers: A. C. Powell, Albatross, Cambridge, Ceres, Cohasset, Currituck, Daylight, E. B. Hale, Flag, Flambeau, Henry Andrew, Henry Brinker, Huntsville, Isaac Smith, Louisiana, Madge, Mercidita, Montgomery, Monticello, Mount Vernon, New London, Norwich, Penguin, Potomaska, R. B. Forbes, Resene, Resolute, R. R. Cuyler, Sacher, South Carolina, Stars and Stripes, Uncas, Valley City, Varina, Victoria, Wamsutta, Western World, Whitehead, and Young Rover, having a total of 20,408 tons, mounting 175 guns, and costing $2,215,037. During the war the following additional screw steamers were drafted into the service: Acacia, Admiral, Alert, Althea, Aries, Arkansas, Augusta Dinsmore, Bermuda, Buckthorn, Calypso, Camelia, Carnation, Cherokee, Circassian, Clover, Dai Ching, Dandelion, Dawn, Daylight, Dragon, Emma, Eureka, Fahkee, Faralones, Fortune, Fuchsia, Galatea, Gertrude, Glaucus, Gov. There were purchased in 1861 the following ship-rigged sailing vessels: Charles Phelps, Courier, Fearnot, Ino, Kittatinny, Morning Light, National Guard, Nightingale, Onward, Pampero, Roman, Shepard Knapp, and William Badges, mounting 52 guns, having an aggregate of 9,998 tons, and costing $313,503. The following barks were purchased: A. Houghton, Amanda, Arthur, Bramiera, Ethan Allen, Ferdinandina, Gem of the Sea, Gemsbok, Horace Beals, James C. Chambers, James L. Davis, J. C. Kuhn, Kingfisher, Midnight, Pursuit, Restless, Roebuck, and William G. Anderson, mounting 78 guns, with a total of 8,432 tons, and costing $357,400.

The following schooners were purchased in 1861: Adolph Hugel, Arletta, Bahio, Chotank, C. P. Williams, Daniel Smith, George Blunt, George Mangham, Hope, Henry Janes, John Griffith, Maria A. Wood, Maria J. Carleton, Matthew Vassar, Norfolk Packet, O. H. Lee, Orvetta, Para, Racer, Rachael Seaman, Sam Rotan, Sarah Bruen, Sea Foam, Sidney C. Jones, Sophonia, T. A. Ward, and William Bacon, mounting 48 guns, with a total of 5,203 tons, and costing $216,796. Other sailing vessels taken into the service during the war were: Albararle, the famous yacht America, Annie, Ariel, Beauregard, Ben Morgan, Carmita, Charlotte, Corypheus, Dart, Eugenie, Fox, Granite, Ironsides, Jr., Julia, Pampero, Release, Ronshaw, Rosalie, Sea Bird, Shark, Stonewall, Supply, Two Sisters, Wanderer, Wildcat.

On the Western rivers a fleet of war craft was hastily created, suited to the peculiar conditions of that service. They were all sold or broken up after the war. The river steamers Tyler, Conestoga, and Lexington were fitted up as gunboats and performed valuable services, on several occasions saving the army from defeat. The De Kalb, Carondelet, Cincinnati, Louisville, Mound City, Cairo, Pittsburgh, Benton, and Essex were formidable ironclads, which admirably withstood the heavy pounding they were subjected to. Another class of river ironclads were the Lafayette, Tuscumba, Indianola, and Chillicothe. The powerful river steamers Queen of the West, Monarch, Sumter, Samson, Lioness, Fulton, and Switzerland were fitted out as rams. Other vessels engaged on the Western rivers were the Abeona, Abraham, Alfred Robb, Antelope, Argosy, Avenger, Benefit, Black Hawk, Brilliant, Champion, Choctaw, Clara Dolsen, Collier, Colossus, Covington, Cricket, Curlew, Dahia, Daisy, Eastport, Elfin, Estrella, Exchange, Fairplay, Fairy, Fawn, Fern, Forest Rose, Fort Donelson, Fort Henry, Fort Hindman, Gamage, Gazelle, Gen. Bragg, Gen. Burnside, Gen. Grant, Gen. Lyon, Gen. Pillow, Gen. Price, Gen. Sherman, Gen. Thomas, Glide, Grampus, Great Western, Grossbeck, Hastings, Huntress, Hyacinth, Ibox, Ion, Ivy, Judge Torrence, Juliet, Kate, Kenwood, Key West, Laurel, Linden, Little Rebel, Manhattan, Marmora, Mignonette, Mist, Mistletoe, Moose, Myrtle, Naid, Naumkeag, Nettle, New Era, New National, Nymph, Oriole, Onachita, Paw Paw, Peosta, Petrel, Prairie Bird, Queen City, Rattler, Red Rover, Reindeer, Romeo, Signal, Silver Cloud, Silver Lake, Sovereign, Springfield, St. Clair, Sybil, Towah, Tempest, Tennessee, Tensas, Thistle, Undine, Victory, Vindicator, Volunteer, and William H. Brown.

The total number of vessels purchased by the Government during the war was 418, of which 313 were steamers. The total number of sea-going war vessels built or projected by the Government during the war was 211, of which 143 were wooden vessels and 68 were ironclads. These 211 war craft will now be given in detail as belonging to the navy proper in the civil war.

*Old tonnage. †Price of machinery; hull built by the Government. ‡An appropriation of $3,178,046 was made in 1873 to rebuild the Agamemnon (Terror), Puritan, Miantonomoh, Tonawanda (Amphitrite), and Monadnock. Their present tonnage is 3,990, excepting the Terror and Puritan, which are 6,060 tons.

THE NEW NAVY.

On the close of the civil war most of the vessels which the Government had under construction were left unfinished. A few were completed and were commissioned after the war. A large number were sold or broken up, and it was not until 1883 that the first ships of our present navy were begun. The first was the Dolphin, which was soon followed by the Chicago, Boston, and Atlanta. From the initial letters of these new ships they came to be known as the "A, B, C, D" of the new navy.

On April 7, 1890, the President named the twelve new warships authorized by Congress to be built, as follows: Battle-ships, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and Georgia; armored cruisers, West Virginia, Nebraska, and California; cruisers, Denver, Des Moines, Chattanooga, Galveston, Tacoma, and Cleveland.

The battle-ships Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and Georgia are described in the act authorizing them as follows: "Three sea-going coast-line battle-ships, carrying the heaviest armor and most powerful ordnance for vessels of their class upon a trial displacement of about 13,500 tons, to be sheathed and coppered, and to have the highest practicable speed and great radius of action, and to cost, exclusive of armor and armament, not exceeding $3,600,000 each."

The armored cruisers are similarly described, except that they are to cost $4,000,000 each and are to have a displacement of 12,000 tons.

The cruisers are described as "protected cruisers of about 2,500 tons trial displacement, to be sheathed and coppered, and to have the highest speed compatible with good cruising qualities, great radius of action, and to carry the most powerful ordnance suited to vessels of their class, and to cost, exclusive of armament, not exceeding $1,141,800 each."

Reigning Families

OF THE PRINCIPAL EUROPEAN COUNTRIES.

AUSTRIA-HUNGARY.

Francis Joseph I., the Emperor of Austria and King of Hungary, was born August 18, 1830, and was proclaimed Emperor of Austria after the abdication of his uncle, Ferdinand I., on December 2, 1848. He was crowned King of Hungary June 8, 1867. He married, in 1854, Elizabeth, a daughter of Duke Maximilian of Bavaria. She died by the hand of an Anarchist in Geneva, September 10, 1898. They had issue:

1. Archduchess Gisela, born 1856; married to Leopold, son of the Regent Luitpold of Bavaria. Issue, two daughters and two sons.
2. Archduke Rudolph, late heir apparent, born 1853; died by suicide 1889. He married, 1881, Stephanie, daughter of the present King of the Belgians, and had issue one daughter, the Archduchess Elizabeth, born 1883.
3. Archduchess Marie Valerie, born 1868; married, 1890, Archduke Francis-Salvator of Tuscany.

On the death of the Crown Prince, in 1889, the right of succession to the throne passed to the Emperor's eldest brother, the Archduke Charles Louis, who was born 1833, and died 1890; he married, 1862 (second marriage), the Princess Annunziata, daughter of King Ferdinand II. of Naples, and had issue the Archduke Ferdinand, born 1863, who is the heir presumptive to the throne and is unmarried; the Archduke Otto, born 1865, and married to the Princess Marie Josefa of Saxony, and has two sons (Archdukes Charles, born 1887, and Maximilian, born 1895), the Archduke Ferdinand, born 1868, and unmarried, and the Archduchess Margaret Sophia, born 1870, who married, in 1893, Albert, Duke of Württemberg. By a third marriage, the Archduke Charles Louis had two daughters.

The Emperor has a second brother, the Archduke Louis Victor, born 1842, and who is unmarried. There are eighty-six other archdukes and archduchesses of Austria, cousins of the Emperor, collateral relatives of the reigning house and members of the formerly reigning branches of Tuscany and Modena. The family is descended from Count Rudolph of Hapsburg, who was elected Emperor of Germany in 1273.

BAVARIA.

Otto, King of Bavaria, was born April 27, 1848, and succeeded his brother, Ludwig II., June 13, 1886, when that mad monarch committed suicide by drowning himself in the Starnberg Lake. Otto is also crazy, and is shut up in one of his châteaux, and the kingdom is governed by Prince Luitpold, his uncle, as regent. The latter is also the heir apparent to the throne; was born in 1821; married, 1844, the Austrian Archduchess Augusta of Tuscany, who is dead, and has four children:

1. Prince Louis, born 1845; married the Austrian Archduchess Maria Theresa, and has seven daughters and four sons, the eldest of the latter being Prince Rupert, born 1869.
2. Prince Leopold, born 1846; married to the Austrian Archduchess Gisela, daughter of the Emperor Francis Joseph I. There are two daughters and two sons.
3. Princess Theresa, born 1850.
4. Prince Arnulf, married, and has a son.

King Otto has five cousins who bear princely titles, children of his dead uncle, Adalbert. The royal house of Bavaria comes from the Counts of Wittelsbach of the twelfth century, one of whose descendants was elevated to the rank of Elector, and a later one made King by Napoleon I.

BELGIUM.

Leopold II., King of the Belgians, was born April 9, 1835, and was a son of Leopold I., Prince of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha (uncle of Queen Victoria), who was elected King of the Belgians in 1831, and Princess Louise, daughter of King Louis Philippe of France. The present King, who ascended the throne in 1865, was married, in 1853, to the Austrian Archduchess Marie Henriette, and has the following children:

1. Princess Louise, born 1858; married to Prince Philippe of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha.
2. Princess Stephanie, born 1864; married, 1881, to the late Crown Prince Rudolph of Austria, and has one daughter.
3. Princess Clementine, born 1872.

The King's brother is Prince Philippe, Count of Flanders, born in 1837; married to the Hohenzollern Princess Marie. He has renounced his right to the throne in favor of his son, Prince Albert, who is, therefore, the present heir apparent. He had two sons, the eldest being Baldwin, who died in 1891, and the other, Albert, born in 1875. Prince Philippe has also two daughters, Henriette, born 1870, and Josephine, born 1872; married, 1894, to Prince Charles of Hohenzollern-Sigmaringen.

The sister of the King is the hapless ex-Empress Carlotta of Mexico, widow of Maximilian. She was born in 1840, widowed in 1867, has no children, and is now insane.

DENMARK.

Christian IX., King of Denmark, born April 8, 1818, was Duke of Schleswig-Holstein-Sonderburg-Glücksburg, and succeeded to the throne of Denmark by virtue of treaty and the law of the Danish succession on the death of his kinsman, Frederick VII., in 1863. He married the Princess Louise of Hesse-Cassel, who died September 29, 1898, and has had the following offspring:

1. Prince Royal Frederick, born 1842; married to the Princess Louise of Sweden in 1869 and has three daughters and five sons, the eldest of the latter being Prince Christian, born in 1870, and married, 1898, Princess Alexandra, of Mecklenburg, and has a son, born 1899; and the second, Prince Charles, born 1872; married, 1896, Princess Maud, third daughter of the Prince of Wales.
2. The Princess of Wales (Alexandra), born 1844; married the Prince of Wales, 1863, and has four living children.
3. The King of the Greeks (George I.), born 1845; married to the Grand Duchess Olga of Russia, and has one daughter and five sons, the eldest of the latter being Prince Constantine.
4. The Dowager Empress of Russia (Dagmar), born 1847; married the late Czar Alexander III. in 1866, and has five children.
5. The Duchess of Cumberland (Thyra), born 1853; married the present Duke of Cumberland (English title), son of the ex-King of Hanover, in 1878, and has three sons and three daughters. She became insane in 1887.
6. Prince Waldemar, born 1858; married, 1885, the Princess Marie of Orleans, daughter of the Duke of Chartres, and has four sons and a daughter. He was elected reigning Prince of Bulgaria in 1886, but declined.

GERMANY.

William II. German Emperor and King of Prussia, was born January 27, 1859; succeeded his father, the Emperor Frederick III., June 15, 1888. He married the Princess Victoria of Schleswig-Holstein-Sonderburg-Augustenburg (born 1858), and has had issue:

1. Frederick William, Crown Prince, born 1882; 2. William Eitel-Frederick, born 1883; 3. Adalbert, born 1884; 4. Augustus, born 1887; 5. Oscar, born 1888; 6. Joseph, born 1890; 7. Victoria Louise, born 1892.

The Emperor's brother is Prince Henry, born 1862, and married, 1888, to his cousin, Princess Irene of Hesse, daughter of the late Princess Alice of England, and has two sons; and the Emperor has four sisters, all the children of the late Emperor Frederick and the Princess Victoria of England (Dowager Empress), who survives. The sisters are:

1. Princess Charlotte, born 1860; married, 1878, to George, hereditary Prince of Saxe-Meiningen, and has one daughter.

2. Princess Victoria, born 1866; married, 1890, to Prince Adolphus of Schaumburg-Lippe (Regent of Lippe-Detmold).

3. Princess Sophia, born 1870; married, 1889, to Constantine, Crown Prince of Greece, and has two sons and a daughter.

4. Princess Margaret, born 1872; married, 1893, to Prince Frederick Charles of Hesse, and has three sons.

The Emperor has an aunt, the Princess Louise, born 1838, married to the present Grand Duke of Baden; and he has a number of cousins, descendants of the brothers and sisters of the Emperor William I. One of these, Prince Albert, born 1837, is a field marshal in the German Army, and another, Princess Margaret, daughter of the late Prince Frederick Charles, is the wife of the British Duke of Connaught, son of Queen Victoria. The reigning family is descended from Frederick of Hohenzollern, a German count, in 980, and Frederick William, the Elector of Brandenburg, 1640-88, whose son became King of Prussia.

GREECE.

George I., King of the Hellenes, born December 24, 1845, elected King in 1863. He is the son of the present King of Denmark, Christian IX., and brother of the Princess of Wales and the dowager Empress of Russia. He married, 1867, the Grand Duchess Olga, eldest daughter of the Grand Duke Constantine of Russia, grand uncle to the present Emperor. They have had six living children, five sons and one daughter. The eldest son is:

Prince Constantine, born 1868; married, 1889, the Princess Sophia, sister of the present German Emperor, and has two sons, Prince George, born 1890, and Prince Alexander, born 1893, and a daughter, Princess Helen, born 1896.

The King's eldest daughter, Alexandra, married, in 1889, the Grand Duke Paul, uncle of the present Emperor of Russia, and died September 24, 1891, leaving a daughter and a son.

ITALY.

Humbert I., King of Italy, was born March 14, 1844, and was the eldest son of Victor Emmanuel, the first King of United Italy. He succeeded his father in 1878. He married, in 1868, his cousin Margherita, daughter of Ferdinand, Duke of Genoa, and they have had issue one child only:

1. Victor Emmanuel, Prince of Naples, heir apparent, born 1869; married, 1896, Princess Helene, daughter of Nicholas, Prince of Montenegro.

The following are the sisters of the King:

1. Princess Clotilde, born 1843; married, 1859, to Prince Napoleon Jerome Bonaparte, the late head of the Bonaparte family, and has issue two sons and a daughter, Letitia. (See "Bonapartists.")

2. Princess Pia, born 1847, and married, 1862, to the late King Louis of Portugal, and has two sons.

The late Prince Amadeus, brother of the King, Duke of Aosta and ex-King of Spain, born 1845; married first in 1867, and had issue three sons—Emmanuel, now Duke of Aosta, born 1869; married, 1895, Princess Helene of Orleans, daughter of the late Count of Paris, and they have had issue one child, born 1898, Amadeus; Victor, Count of Turin, born 1870, and Louis, Duke of Abruzzi, born 1873. Prince Amadeus married, second, 1888, his niece, Princess Letitia, daughter of Prince Napoleon Bonaparte and the Princess Clotilde. By this second marriage he had a son, Humbert, Count of Salemi, born in 1889.

The King's aunt by marriage, the Princess Elizabeth, widow of the Duke of Genoa, has a son (Prince Thomas, Duke of Genoa, married, 1883, Princess Isabella, daughter of Prince Adelbert of Bavaria, and has one son) and a daughter, the latter being King Humbert's wife. The family is descended from the Counts of Savoy, who flourished in the eleventh century.

NETHERLANDS.

Wilhelmina, Queen of the Netherlands and Princess of Orange-Nassau, born August 31, 1880, daughter of the late King William III. and Emma, daughter of Prince George Victor of Waldeck.

The Queen's mother is the late Regent Queen Emma, whose regency lasted from the death of the late King, her husband, November 23, 1890, until the end of the minority of her daughter, August 31, 1898. The Queen's aunt is the Princess Sophia, married to the Grand Duke of Saxe-Weimar. She has a son, Prince Charles, born 1844, and two daughters. This family, known as the House of Orange, is descended from the Princes of Orange, stadtholders during the Dutch Republic.

PORTUGAL.

Charles I., King of Portugal, born September 28, 1863, son of the late King Louis and his spouse, the Princess Pia, daughter of King Victor Emmanuel of Italy. He succeeded to the throne October 19, 1889. He married, 1886, the Princess Amelie of Orleans, daughter of the Count of Paris, and has two sons, Prince Louis Philippe, Duke of Braganza, born 1887, and Prince Manuel, Duke of Beja, born 1889.

The King has a brother, Prince Alphonse, Duke of Oporto, born 1865, and unmarried; and an aunt married to the Prince of Hohenzollern-Sigmaringen, and has three sons.

The reigning family belongs to the House of Braganza, whose founder was an illegitimate son of King John I. (A. D. 1400) of the old line of Portuguese kings.

ROUMANIA.

Charles I., King of Roumania, born April 30, 1839, is a son of the late Prince Charles of Hohenzollern-Sigmaringen, and was elected "Lord of Roumania" by the nobles thereof in 1866. He was proclaimed King in 1881. He married, 1869, Elizabeth, a daughter of the princely German House of Wied. He has no children.

The succession to the throne, in the event of his being childless, has been settled by the constitution of the kingdom upon his elder brother, Prince Leopold of Hohenzollern-Sigmaringen; but he has renounced his right to the throne in favor of his son, Prince Ferdinand, born 1865, who is, therefore, the heir presumptive. He married the Princess Marie, eldest daughter of the Duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha (the British Duke of Edinburgh), January 10, 1893, and has a son, Prince Carol, and a daughter.

RUSSIA.

Nicholas II., Emperor of Russia, was born May 18, 1868, and succeeded his father, the late Emperor Alexander III., November 1, 1894. He is married to the Princess Alice (Alix) of Hesse-Darmstadt, daughter of the Princess Alice of Great Britain, and has three daughters, Olga, born in 1895; Tatiana, born in 1897, and Marie, born in 1899.

The late Emperor Alexander III., born in 1845; married, in 1866, the Princess Dagmar, daughter of the present King of Denmark, had issue three sons: 1. Nicholas, the present Emperor; 2. Grand Duke George (the late Czarevitch), born 1871, died 1899; 3. Grand Duke Michael, born December 4, 1878, and heir apparent since the death of his elder brother, and two daughters: 1. Grand Duchess Xenia, born April 6, 1875; married, August 6, 1894, her cousin, the Grand Duke Alexander, and has a son and daughter, and 2. Grand Duchess Olga, born June 13, 1882. The uncles and aunts of the Emperor are:

1. Grand Duke Vladimir, born 1847; married, 1874, the Princess Marie of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, and has three sons and one daughter.

2. Grand Duke Alexis, High Admiral, born 1850. He is unmarried.

3. Grand Duchess Marie, born 1853; married to the Duke of Edinburgh, and has one son and four daughters.

4. Grand Duke Sergius, born 1857; married, 1884, Princess Elizabeth of Hesse-Darmstadt, daughter of Princess Alice of England, and has no issue.

5. Grand Duke Paul, born 1860; married, 1889, Princess Alexandra, daughter of the King of the Greeks. She died September 24, 1891, leaving a son, the Grand Duke Demetrius, and a daughter.

The Emperor has one grand uncle (son of the Emperor Nicholas I.), Grand Duke Michael, born 1832, field marshal in the Russian Army; married, 1857, Princess Cecelia of Baden, and has issue six living children, the eldest daughter, Anastasia, born 1860, being the wife of the late Grand Duke of Mecklenburg-Schwerin. His second son, Michael, having married outside of royalty, has been excluded from the army and his estates.

A grand uncle, the Grand Duke Constantine, born 1827; died January 12, 1892; married, 1848, Princess Alexandra of Saxe-Altenburg, and had issue five children, the Grand Duke Nicholas, born 1850, being the eldest, and the Grand Duchess Olga, born 1851, the eldest daughter, being married to the King of the Greeks.

A third grand uncle, the Grand Duke Nicholas, born 1831, field marshal in the Russian Army, died in 1891; married, in 1856, the Princess Alexandra of Oldenburg, and had issue two sons, the youngest of whom, the Grand Duke Peter, married, in 1889, Militza, daughter of the present Prince of Montenegro and sister of Crown Princess Helene of Naples (Italy).

The Russian reigning family is descended from Michael Romanoff, elected Czar in 1613. The members of the family for over two centuries, however, have married so generally into the German royal houses that the present Romanoffs are practically, by blood, Germans; as much so as their kinsman, the head of the German Empire.

SAXONY.

Albert, King of Saxony, born April 23, 1828, succeeded to the throne on the death of his father, 1873; married, 1853, Caroline, daughter of Prince Gustavus of Holstein-Gottorp-Vasa. They have no children.

The heir to the throne is the King's brother, George, born 1832; married, 1859, the Infanta Maria, daughter of the late King Ferdinand of Portugal. He has one daughter and five sons, the eldest of the latter being Prince Frederick, born 1865, and married, 1891, the Archduchess Louise of Austria-Tuscany, and has two sons.

The King has one sister, Princess Elizabeth, born 1830, who married Prince Ferdinand of Sardinia, and is a widow.

The royal house of Saxony is one of the oldest in Europe, having given an emperor to Germany as early as the beginning of the tenth century. The Elector of Saxony was made King in 1815.

SPAIN.

Alphonso XIII., King of Spain, born May 17, 1886, nearly six months after the death of his father, Alphonso XII. His mother, Maria Christina, an Austrian princess, is the Queen Regent during his minority. He has two sisters, the Infanta Maria-de-las-Mercedes, born 1880, and the Infanta Maria Theresa, born 1882.

The King's aunts are the Infantas Isabella, widow of the Count de Girgenti; Maria, wife of Prince Louis of Bavaria, and Eulalie, wife of Prince Antonio of Orleans, who visited the United States and the World's Fair in 1893.

The King's grandmother is ex Queen Isabella, born in 1830, crowned 1833, abdicated 1870. Her husband, the Infant Francis d' Assisi, born 1822, is living.

The King's grand aunt, the Infanta Louisa, widow of the Duke of Montpensier (son of King Louis Philippe of France), now dead, was the mother of a son and daughter, the latter being the wife of the late Count of Paris, head of the House of Orleans.

A second cousin of the King is Don Carlos, born in 1848, and a pretender to the Spanish throne, who is married, and has four daughters and a son, Prince Jaime, born in 1870.

SERVIA.

Alexander I., King of Servia, born August 14, 1876, son of King Milan I., who abdicated in 1889, and Natalie, daughter of Colonel Keschko, of the Russian Imperial Guard. Alexander was proclaimed King in 1889, on the abdication of his father. He is the only child of his parents. The ex-King obtained a divorce from Queen Natalie in 1888, but they were afterward reunited.

The present reigning house was founded by Milos Todorovic Obrenovic, leader of the insurrection against the yoke of Turkey in 1815-29. The Turkish Government recognized the quasi independence of Servia in 1829, and confirmed the title of Obrenovic as reigning prince. The present King is the fifth of his dynasty, being descended from a brother of the founder.

SWEDEN AND NORWAY.

Oscar II., King of Sweden and Norway, born January 21, 1829; son of Oscar I., and grandson of Marshal Bernadotte. He married, 1857, the Princess Sophia of Nassau, and has had four sons, the eldest of whom is the Crown Prince Gustavus, born 1858; married, 1881, to the Princess Victoria of Baden, and has three sons, born in 1882, 1884, and 1889 respectively. The King's other sons are: Prince Oscar, born 1859, married to Lady Ebba Munck, one of his mother's maids of honor, and relinquished his rights to the throne; Prince Carl, born 1861, and married, 1897, Princess Ingeborg, second daughter of the Crown Prince of Denmark, and Prince Eugene, born 1865. The King has a niece, Louise, married to the Crown Prince of Denmark. The royal family comes from Napoleon's Marshal Bernadotte, a Frenchman, who was elected heir apparent to the crown of Sweden in 1810, and of Norway in 1814, and became King in 1818.

WÜRTEMBERG.

William II., King of Württemberg, born February 25, 1848, succeeded his uncle, King Charles I., October 6, 1891. He married, 1877, Princess Marie of Waldeck, who died, leaving a daughter, Pauline, born 1877. The King married, second, Princess Charlotte of Schaumburg-Lippe, by whom he has no children.

The King's mother, Princess Catherine, is living, and he has an aunt, Princess Augusta, married to Prince Herman of Saxe-Weimar, with issue of four sons and two daughters. He has a number of cousins, one of them being the Duke of Teck, who was married to the English Princess Mary of Cambridge, who died in 1897.

The French Pretenders.

BONAPARTIST.

Of the Emperor Napoleon I. and his brothers Joseph and Louis, male issue is now extinct. The Emperor's brothers Lucien and Jerome are represented by the following living descendants, and they constitute the present Imperialist house of France:

Prince Victor Napoleon (of the house of Jerome), born July 18, 1862, is the son of the late Prince Napoleon (who died March 18, 1891) and the Princess Clotilde, sister of King Humbert of Italy. The Prince has been recognized by his party as the undisputed head of the Bonaparte family. He lives in Brussels and is unmarried. His only brother, Prince Louis Napoleon, born 1864, is an officer in the Russian Army. His sister, Princess Letitia, born 1866, is the widow of Prince Amadeus of Italy, her own uncle, by whom she had a son, Prince Humbert, born 1889.

The living aunt of Prince Victor Napoleon is the Princess Mathilde, born 1820, married, 1840, Prince Demidoff of Russia; now a widow without children.

Prince Charles Napoleon, brother of the late Cardinal Bonaparte, who died February 12, 1899, was the last representative of the eldest son of Napoleon's brother, Lucien, in the male line. He was born 1836; was married and had two daughters—Marie, wife of Lieutenant Glotti, of the Italian Army, and Eugénie, unmarried. He had three sisters, married respectively to the Marquis of Roccaglioine, Count Primoli, and Prince Gabrelli.

Prince Roland Bonaparte is the only living male cousin of Prince Charles Napoleon. He is a son of the late Prince Pierre Napoleon Bonaparte; was born 1858; married, 1880, the daughter of Blanc, the proprietor of the Monte Carlo gambling-bell. His wife died in 1882, leaving him a daughter and a fortune. He has one sister, Jeanne, born 1861, and married to the Marquis de Villeneuve.

Ex-Empress Eugénie, widow of Emperor Napoleon III., was a daughter of Count Cyprien de Montijo, a Spanish grandee, and was born May 5, 1826. She married 1853. Became a widow 1873. Her only son, Prince Louis Napoleon, was killed in Zululand in 1879.

BOURBON-ORLEANIST.

Robert, Duke of Orleans, born 1869, succeeded his father, the late Count of Paris, in 1894 as the head of the royal family of France. He married, in 1896, the Archduchess Marie-Dorothea, daughter of the Archduke Joseph, cousin of the Emperor of Austria. His mother (still living) was the Spanish Infanta Louise of Montpensier, and he has one brother and four sisters, the eldest of the latter being the Princess Amélie, who is married to the King of Portugal, and the second Helena, who is married to the Duke of Aosta, nephew of the King of Italy.

The only uncle of the Duke of Orleans is the Duke of Chartres, born 1840, and married to a daughter of the Prince of Joinville. The issue are two daughters and two sons, the eldest son being Prince Henry, born 1867, the eldest daughter, Princess Marie, being married to Prince Waldemar of Denmark, and the second daughter, Princess Marguerite, being married (in 1896) to Patrice MacMahon, Duke of Magenta.

The only living grand uncle (son of King Louis Philippe) of the Duke of Orleans is Francis, Prince of Joinville, born 1818, married to a daughter of Pedro I. of Brazil, and has one daughter and one son, the Duke of Penthièvre, born 1845.

The other grand uncles of the Duke of Orleans were: Henry, Duke of Anjou, born 1822, died (childless) 1897; Anthony, Duke of Montpensier, born 1824, died 1890 (married, 1832, a sister of Queen Isabella of Spain, and had a daughter, the wife of the Count of Paris, and a son, Prince Anthony, born 1860, who married, 1888, his cousin, the Infanta Pauline of Spain), and Louis, Duke of Nemours, born 1814, died 1896. He was the father of two daughters and two sons, the eldest son being the Count of Eu, born 1842, married to a daughter of Pedro II. of Brazil, and having three children, and the second son being the Duke of Alençon, born 1844, and married to a Bavarian princess (who was burned in the Paris bazaar fire in 1897), and having two children.

By the death of the Count of Chambord, in 1883, the elder line of the Bourbons of France became extinct, and the right of succession merged in the Count of Paris, grandson of King Louis Philippe, representative of the younger, or Orleans line.

Estimates of area and present population are by Whitaker, and in some cases of the "Statesman's Year-Book," except for British Africa and the late accessions there, which are corrected by Ravenstein's figures. The entire population of the empire, according to the estimates of the "Statesman's Year-Book," is 385,280,140, and the total area, 11,712,170. The East Indian possessions extend over a territory larger than the continent of Europe without Russia; but the North American possessions are greater still, and, inclusive of Hudson's Bay and the great lakes, have a larger area than the whole of Europe. British Africa and Australasia are the next possessions in size.

The British Parliament.

THE supreme legislative power of the British Empire is, by its constitution, vested in Parliament. This body consists of two houses, the Lords and the Commons.

THE HOUSE OF LORDS.

The House of Lords is composed of the whole Peerage of England and of the United Kingdom, and of certain representatives of the peerages of Scotland and Ireland, but many members of these latter hav. also English titles, which give them seats in the House. The Duke of Buccleuch sits as Earl of Doncaster, and the Duke of Leinster as Viscount Leinster. Exclusive of 1 baron, whose claim is not established, the House at present consists of 6 Princes of the Blood, 2 Archbishops, 22 Dukes, 22 Marquises, 123 Earls, 29 Viscounts, 24 Bishops, 317 Barons, 16 Scottish Representative Peers elected for each Parliament, and 25 Irish Representative Peers elected for life (1 Scottish and 2 Irish Representative Peers are also included as Peers of England)—in all, 587 members.

The Lord Chancellor of England is always the Speaker of the House of Lords.

High Commissioner in London, England, Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal, G. C. M. G. Salary, $10,000.

The Dominion of Canada has an area of 3,653,946 (including the Hudson Bay) square miles, and comprises one-sixteenth of the land surface of the globe. It is the largest of all the British possessions, Australia, the next in size, containing 2,944,628 square miles. The Government of Canada is Federal, centred at Ottawa, which city is the capital of the Dominion, while the provinces and the Northwest Territories have their respective local Legislatures. The head of the Federal Government is the Governor-General, appointed by the Queen of Great Britain, and holding office for five years, his salary being paid by the Dominion Government.

The Lieutenant-Governors of the several provinces are appointed by the Federal Government for a term of five years. The Legislatures are elected by the people of each province. The highest Court in the Dominion is the Supreme Court, composed of a Chief Justice and five Judges, each of whom receives a salary of $7,000 per annum, except the Chief Justice, who is paid an additional $1,000. From the decisions of this Court the only tribunal to which appeal can be made is to the Judicial Committee of the Imperial Privy Council of Great Britain. The only other Federal Court is the Exchequer Court, presided over by a single Judge, for trying cases connected with the revenue. All others are of a provincial character, limited to jurisdiction in their respective provinces only.

China.

THE OPENING OF THE EMPIRE TO COMMERCE.

The more rapid development of the privileges of foreigners in China and of the introduction of modern commercial methods dates from the treaty of Shimonoeki, made between China and Japan in 1854 at the close of the war between those nations and followed by a commercial treaty in 1856. The important features of these treaties were that they opened the waters of the principal rivers and canals to citizens of other nations, giving foreigners the right to purchase goods or produce in the interior of China, to rent warehouses without the payment of special taxes or exactions, and to engage freely in all kinds of manufacturing industries in the treaty ports, also to import all kinds of machinery, paying only the stipulated import duties thereon and upon products manufactured by them in China, paying only such inland transit dues as are leviable on imported merchandise (the latter provision having been somewhat modified, however, by the commercial treaty).

While the China-Japan treaty specifically conferred these provisions only on Japanese subjects, they at once became applicable to the subjects of other nations having full treaty relations with China under the most favored nation principle. The prompt result of this was a movement from all parts of the business world in the direction of China, and the establishment of business and manufacturing industries, not only in the old treaty ports, but in the new ones which were opened by the Japanese treaty and by subsequent action of the Chinese Government. This was followed by other evidences of a disposition to adopt modern methods. The railroad from Peking to Tientsin was quickly completed by the Chinese Government, and agreements made looking to the construction by foreign capital of other lines thousands of miles in length, telegraphs were extended; electric roads, electric lights, and telephones introduced in the principal cities; mining and manufacturing concessions freely granted; the West River, which penetrates Southern China from Canton westward, was opened to commerce, and finally small steamers under foreign control were given permission to penetrate to the interior limits of navigation on all the rivers of the provinces containing treaty ports.

The effect of this is already seen in the establishment of factories and business houses, the construction of railroads, the extension and multiplication of steam navigation lines, and the opening of mines in the great sections where tin, iron and coal deposits are said to be the greatest in the known world.

CONCESSIONS OBTAINED BY FOREIGN GOVERNMENTS

On November 4, 1897 the German Government seized the port of Kiaochau on the northeastern coast of China, asserting as the cause of its action the desire to obtain satisfaction for the murder of German missionaries by Chinese on November 1 of that year. This port was held by a German warship until the announcement of a treaty with China by which the port of Kiaochau and adjacent territory were leased to Germany for a term of ninety-nine years, the German Government being given the right to land troops, construct fortifications, and establish a coaling and naval station, while German subjects were to have the right to construct railways, open mines, and transact business in the rich mineral and agricultural province of Shantung in which Kiaochau is located. Chinese vessels, however, to have the same privileges in the port of Kiaochau that the German Government might decide to give to other nations.

One month later, on December 22, 1897 the Russian Government obtained permission for its naval squadron to winter at Port Arthur on the Liaotung Peninsula which it had with Germany and France in 1895 required Japan to abandon. On March 27, 1898 an agreement was signed by the Chinese Government by which Port Arthur and the adjacent port of Talienwan were leased for a term of twenty-five years to the Russian Government, the lease to be subsequently extended by mutual agreement. This lease included 800 square miles of territory and all harbors between Port Arthur and Talienwan, the harbor of Port Arthur and a part of Talienwan to be for the sole use of Russian and Chinese men of war, Russia to have the privilege of extending its trans-Siberian railroad through Manchuria to Port Arthur and Talienwan and to protect the same, during and after its construction, by Russian troops.

This action, by which the northern side of the entrance to the Gulf of Pechili leading to the capital of China was placed under control of Russia, being unsatisfactory to the British Government, a lease of the harbor of Weihaiwei, on the opposite or southern side of the entrance to the Gulf of Pechili was made to Great Britain on April 2 of the same year, 1898, the lease to be upon the same terms as that by which Port Arthur was granted to Russia and to continue as long as Russia should occupy the peninsula of Liaotung. Weihaiwei was occupied by Great Britain May 21, 1898, permission being given also to occupy the islands of the Bay of Luking and a strip of land 10 miles broad along its entire length with the privilege of erecting fortifications and occupying the adjacent coast for military and naval purposes, the walled city of Weihaiwei lying within these limits, however, to remain under control of the Chinese Government. On June 9, 1898, a lease was also made by England of an area of about 200 square miles on the mainland opposite its island of Hong Kong and surrounding the Chinese city of Kowloon, which city, however, was to remain under Chinese jurisdiction, the lease to continue for a term of ninety-nine years.

The concessions of territory to Germany, Russia and England led to a demand for similar privileges by the French Government, and on April 13, 1898 the Chinese Government leased to France the harbor of T'wangchauwan, in the Leitchan Peninsula on the southern coast, near to the French possession of Tonkin, and protecting in some degree the Gulf of Tonkin. This lease was also accompanied by the privilege of connecting the French territory of Tonkin with the Chinese province of Yunnan and the city of Yunnanfu, the harbor of Kwangchauwan to be used as a naval station. The lease was for ninety-nine years and similar in terms to that made with the German Government for Kiaochau, carrying with it exclusive mining privileges in the area to be traversed by the proposed railroads. In view of this agreement, Great Britain therefore assumes that she has now the right to extend her Burmese railroads to the province of Yunnan, in southwest China, through an agreement made with China January 15, 1896, by which all privileges to France or Great Britain in the provinces of Yunnan and Szechuan should be given to both countries.

These concessions to Germany, Russia, Great Britain and France which followed each other so rapidly in 1897 and 1898, were followed in March, 1899, by a demand by the Italian Government for similar privileges at the port of San Mun, and in April, 1899, somewhat similar demands are reported to have been made by Japan regarding certain territory on the coast opposite her island of Formosa.

In all of the above cases the countries obtaining possession of these ports have announced that at least a portion of each port will be freely open to the commerce of all nations (Port Arthur excepted), and the German Government has already arranged for the location of Chinese custom-houses at the docks which it is building at Kiaochau in order to permit goods passing to or from the interior of China to be examined and pay duty at that point, and a re-examination at the limits of the German territory thus obviated.

Australian Federation.

MOVEMENT for a federation of the Australian colonies began as far back as 1852, but the first convention having that purpose in view was held at Hobart in January, 1886. The colonies represented were Victoria, Queensland, Tasmania, Western Australia, and Fiji. South Australia sent a representative to a subsequent meeting. This effort was abortive, but another conference took place in 1891 at Sydney, N. S. W., which was attended by seven delegates from each of the colonies, except New Zealand, which sent three. Sir Henry Parkes, the Australian statesman, took an active part in the proceedings. A plan of federal government was proposed, which resembled in many of its features that of the United States. A draft bill to constitute the "Commonwealth of Australia" was adopted by the convention, and it was agreed to submit it to the approval of the individual legislatures of the several colonies. This bill met with success in the lower branch of but one colonial legislature—that of Victoria.

There was a conference of premiers of five Australian colonies held at Hobart in January, 1895, and the legislative assembly of New South Wales passed a federal enabling act in November of that year, and notice of motion was given in other parliaments to bring in a similar bill. But the first practical movement toward federation was effected early in 1898. A convention of representatives of five colonies—New South Wales, Victoria, Tasmania, South Australia, and Western Australia (Queensland and New Zealand not represented)—succeeded in drafting a constitution, which was submitted to the popular vote of each of these colonies in June. The constitution provided for a governor-general appointed by the Crown, a federal parliament composed of the Crown, represented by the governor-general, a senate, and a house of representatives. The powers of the parliament were set forth in thirty-nine articles, and covered trade with other countries, taxation, coinage, weights and measures, foreign corporations, pensions, arbitration, etc. Free trade between the states was recognized. The effort received a check in 1898 by the unwillingness of New South Wales. But by a popular vote in 1899 all six of the contracting colonies, New South Wales, Victoria, South Australia, Queensland, Western Australia, and Tasmania, gave their adhesion to the plan. New Zealand is not included, but will be taken in later, as will probably Fiji and British New Guinea. The assent of the Parliament of Great Britain will be necessary, but that will not be denied, and the confederation will doubtless present itself to Parliament when the South African war is over.

The following table shows the population and area of the several colonies of which it is proposed to make a nation. The figures are from the census of 1891:

* Egypt and the Egyptian Sudan, although nominally under the suzerainty of Turkey, are really controlled by Great Britain, and it is only a matter of time as to when they will be incorporated into the British Empire. Adding Egypt and the Sudan to the Empire would increase the figures above given to 2,817,755 square miles and 46,651,218 population.

The two Boer South African republics are not included in the British area, although Great Britain claims suzerainty and is fighting to establish it or for complete absorption.

The remaining territory of Africa unoccupied is a part of the great Desert of Sahara and the Independent States of Abyssinia and Liberia. Even this territory, except the last, is destined to pass under the power of the Europeans. The tabular figures are from "The Statesman's Year-Book."

Egyptian (British) and French territory in the Sudan, according to British claims, touch along the line of the 27th degree of latitude. Prior to the revolt of the Mahdi in 1882 Egypt claimed Darfur, Kordofan, Senaar, Taka, the Equatorial Province, and the Bahr-el-Ghazal Province. Though authority over these was lost by the success of the Mahdi, Egypt did not relinquish her claim, and her full authority was resumed by the victories of General Kitchener in 1898. The French were disposed to dispute these claims and assert a right to territory as far east as the banks of the Nile, thus covering the Bahr-el-Ghazal Province. Hence the appearance of Major Marchand at Fashoda on the Nile, many miles south of Khartoum. But this position the French have now abandoned.

The Bureau of the American Republics at Washington was established under the recommendation of the late International American Conference, for the prompt collection and distribution of commercial information concerning the American Republics. It publishes translations of the tariffs of the countries of Latin America reduced to the United States equivalents; also handbooks of these countries, and a monthly bulletin containing the latest information respecting their resources, commerce, and general features. Replies are also furnished to inquiries in relation to the commercial and other affairs of the countries, and items of news giving recent laws of general interest, development of railways, agriculture, mines, manufactures, shipping, etc., are given to the press. The Bureau is sustained by contributions from the several American Republics in proportion to their population. The Director is William Woodville Rockhill, and Chief Clerk Williams C. Fox.

National League for Good Roads.

ORGANIZED 1892. Acting President and Vice-President—General Roy Stone, Washington, D. C. Acting Secretary—Charles Freeman Johnson, San Francisco, Cal. General Western Secretary—S. Thornton K. Prime, Dwight, Ill. General Eastern Secretary—E. G. Harrison, C. E., Washington, D. C. Department of Agriculture. The present Constitution of Mexico bears date February 5, 1857, with subsequent amendments. By its terms Mexico is considered a Federative Republic, divided into States, nineteen at the outset, but at present twenty-seven in number, with two Territories and one Federal District, each having a right to manage its own local affairs, while the whole are bound together in one body politic by fundamental and constitutional laws. The powers of the Federal Government are divided into three branches—the legislative, executive, and judicial. The legislative power is vested in a Congress, consisting of a House of Representatives and a Senate; the executive in a President, and the judicial in Federal Courts. Representatives elected by the suffrage of all male adults, at the rate of one member for 40,000 inhabitants, hold their places for two years. The qualifications requisite are to be twenty-five years of age and a resident in the State. The Senate consists of two members from each State, of at least thirty years of age, who hold their places for four years. Senators are elected indirectly, half of them being renewed every two years. The members of both Houses receive salaries of $3,000 each a year.

The President is elected by electors popularly chosen in a general election, holds office for four years, and, according to the last Amendment of the Constitution, there will be no prohibition to his re-election. In case of his sudden disability, the Secretary of Foreign Affairs officiates in his place; in case of leave, death, or permanent disability, Congress elects a pro tempore President, who acts until, in either of the two last cases, a President is elected by the people. Congress has to meet annually from September 16 to December 15, and from April 1 to May 31, and a permanent committee of both Houses sits during the recesses.

* New York State census of 1892. The population of the territory embraced within the limits of "Greater New York" is about 3,300,000. The New York suburbs of New York have a population of about 500,000, which is not included in the estimate. † There has been no official census of Chicago since 1890. For the present Mayor's estimate see page 395. ‡ Official estimate. The statistics of population of largest cities of the earth other than those of the United States have been taken mainly from the "Statesman's Year-Book" for 1899. For cities of the United States see page 294.

NOTE.—The population of Chinese cities other than Canton, Peking, and Shanghai is omitted, because reports respecting it are utterly untrustworthy. There are forty or more Chinese cities whose inhabitants are numbered by rumor at from 200,000 to 1,000,000 each, but no official censuses have ever been taken; and setting aside consideration of the Oriental tendency to exaggeration, there is reason to believe that the estimates of population in many instances covered districts of country bearing the same names as the cities, instead of definite municipalities.

GOVERNMENT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

The government of the District of Columbia is vested by act of Congress, approved July 11, 1878, in three Commissioners, two of whom are appointed by the President from citizens of the District having had three years' residence therein immediately preceding that appointment, and confirmed by the Senate. The other Commissioner is detailed by the President of the United States from the Corps of Engineers of the United States Army, and must have lineal rank senior to Captain, or be a Captain who has served at least fifteen years in the Corps of Engineers of the Army. The Commissioners appoint the subordinate official service of said government. The present Commissioners are John B. Wight (Republican), President, whose term will expire May 5, 1900; John W. Ross (Democrat), whose term will also expire May 5, 1900; Captain Lausig H. Beach (non-partisan), Corps of Engineers, United States Army, detailed during the pleasure of the President of the United States. The Secretary is William Tindall. The offices of the Commissioners are 464 Louisiana Avenue, N. W., Washington.

Washington had a municipal government from 1802 to 1871. By an act approved February 21, 1871, Congress provided a territorial form of government for the entire District of Columbia, with a Governor, Secretary, Board of Public Works, and Council, appointed by the President of the United States, and a House of Delegates and a delegate in Congress elected by the citizens of said district. This form of government was abolished June 20, 1874, and a temporary government by three Commissioners substituted. The temporary government by three Commissioners was incorporated by act of July 11, 1878. Congress makes all laws for the District, and has intrusted to the Commissioners authority to make police regulations, building regulations, plumbing regulations, and other regulations of a municipal nature. For area, population, assessed valuation, etc., see preceding page.

* Date when admission took effect is given from U. S. Census reports. In many instances the act of admission by Congress was passed on a previous date. Ohio was recognized as a State by Congress on the date given. The Census reports make the date November 29, 1802, the day the Convention to form a Constitution adjourned. † The Indian Territory has no organized territorial government.

NEW COLONIAL POSSESSIONS.—Provision will be made in the Fifty-sixth Congress for the organization of new civil governments for Hawaii, Porto Rico, Guam, Tutuila (Samoa), and the Philippine Islands. At present the first named continues under the old government. Porto Rico and the Philippines are governed as military departments, and Guam by a Governor appointed by the President.

United States Military Academy at West Point.

EACH Congressional District and Territory—also the District of Columbia—is entitled to have one cadet at the Academy. There are also twenty appointments at large, specially conferred by the President of the United States. The number of students is thus limited to three hundred and eighty-one. At present there are two extra cadets at the Academy, who were authorized by Congress to enter it at their own expense from Venezuela and Costa Rica.

Appointments are usually made one year in advance of date of admission, by the Secretary of War, upon the nomination of the Representative. These nominations may either be made after competitive examination or given direct, at the option of the Representative. The Representative may nominate a legally qualified second candidate, to be designated the alternate. The alternate will receive from the War Department a letter of appointment, and will be examined with the regular appointee, and if duly qualified will be admitted to the Academy in the event of the failure of the principal to pass the prescribed preliminary examinations. Appointees to the Military Academy must be between seventeen and twenty-two years of age, free from any infirmity which may render them unfit for military service, and able to pass a careful examination in reading, writing, orthography, arithmetic, grammar, geography, and history of the United States.

The course of instruction, which is quite thorough, requires four years, and is largely mathematical and professional. The principal subjects taught are mathematics, French, drawing, drill regulations of all arms of the service, natural and experimental philosophy, chemistry, chemical physics, mineralogy, geology, and electricity, history, international, constitutional, and military law, Spanish, and civil and military engineering, and art and science of war, and ordinance and gunnery. About one-fourth of those appointed usually fail to pass the preliminary examinations, and but little over one-half the remainder are finally graduated. The discipline is very strict—even more so than in the army—and the enforcement of penalties for offences is inflexible rather than severe. Academic duties begin September 1 and continue until June 1. Examinations are held in each January and June, and cadets found proficient in studies and correct in conduct are given the particular standing in their class to which their merits entitle them, while those cadets deficient in either conduct or studies are discharged.

From about the middle of June to the end of August cadets live in camp, engaged only in military duties and receiving practical military instruction. Cadets are allowed but one leave of absence during the four years' course, and this is granted at the expiration of the first two years. The pay of a cadet is $540 per year, and, with proper economy, is sufficient for his support. The number of students at the Academy is usually about three hundred and fifty.

Upon graduating cadets are commissioned as second lieutenants in the United States Army. The whole number of graduates from 1802 to 1899, inclusive, has been three thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine (3,939). It is virtually absolutely necessary for a person seeking an appointment to apply to his Member of Congress. The appointments by the President are usually restricted to sons of officers of the army and navy, who, by reason of their shifting residence, due to the necessities of the service, find it next to impossible to obtain an appointment from a Congressional District.

The Academy was established by act of Congress in 1802. An annual Board of Visitors is appointed, seven being appointed by the President of the United States, two by the President of the Senate, and three by the speaker of the House of Representatives. They visit the Academy in June, and are present at the concluding exercises of the graduating class of that year. The Superintendent is Colonel Albert L. Mills, United States Army, and the military and academic staff consists of sixty-two persons. First Lieutenant William C. Rivers, First Cavalry, is adjutant.

The two oldest living graduates of the Military Academy are Joseph Smith Bryce, of the District of Columbia, and Thomas A. Davies, of New York, who were graduated in 1829.

United States Naval Academy at Annapolis.

THERE are allowed at the Academy one naval cadet for each Member or Delegate of the United States House of Representatives, one for the District of Columbia, and ten at large. The appointment of cadets at large and for the District of Columbia is made by the President. The Secretary of the Navy, as soon after March 5 in each year as possible must notify in writing each Member and Delegate of the House of Representatives of any vacancy that may exist in his district. The nomination of a candidate to fill the vacancy is made, on the recommendation of the Member or Delegate, by the Secretary. Candidates must be actual residents of the districts from which they are nominated.

The course of naval cadets is six years, the last two of which are spent at sea. Candidates at the time of their examination for admission must be not under fifteen nor over twenty years of age and physically sound, well formed, and of robust constitution. They are examined, mentally by the academic board in reading, writing, spelling, arithmetic, geography, English grammar, United States history, world's history, algebra through quadratic equations, and plane geometry (five books of Chauvenet's Geometry or an equivalent). Deficiency in any one of these subjects may be sufficient to insure the rejection of the candidate. They enter the Academy immediately after passing the prescribed examinations, and are required to sign articles binding themselves to serve in the United States Navy eight years (including the time of probation at the Naval Academy), unless sooner discharged. The pay of a naval cadet is $500 a year, beginning at the date of admission.

Appointments to fill all vacancies that may occur during a year in the lower grades of the Line of the Navy and of the Marine Corps will be made from the naval cadets, graduates of the year, at the conclusion of their six years' course, in the order of merit as determined by the Academic Board of the Naval Academy.

At least fifteen appointments from such graduates are made each year. Surplus graduates who do not receive appointments are given a certificate of graduation, an honorable discharge and one year's sea pay.

The Academy was founded in 1845 by the Hon. George Bancroft, Secretary of the Navy in the Administration of President Polk. It was formally opened October 10 of that year, with Commander Franklin Buchanan as Superintendent. During the Civil War it was removed from Annapolis, Md., to Newport, R. I., but was returned to the former place in 1865. It is under the direct supervision of the Bureau of Navigation, Navy Department. Rear-Admiral F. V. McNair, United States Navy, is the present Superintendent.

ORGANIZATION OF THE UNITED STATES REGULAR ARMY.

The Congress of the United States, by act of March 4, 1899, reorganized the army on the following basis: The President was authorized to maintain the Regular Army at a strength not exceeding 65,000 enlisted men, to be distributed among the several branches of the service, including the Signal Corps, and to raise a force of not more than 35,000 volunteers to be recruited as he may determine from the country at large, or from localities where their services are needed. Under this provision the strength of the army is 100,000 men.

All enlistments for the volunteer force shall be for the term of two years and four months, unless sooner discharged.

The act also provides that the increased regular and volunteer force shall continue in service only during the necessity therefor and not later than July 1, 1901.

United States Army Recruiting Requirements.

APPLICANTS for first enlistment must be between the ages of eighteen and thirty-five years, of good character and habits, able-bodied, free from disease, and must be able to speak, read, and write the English language.

No person under eighteen years of age will be enlisted or re-enlisted, and minors between the ages of eighteen and twenty-one years must not be enlisted without the written consent of father, only surviving parent, or legally appointed guardian.

Original enlistments will be confined to persons who are citizens of the United States, or who have made legal declaration of their intention to become citizens thereof.

Married men will be enlisted only upon the approval of a regimental commander.

Applicants will be required to satisfy the recruiting officer regarding age and character, and should be prepared to furnish the necessary evidence.

For infantry and artillery the height must be not less than five feet four inches, and weight not less than one hundred and twenty (120) pounds and not more than one hundred and ninety (190) pounds.

For cavalry the height must be not less than five feet four inches and not more than five feet ten inches, and weight not to exceed one hundred and sixty-five (165) pounds. No minimum weight is prescribed for cavalry, but the chest measures must be satisfactory.

The following are the rates of pay as fixed by law:

NOTE.—The above table is incomplete. Many of the States have not reorganized their militias since the end of the Spanish-American War of 1898. Others have their returns in an incomplete condition, while some will not report any figures at present.—W. R. H.

Naval Militia.

THE Naval Militia is now organized in eighteen States and in the District of Columbia, as follows: California, Captain L. H. Turner; Connecticut, Lieutenant-Commander A. H. Day; District of Columbia, Commander S. G. Hopkins; Florida, Commander J. W. Fitzgerald; Georgia, Commander F. D. Aiken; Illinois, Captain R. M. Shaffner; Louisiana, Commander J. W. Bostick; Maryland, Commander I. E. Emerson; Massachusetts, Captain J. W. Weeks; Michigan, Commander G. Wilkes; New Jersey, Battalion of the East, Commander W. Irving; Battalion of the West, Commander H. R. Cohen; New York, Captain J. W. Miller; North Carolina, Commander G. L. Morton; Ohio, Lieutenant-Commander A. U. Betts, commanding First Battalion, Lieutenant-Commander G. R. McKay, commanding Second Battalion; Oregon, Lieutenant-Commander W. A. Sherman; Pennsylvania, Commander J. S. Muckle; Rhode Island, Commander W. M. Little; South Carolina, Commander R. H. Pinckney; Virginia, Commander H. L. Cannon.

The proper duty of the Naval Militia in time of war should be to man the coast and harbor defence vessels, thus leaving free the regular force to carry on offensive operations at sea.

All matters relating to the Naval Militia come under the cognizance of the Assistant Secretary of the Navy. Total enlisted force of petty officers and men on January 1, 1899, 5,439. The Navy Department transacts all its business with the Naval Militia through the Governors and the Adjutants-General of the States. The officer of the Navy Department at Washington having cognizance of Naval Militia matters is Lieutenant W. H. H. Southerland, U. S. N.
